JUDGE ENRIGHT AFTER MOTOR LAW VIOLATORS

"High Time That Careless and Reckless Driving Was Curbed" Says Local District Court Justice

Automobilists arrested for alleged violations of the motor vehicle laws will receive no mercy in the local court, Judge Thomas J. Enright declared at the district session this morning after J. Robert Johnson of Leominster, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Conway on Bridge street and charged with operating an automobile without a license, failed to appear in court and was pronounced defaulted.

Not only at this juncture did the judge make known his feelings on this matter, but also after the day's session was completed he told The Sun reporter that he intended making auto law offenders "see the mark" in court hereafter.

"They will absolutely receive no mercy at my hands," stated the justice.

LOWELL IS TRYING HARD TO AVOID ACCIDENTS

Lowell, like other cities and towns in New England, is doing its darndest to make a record in No Accident Week. Every method known is being practiced by public officials and private citizens alike to keep the list of accidents as low as possible.

There are certain accidents which seem to be unpreventable despite every precaution taken. It is accidents of the careless sort advocates of the No Accident week are attempting to eliminate.

On the first day Lowell had one death reported, that when a man was killed by a fall from a bridge to the top of a moving train. But as a rule other accidents reported were of a minor nature, medical assistance being necessary in only one or two cases.

Two incidents happened yesterday that may be classed as accidents, but their results were so uninjuring, that

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Action Delayed Until Council Can Talk With Consulting Engineer

The greater part of this morning's session of the municipal council was taken up with a discussion of the request of the Engineering Service & Construction company of Boston that it be allowed to close all of Central bridge to traffic with the exception of one sidewalk and a narrow stretch of roadway already reconstructed. The company, through its attorney, Fred N. Wiley, insisted that under the terms of its contract, it had the right to do this and asserted that the people of Centralville would rather have the entire bridge finished within a few months and have the structure closed in the interim, rather than have the job extend through the winter.

MAYOR APPOINTS NEW POLICEWOMAN

Mayor Perry D. Thompson today announced the temporary appointment of Miss Martha Costello, of 167 Pleasant st., as a policewoman to succeed Mrs. Nora H. Leary, who recently resigned.

Miss Costello's name does not appear on the civil service list. The only names on that list are those of Miss Mary A. Shupure, of 118 Chestnut st., and Miss Inez G. Lowell, who resigned from the department some time ago. Inasmuch as neither of these women want the position, the mayor has sought permission to make a provisional appointment with Miss Costello as his choice. The latter has accepted the appointment. She is very well known in Belvidere.

THREE DIE AS U. S. SUB SINKS

R-6 Went Down Within 60 Seconds Off the Pacific Coast

Disaster Believed to Have Been Caused by Water Rushing in Torpedo Tube

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Sept. 27.—Three men are believed to have lost their lives when the United States submarine R-6 sank in the outer harbor here last night, the result of an unexplained accident, it was stated at the submarine base here today.

Lieut. I. R. Chambers, who was in command of the submarine R-6, is reported to have been the last man to escape from the craft when it sank.

After Lieut. Chambers left the submarine he immediately began to aid members of the crew unable to swim.

The Way-Side Pulpit

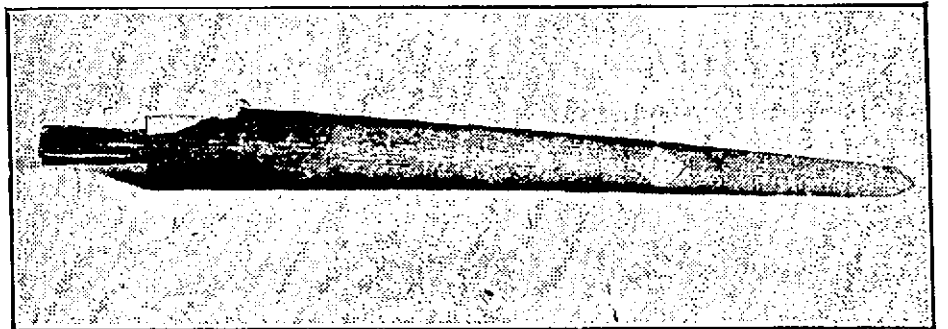

One can do a whole lot of good outside the Church edifice and even preach effectively outside the Pulpit. No clergyman can take exceptions to such claim. So we continue babbling in our own weak way. "Don't shoot; he's doing his best!"

Answer this: How can a Parent believe he or she is living the Correct Life, a Life entitled to all the hopes for Rewards of Future Life, if he falls in this life to provide for those he or she brought into this world? How indeed, if he or she fails to inculcate in the minds of the children, the great Blessing that will follow the Habits of THRIET. How great is that RESPONSIBILITY. However, one should certainly practice what they PREACH. The EXAMPLE one sets to others is very effective PREACHING. Savings Deposits at

Historic Find By Sewer Gang, Dug Up At Edge of Hale's Brook

OLD TIME WAR WEAPON UNEARTHED ON BANK OF HALE'S BROOK

May Have Been Sword of Some Indian Chief—Dispute as to Whether it is Petrified Wood or Spear of a Swordfish

Here is a story of a war-like relic of early days that will surely interest and even puzzle our ablest historians and antiquarians.

Foreman Owen Tirhe, in charge of the sewer gang working on Congress street sewer has dug up a very remarkable sword which may date back to Indian days. For the last two days

it has been the subject of much controversy in the neighborhood and especially at the fire house of Steamer No. 1, corner of Gorham and Olive streets. The sword was struck by the pick of one of the excavators twenty-three feet below the surface near the edge of Hale's brook under which the sewer is to be laid. The weapon is three feet long with a hilt of five inches. It was broken about ten inches from the point and the break showed the material whether petrified wood or bone, to be perfectly sound. Outwardly especially on one side the sword shows the grain of oak and even the color; but the other side is dark and shows no grain although

DRY LAW VIOLATORS Street Bootleggers Our Worst Menace, Says Judge

A fine of $150 was imposed on another violator of the Volstead act in the district court this morning, although Judge Enright expressed himself as "having a good mind to give the defendant a direct jail sentence."

"They are doing it in Boston," commented the justice, "and that's the only way to stop this liquor traffic. Street bootleggers are the worst menace we have."

The defendant, Victor Fernandez, of Charles street, pleaded guilty to making an unlawful sale and paid the fine.

Sergeant Michael Winn of the liquor squad told the court that Fernandez sold a half pint of moonshine for one dollar to a man sent to him by the police last night. The officer also testified that men had been seen congregating on the steps of Fernandez.

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The Civil Service department issued a statement today through Commissioner Dana which reported stoppage of pay of 132 laborers of Lowell from the street and highway department. The curtailment became effective Saturday.

Commissioner Dana has no objection to frequent employment of laborers and is anxious to relieve conditions caused by unemployment. His only objection to the Lowell employment question is the method of selection concerning which there have been many complaints by veterans and other laborers.

Commissioner Dana requires laborers shall be taken from civil service list.

AMERICAN RELIEF WORKERS IN RUSSIA

The first picture to reach America showing an American Relief Administration train loaded with trucks, food and other supplies in Russia. The men in the foreground are A. R. THREE STORIES OF REAL ROMANCE

MRS. BLANCHE SCOTT LEE

"But, you must call Mr. Lee up. I want you to meet him." Thus wrote a girl friend from Chicago to Blanche Scott, who is now Mrs. Lee of Council Bluffs, Ia., and chairman of the National Humane society.

The Chicago girl had been visiting in Omaha with Miss Scott and had been showered with attention from Mr. Lee, who had been a friend of some years' standing. However, introductions had been omitted. In fact, it happened that Miss Scott, who was a secretary and was working exceptionally long hours just then, never even glimpsed the man who was entertaining her visitor so royally.

So Miss Scott refused to telephone the unknown Mr. Lee until the Chicago girl gave her a message for him which had to be delivered. Miss Scott telephoned. Mr. Lee felt that the least he could do in return for the courtesy was to call and express his thanks in person!

That was in February. In June they were married!

But, in the Canadian Rockies, is the place in which the romance of the life of the president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. T. G. Winter, began. It was there that she met Mr. Winter.

"Mr. Winter had come from England and was traveling. My brother and I were also traveling. It seems to have been a case of love at first sight on both sides," says Mrs. Winter, "but, since we have been happy together for 25 years, we contradict all of the theories of danger connected with that foolish state of mind!"

A law office is something of a routine place.

But a girl, who loved dancing and out-of-door sports, was picturesquely southern and of that happy social type, found in the law office of her uncle someone who interested her in law!

She married the "somebody" and so became Mrs. Julian B. Salley, president director of the third region of the National League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Salley later began a serious study of law in her husband's office. When, at the close of the war, so much money was needed by the League of Women Voters to further their cause, Mrs. Salley gave up studying and opened a real estate and insurance office in which she has been singularly successful—due, says she, "to the sympathy and support of an understanding husband."

Mrs. Mary Salls, 33 B street, says: "My kidneys were always weak and the least cold I took settled in my back and kidneys. My back ached and I felt dull and weak. My kidneys acted irregularly, at times. The medicine I was using didn't help me at all, so I tried Doan's Kidney Pills. They were just what I needed and they helped me wonderfully. Doan's relieved the backache and regulated my kidneys. I know they can be beat for kidney complaint."

D. W. Hilliard, captain in city fire department, 23 Osgood street, says: "Several years ago I hurt my back by a fall and it weakened my kidneys. At different times, my back became weak and there was a dull, constant pain in the small of it. If I bent over the pains seemed to be sharp and it was quite difficult for me to straighten up. Whenever I have had these attacks, Doan's Kidney Pills have given me relief." (Statement given October 22, 1914).

STILL PRAISES DOAN'S
On February 17, 1919, Mr. Hilliard said: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills is as strong as ever. I know they are a reliable kidney remedy and will do what is claimed for them. They helped me wonderfully."

Mrs. M. L. Wells, 19 Franklin street, says: "My kidneys were weak and usually in the spring, I had attacks of backache. I also felt dull and run down and had no energy at all. My work seemed a burden to me. My kidneys acted irregularly. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I have always used at those times, have never failed to put my kidneys in good order and restore my strength. They also have relieved the backache and other signs of kidney complaints."

P. G. Townsend, 14 Somerset street, says: "There was a dull, constant throbbing in the small of my back. My back was stiff and sore. The kidney secretions began to pass too frequently and I had to get up at night. The secretions were also highly colored. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended that I got a box. Doan's cured the trouble and there has never been a return of it."

GIRL GAGGED AND AS-FOUR CHILDREN SAULTED BY BOYS

WESTFIELD, Sept. 27.—While her escort was obliged to look on, Miss Anna Filla, a 14-year-old nurse girl employed in the family of Mayor Geo. Seale, was dragged into Pine Hill cemetery on Saturday night, and after being gagged, was attacked by one young man while another held her. This fact did not come to light until yesterday, when the police arrested Edward O'Brien, aged 16, of 63 King street, and Raymond Conway, aged 19, of 63 Meadow street, charging them with criminal assault on Miss Filla. The young men were questioned at length by the police, and after the killing it was stated that both admitted their guilt. They will be arraigned in the district court today.

FOUR CHILDREN ELECTROCUTED

Killed When Trolley Pole of One-Man Car Broke Feed Wire of 13,000 Volts

Nine Others in Car Escape Through Heroic Work of Motorman Hertel

KINGSTON, Sept. 27.—Four children were electrocuted here yesterday when they jumped from a car after the trolley pole had broken a high tension feed wire. The dead are: Natalie Robbins, 12 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton A. Robbins; Richard Sloan, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sloan; Ruth Mills, 7, daughter of Mrs. Arthur E. Mills; and Jennie Borech, 3, daughter of Frank Borech.

Nine other children on the car escaped injury through the presence of mind of Motorman Albert Hertel, who kept them in the car until the current was shut off.

The children were being taken home from the lower primary and Maple Avenue grammar schools. All of them lived in Northwest Kingston.

Carried School Children

The trolley car was what is known as the school car and takes children from the schools to their home along the line as far as Plympton. It was a one-man car for the Brockton & Plymouth Electric railroad.

As it rounded the curve approaching the bridge over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tracks on Pembroke street, the trolley pole left the wire. Hertel stepped the car and went out to adjust it while the high tension wire that carries 13,000 volts from the head electric station at East Bridgewater to the transforming station came down, having been burned in two by coming in contact with the trolley.

At this moment the electricity shot through the car burning out the lamps and jumping all over the interior. The children all made a break for the door and four of them, as they rushed out, came in contact with the high tension wire that was shooting forth fire on the step and were instantly killed.

Shouted Warning in Vain

Motorman Hertel said that as soon as he saw that the high tension wire was down, he shouted to the children not to come out, as the charged wire was alongside the side of the car, but the leaders paid no attention to him.

Hertel telephoned as quickly as he could to have the current shut off and then tried to get the children away from the car. The news soon spread and in a short time automobiles crowded with people began to arrive.

Jennie Borech, when she fell, went under the car, and as the air in the brakes let up the car slid back over the bridge, where it lay until a wrecking crew from Plympton arrived. The clothing on the dead children was nearly all burned from their bodies and they were badly burned.

Hertel was knocked unconscious when he thought he saw signs of life in one of the bodies and tried to pick it up. He recovered.

Dr. N. K. Noyes, assistant medical examiner of this district, was summoned and had the bodies removed to undertaking rooms of J. J. Shepard & Son, of this town.

GREENVILLE JUNCTION, Me., Sept. 27.—Search of the woods near Northeast Carry was made today for the body of a woodsman known as Campbell, believed to have been killed in a quarrel. Deputy Sheriff A. G. Rogers held Allen Twitchell, another woodsman, in the jail here, announcing that he admitted shooting Campbell Sunday night and asserted he acted in self-defense. Campbell ran away after being wounded, he said. The man has not been seen since and Sheriff Rogers said it appeared probable that the body would be found in the woods.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem Here They Come

(With Apologies to Kipling)

NOW the blazing summer's ended, now the baseball season dies,
Now the tennis days are drawing to a close;
Now the schoolroom's full of children, now the bowlers all arise,
Now the billiardists awaken from their doze;
Now the students flock to college in the splendor of their youth
And the air is like a draft of tingling wine;
Now we cease to talk of Speaker or of Cobb or even Ruth
For the football heroes start to hit the line!

We must go, go, go away from here,
On the sidelines we're a little overdue:
Oh there's thrills enough before you
When the football fever's o'er you
And the Great Game calls to you!

NOW the tackling dummy's ready, now the coaches bawl and shout,
Now the pigskin goes in spirals to the sky;
Now the leaders of the cheering cheer crazily about
And the thunder of the rooters makes reply;
Who shall tell of sport more splendid, who shall praise a braver game,
Who shall sing of any spectacle so fine
As when mighty gridiron battles set your pulses all aflame
And the football heroes hurtle through the line!

We must go, go, go away from here,
On the sidelines we're a little overdue:
Oh there's thrills enough before you
When the football fever's o'er you
And the Great Game calls to you!

UNTIL each his Alma Mater where his heart is ever homing, Yale or Harvard, Penn or Princeton, Texas, Michigan, Wyoming,
You will pray for yours to win and I for mine;
When the pass goes sailing forward, when the stands are all a-clamor,
When the quarter gives the signal and the sign;
When the dodging back is tackled, when the grimy line they hammer,
When the drop kick clears the goal-posts and the maddened rooters yammer,
When the heart and lungs are bursting—oh there's nothing like the glamor
As the football heroes hurtle through the line!

We must go, go, go away from here,
On the sidelines we're a little overdue:
Oh there's thrills enough before you
When the football fever's o'er you
And the Great Game calls to you!

Twins Play Flanks on Bowdoin Eleven

BRUNSWICK, Me., Sept. 27.—Opponents of the Bowdoin college football team this fall probably will conclude that they are opposed by the fastest end ever or that they are seeing double. Bowdoin has twin brothers playing the opposing flanks on its eleven. They are Charles Hildreth and Horace Hildreth of Gardiner, Me., and they look so much alike that Coach Fred Ostergren has been unable so far, to tell them apart. The coach is not certain yet whether one or both the brothers is very good. An opposing player starting for one end of the line to find a man cutting in on him and who turns to the other end for escape, will be perplexed to find apparently the same man awaiting him.

DRESS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

MRS. OELRICHS, BUSINESS AND SOCIETY WOMAN, IN HER SUIT-PROCK OF TAUPE DUVETYN.

By N.E.A. Service
NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.—A Newport society woman has solved the dress problem for the modern woman of affairs.
Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs, a member of the exclusive inner circle, has recently opened an importing shop near the Casino.
Her double role of society and business woman demands that she be dressed for every contingency, but allows her no time for frequent changing. She found that the problem of being dressed for her hours in the trading company and being equally ready for luncheon at the Hippodrome was perplexing.
So she had the Wooltex designers make her a costume which she is now using for all occasions except evening attire. She will wear costumes following this design in her New York shop on East 41st street this fall.

On the street or for motoring it is a tailored suit. Indoors, with the coat off, it is a sleeveless dress worn with a silk blouse.
"I am a believer in discriminatingly simple dress," says Mrs. Oelrichs. "I feel that the fascinations of business are rivaling the fascinations of clothes, and that the women who do things simply can't be annoyed with the futile whims of fashion."

Daugherty as the result of an attempt to ship riot guns to Ireland, demanded an immediate hearing when arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock today. At the request of Asst. Dist. Atty. Mattuck, however, the hearing was set for Oct. 10, Rorke being permitted liberty under $3000 bail.

DOUBTS MRS. LAWS COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Doubt that Mrs. Grace Laws killed herself after fatally wounding Miss Mildred Hanan last week was created yesterday by a report which Dist. Atty. Lewis of Brooklyn said had moved him to continue his investigation of the case.

The report reaching him, he stated, said that Mrs. Laws might not have died of her own hand and that another man besides John S. Borland was near by when she shot Miss Hanan.

Dist. Atty. Lewis said he would have a careful examination made of the body of Mrs. Laws, which remains unclaimed at the morgue. There it was said the remains would be committed to a potter's field if not claimed.

Miss Hanan died Sunday without clearing up the mystery of the shooting. Her body was taken yesterday to the Brooklyn home of her brother, Alfred Hanan, where the funeral will be held Wednesday.

Miss "Billie" Williams, a friend of Mrs. Laws, was unable to supply a motive for the shooting when questioned by Reuben Wilson, assistant district attorney. A letter addressed to Miss Williams was found among Mrs. Laws' possessions after the shooting. It revealed Mrs. Laws' intention of committing suicide and requested that her body be cremated and sent to California.

Miss Williams told Mr. Wilson that Mrs. Laws suffered for several years from an intestinal ailment and she may have had recourse to liquor and drugs while seeking relief from the terrible pains to which she was subjected.

Alfred Hanan also was questioned, but threw little light on the mystery. Mr. Wilson said, Borland and Miss Dorothy Gottschalk, outside, whose apartment the shooting occurred, will be questioned today.

The need for some association composed of seizable men from the formation of the English soldier from the time he was enlisted into Kitchener's mob until his return to "Blighty."

The speaker was well qualified for his subject as he enlisted as a private, worked his way to a commission and was finally put in command of his original detachment.

DECISION ON OIL CASE BY MEXICAN COURT

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27. (By the Associated Press).—Property acquired by oil corporations to May 1, 1917, cannot be construed as coming within the provisions of Article 27 of the Mexican constitution which nationalizes petroleum deposits. This is the view of several legal authorities who last night examined the formal decision in the Texas Co. Amparo case which was handed down last night by the Mexican supreme court. Members of the court admitted that paragraph 4 of article 27 contained "perplexing problems," but they concurred in the decision that this article could not impair titles to property perfected before the constitution went into effect.

George T. Summerlin, American charge d'affaires in this city, obtained a copy of the decision last night. He will forward it immediately to the state department in Washington, but refused to comment on the court's action.

The document was very lengthy, containing more than 1000 words. The supreme court reversed the lower court's ruling, but did not find that President Carranza exceeded his powers when he issued the decree ordering the denationalization of the Texas Co.'s properties under the provisions of article 27.

"Paragraph 4 of article 27," said the section of the decision dealing with the non-retroactivity of the article in question, "cannot be regarded as retroactive, either in its text or its spirit. It does not attack acquired rights."

Principals in Shooting of Hanan Heiress

Mrs. Grace Laws (left) who committed suicide after shooting Miss Mildred Hanan (right) daughter and heir of the late A. P. Hanan, millionaire shoe manufacturer. The shooting took place in Brooklyn, in the presence of John S. Borland, the New York exporter, who was seeing Miss Hanan home. Borland told police that he was a friend of both women, and added: "Mrs. Laws had no reason to be infatuated with me." In a last letter to her mother, Mrs. Laws said: "Too much high life," in explaining her illness.

SEN. WILLIAMS

OPPOSE TREATIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Senate warfare over the German peace treaty was resumed yesterday and informal canvasses of republican and democratic leaders were said to show about a dozen senators in opposition—three of them republicans.
A notable accession yesterday to the opposition ranks was Senator Williams of Mississippi, veteran democrat, member of the foreign relations committee. Although he had declared himself previously in favor of ratification, Senator Williams announced to the senate that he had decided finally to vote against, because "desertion of the allies was involved."
Democratic senators will meet today to discuss their positions. Senator Underwood of Alabama, democratic leader, issued the conference call after consulting Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee. It was said there was no intention to caucus or bind senators.

Senator Lodge urged prompt ratification, while Senator Borah, republican, irreconcilable, spoke two hours in opposition. Another republican "irreconcilable," Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, and Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, intervened in favor of ratification.

Asserting that the new treaty would entangle this nation in European affairs, Senator Borah emphasized predictions that America would be required to participate in the allied reparations, conditions and decorations involved in European affairs. Senator Brandegee declared against such participation.

The reparations commission was denounced as "a militaristic government" by Senator Borah, who declared European reparations were not involved in the Versailles treaty had been changed. "You could have gotten out of this league, but you can't get out of this for 40 years," said Senator Borah, referring to the term of German indemnity payments. He predicted that eventually the German people would rebel against the Versailles treaty terms.

Deplored a policy of national isolation, Senator Williams said that at first "in moments of pessimism," he had been inclined to support the new treaty. Later, he said, he had come to feel of "disgust and despair" and he had finally concluded to oppose ratification "because I will not be a party to any agreement that leaves out our allies and associates of the war and our boys and the other boys who died on the fields of battle."

HEROES OF LAND AND SEA

OPEN CONVENTION

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Heroes of land and sea, members of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor of the United States, comprising those who have been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor or the Distinguished Service Cross, opened a two days' convention here today. Former Governor Samuel H. Kings of Vermont, a leader of Union forces in the Civil war, and Capt. Samuel B. Horne, said to be the first from Connecticut to volunteer in the Civil war, were among the heroic veterans greeted by Mayor Peters and a citizens' committee.

A plan to continue the life of the organization by the creation of a second class of membership, to which the lineal descendants of the members would be eligible, will be considered by the convention.
A dinner at which Governor Cox, Mayor Brewster and Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards will be guests of honor, will close the gathering tomorrow night.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD OF GOVERNORS MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the board of governors of the Y.M.C.A. held in that institution last night showed the association was making steady progress despite the general business depression.

After supper was served at 6:30 by Mrs. Stephen W. Hands and the Ladies' Auxiliary regular business routine was taken up. Louis A. Olney presiding. Reported on the work of the chairman of the various committees.

Walter W. Cleworth was elected treasurer to succeed C. R. Redway who has held the position for some time. The report of the membership committee showed a total of 1408, including 234 in the men's department and 474 in the boys'. This year shows a gain of 103 members.

At the present time there are 102 men living in the dormitory. Nearly 150 transients have been accommodated since June 1.

During the summer months the attendance in the physical department in the men's department was as follows: June, 1921; July, 3520; August, 2024; September to date, 1921. Totals, 12,130.

Arrangement has been made with H. E. Hockman, physical director for the building program. Ernest Hale, assistant physical director at Wilmington, Del., will be associated with Mr. Hockman.

During the summer months two meetings of the Lowell Society of Industrial Science were held and three meetings of the Lowell safety council, one of which was public were in session.

As usual the Y.M.C.A. camp for boys was conducted at Camp Nabassett by T. R. Williams. The greatest number of boys there at any one time was 131. The other directors present included: Benjamin W. Clement, W. A. Cleworth, Harry G. Pollard, H. W. Thorne, S. H. Thompson, Abel R. Campbell, W. K. Howe, Donald M. Cameron, William T. Sheppard, L. A. Onley, Ous W. Butler, C. F. Flemings, H. J. Ball, B. H. Wiggin, Walter Clement, W. H. C. Wright, H. Hutchins Parker, C. T. Upton and General Secretary H. F. Howe.

THE MARDI GRAS DANCERS

Perhaps one of the most attractive groups in the Girls' club play, "Springtime," which will be presented at the Opera House, Oct. 17 and 18, is that of the Mardi Gras dancers. The girls will be dressed in the ever-pleasing costume of the Harlequin and Columbine and will enact an up-to-the-minute modern jazz dance. Some of the best dancers of the high school have been selected for this chore and are as follows: The Misses Hazel McHale, Margaret Goggin, Miriam Lannan, Marian McDonald, Josephine Park, Margaret Reynolds, Elizabeth Joyner, Dorothy Ward, Hazel Manning, Margaret Holgate, Anna Harris and Frieda Atkinson.

In direct contrast to this group will be the aesthetic number, "Spirit of Memories," a purely interpretive dance. The girls will dance in soft clinging costumes with veils and in the changing lights make a pretty picture indeed. The personnel of this group is the Misses Dorothy Young, Billie Mincan, Annabelle Muehlan, Bernice Wood, Katharyn Sullivan, Anna Egan, Armandine Lalonde, Marie Lalonde, Laur Edmonds, Alice O'Brien, Dorothy Ryan and Georgianna Lalonde.

Coal from China is now being shipped to the United States.

Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes' Earnings Exceed Husband's Pay as Senator

MRS. FRANCES PARKINSON KEYES

(By N.E.A. Service)

NORTH HAVERHILL, N. H., Sept. 27.—To be the wife of a United States senator would satisfy most women's ambition.

To mother three lively boys would keep most women occupied.

But this is only part of it with Frances Parkinson Keyes, whose revenues from her writings exceed the salary of her husband as senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. Keyes is putting a new novel, "The Career of David Nobel," on the market in October.

Also she is vice president of the League of American Penwomen and business manager of their magazine, "The Penwoman"; vice president of the Children of the American Revolution; adviser on the national council of the Y.W.C.A.; state chairman for New Hampshire of the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial association; head of the publicity work of the Congressional club, which issues a weekly bulletin; and—

But to exhaust the list would merely exhaust the reader.

It was the triple duties of writing, and rearing her boys, and carrying out her social obligations as the wife of the governor of New Hampshire—for it was from the governorship that the senator stepped to his seat in the senate—that prepared Mrs. Keyes for her many present duties.

"I made more than a thousand calls in the capital last year," she says, "and this is the more remarkable when it is noted that the Keyes do not keep a car."

The U. S. nickel is 75 per cent copper.

CONRAD TELLS OF HIS WIFE'S TROUBLE

SAYS SHE HARDLY HAD STRENGTH OF A CHILD WHEN SHE BEGAN TAKING TANLAC

"I can't help but speak out for Tanlac since it has done so much for my wife," said Edwin W. Conrad, 11 Sherrington Court, Springfield, Mass.

About a year and a half ago her health began failing and she became so rundown she hardly had the strength of a child. Her appetite was so poor she ate barely enough to keep going, and was bothered almost continually with gas on her stomach. Her heart palpitated badly, she had awful headaches lasting for several days at a time and was so nervous and restless she could never sleep well. She complained of feeling tired out all the time and in fact, was just about ready to give up.

"We could never find anything to help her until some of our friends recommended Tanlac, but four bottles of this medicine have built her up to health and strength. She has a ravenous appetite, digests her food perfectly, and has gained seven pounds in weight. She says she never feels tired now, sleeps like a child at night, and does her housework with ease. Why she doesn't seem at all like the same person, and we both think Tanlac is the finest medicine made."

Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

EVENING HIGH SCHOOL REGISTRATION

With only one-half the registration sessions over, the enrollment for classes in the Lowell evening high school this year shows an increase of 13 over the enrollment at a corresponding period last year.

The first registration session for new students was held last evening, and 216 young men and women registered. A year ago the figure for the first registration session for new students was 184. In 1919 it was 197, in 1918, 188, and in 1917, 192. Further registration sessions for both former and new pupils will be held this evening, Thursday evening and Friday evening, from 7 to 9 o'clock. The school will open next Monday evening.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Margaret Tomlin, aged 8 years and residing in North Billerica, was struck by an automobile near her home yesterday morning and sustained a fracture of the left leg and left arm as well as other minor injuries. The accident occurred while the little girl was waiting for the school bus to take her to the Pollard school in the Centra village.

VISITED GRAVE OF CORP. SILK

Thomas W. Johnson of 457 Andover street has had an opportunity to visit the grave of Corp. Gerald Silk of Baiter's E. who was killed in action in 1915. The grave is located in Belleau cemetery, according to Mr. Johnson. The latter is in Europe for the purpose of making a visit to his old home in northern England.

ENROLLED FOR EVENING SCHOOL WORK

A total of 297 men and women enrolled for evening school work at the Lincoln grammar school last night. The opening of an evening school here is more or less of an experiment, but after last evening's heavy registration there was no doubt left in the mind of Principal D. Murray Cummings that the courses were wanted. Another registration session will be held at the school Thursday evening beginning at 7 o'clock.

Last evening's registration was divided as follows: Dressmaking, 120; millinery, 117; Americanization work, 35; and parliamentary course, 17.

Foreign born persons who cannot speak English will find an opportunity to become versed in the language by joining one of the Lincoln school classes. There will also be special classes for young men and women planning to take civil service examinations.

There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps convalesce to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves. Nuxated Iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not irritate the stomach or disturb the bowels. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two Nuxated Iron Tablets of Nuxated Iron—three times a day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and you will be surprised to find you will be able to do more than you were before. Your money is not spent in vain. Perfectly satisfactory results. Mail orders.

NUXATED IRON For Red Blood, Strength and Endurance

WHAT'S MATTER ANYWAY

President of The Standard Oil Co. Gives The Sun the Answer

BY WALTER C. TEAGLE
President, Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey

I was a little surprised to learn from your question that there is such a difference of opinion among authorities as to the real cause of unemployment and business depression.

Not being an authority on economic conditions, perhaps I am wrong in considering only the obvious reason for the contraction suffered in nearly every line of trade.

I cannot call any financial wizardry to my aid, nor coin any epigrams to make the present business situation appear the result of mysterious or hidden causes.

To me it resolves itself into nothing more nor less than the convalescent stage following a period of financial and commercial excesses. There may be any number of contributing causes, but they are the kind of troubles that we always have with us, even in times of greatest prosperity.

Cost of the War

The lowest authoritative estimate that I have seen of the actual money cost of the war—that is, the direct tangible loss outside of the fearful toll of human lives—is 176 billion dollars. I believe that eminent economists estimate the direct and indirect costs to date at more than 235 billions of dollars. A large part of that represents actual wealth forever destroyed.

With the world just emerging from the greatest calamity in history, it is not so remarkable that there has been a period of all kinds of business, financial and labor troubles, contributing to what we call a depression, but that we have done so well in meeting our troubles and working back towards normal prices and normal living.

A small boy and a hammer can make a perfect machine, representing months of work by skilled artists, worthless in five minutes. The work of 250 billions of dollars had gone into the system of domestic and international trade which was disrupted overnight by the war. Business friendships of long standing were broken.

It is not necessary to review the train of evils that followed the withdrawal of millions of men from productive pursuits for the purpose of war. Wage scales were abandoned, efficiency suffered, people swung from economy to extravagance and many other evils quickly developed.

The contraction necessary to a return to a safer life is, of course, painful. It is not easy to return to the simple life abandoned under the intoxicating influence of sudden and abnormal prosperity.

Nevertheless, it seems to me that we have made progress toward normal conditions and I hope we have passed through the worst of the readjustment trials. There must be a still further reduction in costs of manufacture and distribution and in all living costs.

I see no reason to expect an immediate return to what we regard as prosperity in this country, but our gain will be greater if we work out our salvation slowly, giving time to make the readjustment more nearly uniform in all lines of activity.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Forty delegates will go from the Lowell district to the annual convention of the Massachusetts Sunday-school association at Brockton, as stated on the program now being issued by the secretary, Rev. E. M. Ferguson. He has asked the district president, Rev. J. E. Kennedy, Lowell, to distribute programs and lead the delegation from this district. The convention which opens Tuesday evening, October 18th and closes at noon on Friday 21st, will have unusual motion picture, musical, devotional and institute features, with many noteworthy addresses, including three by Margaret Slattery.

This Letter Will Tell You How

"I suffered terribly every month, and was always tired and nervous, and had indigestion, and often could not do a thing. I was this way about two years, and had to stay home with my mother. I tried several medicines, then I found a book of yours, and mamma told me to try the Compound. So I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it certainly worked wonders with me. I have taken six bottles of it, and am still taking it when I feel the need of it. I have already recommended it to a number of working girls, who are taking it. I am working now, and stand up all day and feel fine. I am glad to say that Pinkham's medicine did a lot for me and for my mother, and we only wish we had taken it a long time before."—Rose Schorff, 4876 Annunciation St., New Orleans, La.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Schoeff works for her living, but on account of sickness was obliged to stay at home for two years. During this period she suffered terribly at times. She tried several medicines without finding relief. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood may depend on your health. So try

BOY INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

Motorcycle Officer Kivlar made a sensational ride through Merrimack square at about 12:45 o'clock this afternoon, his object being to capture a man in an automobile whom he believed to be escaping after striking a boy. The officer sped through the square at about 50 miles an hour, dodging through automobiles, electric cars and pedestrians, and managed to get through without hitting any one or anything and finally caught up to his man on the East Merrimack street bridge. He did not stop the party, however, as the latter had the injured boy in his machine and was rushing him to St. John's hospital.

The driver of the car was Roy O. Wilbur of 172 Shaw street, while the injured boy was Barker Lyons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of 55 Branch street. The accident occurred near the corner of Branch and Smith streets shortly after 12:30 o'clock, when, so Wilbur claims, the boy ran into the path of his machine. Wilbur, according to his own statement to the police, was operating his machine at about 13 or 20 miles an hour when the collision occurred. At the hospital it was found that the lad was suffering from a deep cut on the right side of the face as well as other abrasions about the head. After receiving first aid treatment the little fellow was taken to his home.

THEATRE MANAGERS AND EMPLOYEES

The first definite step to bring about a settlement of the differences between local theatre managers and their musicians, stage hands and moving picture operators, was taken this morning when a delegation representing the musicians' union called upon Mayor Perry D. Thompson to enlist his services in bringing about harmony between the theatre men and their employees.

For the past few months most of the local theatres have operated on the open-shop basis because of the alleged refusal of their union employees to accept a wage reduction. The mayor did not bring a settlement at today's conference, but opened the way for negotiations with the theatre managers. He will make an effort to get in touch with the latter this evening and then bring both parties together tomorrow.

REGISTRATION AT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

The first session of registration for the men's classes at the Lowell Vocational school was held last evening with a normal enrollment of students, according to Principal Thomas F. Fisher. Another registration session will be held this evening from 7 to 9. Regular classes in automobile repairing, electricity, carpentry, cabinet making, stationery engineering (for both men and women), machine shop practice and plumbing are to be conducted. The classes open next Monday and Tuesday evening. There will be two sessions per week for each class, some attending school Monday and Thursday and others Tuesday and Friday.

The corps of teachers for the evening classes has been completed. Chester Macdonald will teach the theory of electrical work. The automobile repairing class for chauffeurs and garage men and a special advanced course in the same subject will be under the direction of John J. Gildea. John J. McGinness will be in charge of plumbing classes and Mr. Fisher says that the accommodations for this class will be better than those available last year. Fred Wiggin will have charge of the carpentry and cabinet making classes.

The freshmen's class will be under the direction of Daniel Callahan, and Edwin Wells will be in charge of the engineering class. All their courses are known as extension courses and will be open to men who are employed in related work during the day.

Trying to Avoid Accidents

Humorous sides overshadowed everything else connected with them. It was agreed that at a certain hour yesterday morning whistles and bells should proclaim the start of No Accident week. One man, unaware of what was going on, heard the noise and started on the run across Merrimack square. Part way across the street he was slightly bumped by an automobile. Stopping he inquired what the whistles were blowing for and he was laughingly informed of their mission.

Another man drove his automobile up in front of a store. He drove it pretty close to the curb. Turning around he noticed a man standing near the rear mudguard waving his arms for the driver to back up. His companion replied "This is No Accident week, so you had better back the car up a bit."

the rear wheel is on one of his feet." While other communities have not been as fortunate as Lowell in the matter of keeping down accidents, the general opinion is they are being averted more than ever and that everyone is trying to co-operate in the movement.

Pay of City Laborers Held Up

All are requested to register in their city or town and they may be employed in their order of registration on the list one week in three or four.

It is believed this method will give employment without prejudice or favor. Commissioner Dana states the civil service rule has not been suspended. In some places the appeal of Gov. Cox to give immediate employment was taken to mean the barriers had been let down. This is not so, the commissioner states.

Lowell officials have just applied to Dana for 75 laborers and it is believed at the state house the trouble between Dana and the Lowell officials will be speedily ironed out.

GENERAL MISUNDERSTANDING

The above dispatch from Boston seems to clear up the general misunderstanding in regard to the civil service laws and employment question. A short while ago the news came out that certain parts of the civil service laws would not be strictly enforced. This was interpreted to mean the civil service laws had been suspended for the time being.

The statement coming from Commissioner Dana today, however, clears up the situation and leaves no doubt in the minds of any what is expected by the commission.

It is also noted that Commissioner Murphy's request made in Boston that he would not have to immediately discharge his laborers was granted. When Commissioner Murphy was called to Boston on the question he was asked to discharge the employees at once who were not connected with the civil service.

Mr. Murphy emphasized the fact it would be almost impossible to comply with the order and asked that he be given a short while to do their bidding.

Another part of the dispatch says "many complaints have been received from veterans." This may be taken as coming from veterans of the civil service or from those connected with the war. The dispatch does not state which is meant.

City Council Holds Meeting

months as it will if the job is completed in small sections.

City Engineer Stephen Kearney was of the opinion that the problem could be solved by starting street-railway traffic over the track already completed—the outbound track—and then have the company work on the other track, leaving the rest of the bridge open. As soon as the second track has been completed, the rest of the bridge could be finished.

He said that he had taken a traffic census of vehicular traffic over the bridge and found that on an average, 500 vehicles cross the structure every hour. When the street railway traffic is at its height, approximately 15,000 people ride across the bridge daily. At the present time, the average is about 10,000.

Mr. Wier said that he hoped the council would make an early decision on the matter as his client is ready to begin work tomorrow morning on the part of the bridge not yet finished.

It was finally agreed to delay action until the consulting engineer on the job, Prof. Lewis E. Moore, can come here and give his opinion. Prof. Moore will come to Lowell tomorrow and the council will be ready to say just how much of the bridge may be closed by Thursday morning when a special meeting will be held.

Meeting in Detail

The meeting was called at 10:05 with all members present.

A hearing was held on the petition of the Massachusetts Oil and Refining Co. for the erection and maintenance of a distributing station on Tanner street. A. M. Bruce, representing the company, said that the building would be strictly fireproof and would be sufficiently removed from neighboring buildings to avoid any danger. He said that the erection of the building would bring more taxable property to the city and would also afford employment. He said that three tanks are to be located in the building and that there have been approved by the state police. He explained that a concrete dividing wall was to be built which would withstand three times the capacity of the three tanks.

P. F. Cheney said he wanted to get a statement from his insurance company relative to the effect of the proposed building on rates in that district before he would approve the project. He was assured that there would be no increase, he would not oppose the petition.

The matter was referred to Commissioner Salmon.

A petition from the same company for a license to maintain a garage in Tanner street for the use of its own machines was also referred to Commissioner Salmon.

The petition of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. for permission to erect three poles in State street was opposed by four women living in that street who felt the thoroughfare too narrow for the placing of poles. The poles are to be provided for the use of James Danahy, living at 32 State street. The petition was referred to Commissioners Murphy and Marchand.

The petition of the Lowell Electric Light corporation for permission to locate four poles in Endicott street was referred to a hearing (p. 1).

Then came the lengthy discussion relative to the closing of Central bridge and after the matter had been disposed of, Mr. Wier requested the council to authorize a special committee composed of the commissioner of streets and highways, the city engineer and the city solicitor, to consider the feasibility of constructing a Co's hall for extras for the month of August, amounting to about $3000. He said that only $3500 of this amount has been approved by the council, which is a smaller percentage than was approved in the July bill for extras. The council agreed to refer the August bill to the special committee suggested.

After hearings, the following petitions were referred to Commissioner Salmon: Charles Winslow, garage, 135 Bellevue; S. H. C. Motor Sales Co., garage and gasoline, 200 North Main; John A. Murphy, garage and gasoline, 92 Bolton; Merrimack Square garage, garage license, Ansony street.

G. C. Pringle & Sons, Inc., entered a claim for damage alleged to have been caused to goods in their basement in the Parker block by the stoppage of a sewer pipe on the night of Sept. 21. The claim was referred to the law department.

Similar action was taken on the petition of Louis W. Richards for personal injuries and damage to clothing in Riverside street on Sept. 12. The amount asked was $10.

The petition of the Tidewater Oil Sales Co. that a portion of Quebec street be accepted was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

George K. Redmond was appointed a surveyor of lumber for George L. Cady & Sons.

The petition of Clarence Kimball for relief from the sewer overflow at 500 Moody street was referred to Commissioner Murphy. Similar action was taken on the petition of John Gill that edgemoles be laid on both sides of Third street between Beacon and Llewellyn.

The petition of Susie J. Purcell for a garage license at 7 and 5 Madison st. was referred for a hearing Oct. 13.

An order was adopted to install a gas light in front of 66 Porter terrace.

An order was also adopted to install electric lights in City avenue, Jeffrey street, Merrill avenue and at the junction of Mammoth road, Third avenue and Third avenue extension. A third order provided for the discontinuance of a gas light in Mammoth road at the point named.

The council voted to grant a license to Hornsblode Heroux, Jr., to manufacture sausage. Agent O'Hare of the board of health reported favorably on the petition.

Commissioner Marchand was authorized to call for bids for the changing over of the heating system in the Cambridge school with a view to connecting it with the system in the new school.

A contract between Commissioner Marchand and Finley Chisholm for the installation of a plumbing system in the Pine street school was approved. The amount involved is $745. Mr. Chisholm was the lowest bidder. Commissioner Marchand said.

Jurors are Drawn

The following jurors were drawn to serve in the superior court session in Cambridge beginning the first Monday in October:

George H. Boucher, 125 Dalton, dealer.

Frederick T. Humphries, 11 Smith, oil.

Leonard P. Hunt, 234 Cabot, overseer.

Martin Lavoie, 41 Nichols, harness maker.

Samuel J. Bernal, 22 Rockdale, clerk.

Direct Sentences for Reckless Drivers

tee, and neither will I intercede to Mr. Goodwin, chairman of the motor restriction commission, for automobile operators whose licenses have been revoked by the commission. It is high time careless and reckless driving was curbed. Here we are observing "No Accident" week and yet are made of automobile accident after accident, all due to love of speed and utter carelessness on the part of drivers. I received a letter this morning commenting on this subject which discloses the sad information that last year 2469 human lives were snuffed out through automobile accidents. That is a base shame.

And besides being killed, persons are maimed and injured for life every day by automobilists who think they have the right of way on our streets and burn up the roads at a terrific rate of speed. The only way to put a stop to these maniacs and lower the number of auto accidents is for the courts to sentence them to the hunt and make an example of them to all drivers of motor vehicles. Every day I receive letters from drivers and chauffeurs who ask me to write Mr. Goodwin recommending that the licenses after they were convicted of some auto law violation be restored to them. But this I absolutely refuse to do. I will positively never intercede with the license commission at the state house for any one who has been found guilty of violating the automobile laws. The walking public needs protection and will receive it as long as I have any say in the matter. Another trouble is also that licenses to operate cars are issued to many persons who are not fit to drive."

Plan to Extort Money Denied

tion witness, resumed his place before the spotlight of public curiosity as his preliminary hearing proceeded today.

Denies Extortion Charge

The extortion charge has been dropped of the San Francisco grand jury, which last night heard Semmacher's story and "placed it on Semmacher's denial to the grand jury that he had any knowledge of a plan to extort money from the defendant, as was alleged by Frank Dominguez, chief counsel for Arbuckle. Dominguez intimated extortion when he took to Los Angeles torn articles of clothing which had been worn by Miss Rapp.

To Sue Arbuckle's Lawyer

The grand jury hearing was sought by District Attorney Matthew Brady at Semmacher's request. Semmacher was the only witness. Dominguez and others of Arbuckle's counsel were invited by Brady to appear before the grand jury, but no subpoenas were issued.

As he left the grand jury room, Semmacher told a group of newspapermen, suit for defamation of character would be filed against Dominguez.

Judge Bars Questions

Testimony concerning past actions of Mrs. Barmine Delmont, who swore to the complaint charging Arbuckle with murder, will not be allowed to proceed beyond the point relevant to the case on trial, Judge Sylvain T. Lazarus declared. He denied permission yesterday to Arbuckle's attorneys to proceed with questions they said would show details of a friendship between Mrs. Delmont and Earl Lynn, a Los Angeles motion picture actor. "I am not going to try the character of witnesses here in this court," Judge Lazarus announced.

Mrs. Delmont probably will be the main witness today, the district attorney declared, and if her testimony is concluded, Zeh Prevost and Alice Blake will be summoned.

Thousands of Lives Lost

properly dam re conservatively estimated at $50,000,000.

The Anhwei catastrophe followed the famine in the seven northern provinces of the republic in which millions literally perished, and the earthquake in Kansu province, in which 40,000 people are estimated to have been killed by tremors that devastated entire counties.

The floods in Anhwei cut rail connections between Shanghai and Tien Tsin and Peking. Wesley M. Smith of the Southern Methodist mission at Changshu, Kiang Su province, who traveled across 100 miles of the flooded area, was the first arrival here to bring an eyewitness account of the disaster.

The flood district, according to Mr. Smith, lies about 60 miles north of Nanking. It is low fertile country and was thickly populated, contained numerous villages and several walled cities of thousands of inhabitants. The inundation occurred when Hungtze lake and some of its tributary rivers overflowed.

Refugees gathered on the railway embankments in the flooded area with their belongings and so closely were these unfortunates packed on these restricted islands in the midst of the watery wastes that numbers were killed by relief and construction trains.

Similar floods devastated this district in 1909 and 1916, following which measures to prevent a recurrence of the inundations were suggested by the American Red Cross in China. The plans fell through, however, when the Chinese provincial authorities demanded complete control of the work and the funds to be provided for it.

RESUME DEBATE ON ECONOMIC BLOCKADE

GENEVA, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Debate on the various phases of the economic blockade as a league weapon against nations which violate the covenant of the League of Nations was resumed by the Assembly of the league this morning. It was hoped that the resolution submitted by C. J. Doherty of Canada, that the powers interest themselves in the problem arising from the presence of Ukrainians in eastern Galicia, the national status of which has not yet been established, would be taken up during the day.

It is estimated the assembly is three or four days behind its schedule of work, and there is little hope it will be able to adjourn before the middle of next week.

To Press Demand

GENEVA, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Instructions were received by the Bolivian delegation today from the La Paz government directing that the demand for the Assembly of the league to consider the revision of the treaty of 1904 between Bolivia and Chile should not be pressed further. The Bolivian government, however, reserves the right to bring the matter before the Assembly again.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
One of the good old-fashioned actors whom it is a pleasure to watch and listen to in these days of mad speed and whirling novelties is Will R. Cressy, perhaps the best character player on the vaudeville stage today. Mr. Cressy has made frequent appearances at R. F. Keith's theatre here, always in a new vehicle, yet never losing a distinctive touch that one could associate with none but him. Mr. Cressy is an analyst of human nature and as such he knows all our little foibles and idiosyncracies. Furthermore, he knows how to put them across on the stage in a most entertaining manner.

"Without a Will There's a Way" is the title of the playlet in which Mr. Cressy is starring at Keith's this week. Mr. Cressy is supported by Miss Blanche Dayne and Miss Marion Hodges and the trip works out an absorbing little story of domestic difficulties and world war sacrifices that more than appeals to the average audience.

Cressy again plays one of his accustomed country roles this time he is seen as the country paperhanger in whom the judge of the district has much reliance that he entrusts to him the settling of petty squabbles that come before him. In the present instance two half-sisters are quarrelling over the settlement of an $5000 estate. Neither of them wanted the story farm on which each thinks she has a just claim, but rather maintain their stand through spite. Cressy gradually draws out of them the fact that each made great sacrifices during the war—one serving over there as a nurse and the other giving her husband that is the story of the play. Their real natures—their ability to bear big burdens but not able to settle minor details of everyday life. Eventually, he brings about a reunion of the two women. Cressy works in a lot of comedy in his work. You'll enjoy every minute of it.

Joe Darcy, "the old cloud with a silvery lining," is entitled to second place on the bill. Joe is a comedian and a singer. His stories are good, but it is as a purveyor of southern melodies that he scintillates most. His repertoire is seemingly inexhaustible.

Herman and Shirley in "The Mystery Masquerader" have a surprising comedy novelty. Herman is the loose-boned characterist who can roll his eyes in almost any position. His eccentric dancing is above the average. Miss Shirley makes a pretty partner.

Al Haig and Earl Laverne tell a lot of good stories, sing well and excel as general entertainers. Haig is one of the best whistlers heard here in a long time.

Other good things of the week's program are Allen and Cantor, two girls and a piano, who put across some snappy songs; Caribbeys, international instrumentalists of merit and Samaro and Sonia, a man and a woman, who combine a bit of dancing with an animal act. The motion picture features include a scientific

THE STRAND THEATRE

"Going Some," a comedy-drama of the week is the headline on the Strand Theatre program for the first three days of the week. The story of "Going Some" is based on the stage success written by Rex Beach, but according to those who saw it on the stage and who reviewed it, the production is by far superior to its interpretation on the stage. The story has to do with the sporting feud between two rival ranches, the southwest, the ranches it is only after one of the east and is called on to live up to his reputation and win a match of race with a cool, unflinching one of the ranches it is the first scene of the play are taken on the Yale stadium, bringing college life into the film. Later the scene shifts to the western prairie.

Another splendid production is "Desperate Trails," in which Harry Carey is being featured in the title role. This play deals with a cowboy, who goes into a country town to claim the girl he believes he loves. The young man gets into a mess of trouble in order to shield a crook, whom he is led to believe is the brother of his fiancée, and as a result he is sent to state prison for a long term. It is only after his incarceration that he learns how he has been lured into a trap by the woman and his only thought is to bring to justice the man in whom he has sacrificed his liberty and honor. He manages to escape from prison and to carry out his plans to the letter, but without going through hair-raising thrills.

In addition to these very pleasing productions there is a double feature, which includes the Kluge-Kluge fight, which recently occurred in Salem, ten rounds of the exhibition being thrown on the screen. There is also a very pleasing comedy, which is the current feature. The musical numbers also add materially to the success of the bill.

RIALTO THEATRE

Sunny Spain has never been more colorfully or faithfully transplanted to the screen than in "The Passion Flower," in which Norma Talmadge rises to great dramatic and emotional heights and scores her most artistic and fascinating achievement in the silent drama to date.

The picture marked the opening of the Rialto theatre yesterday afternoon and it started the season off with a bang. The latter were drawn to the theatre to note the decorative changes that have taken place during the past three months of remodeling and all thoroughly enjoyed the delightful changes in the interior of the building as well as the attractiveness and show outside.

In selecting his program for the next few weeks Manager Prager took care to present the strongest of the season, opening date, and that he succeeded in a large measure is not denied. The production may be classed with the strongest and certainly gives ample expression to the highly emotional acting of Miss Talmadge. The supporting cast is also well up in the front and lives up to the advance reports which heralded them so highly.

"The Passion Flower" is a worthy adaptation of the stage play of the same name by Jacinto Benavente, Spain's greatest living dramatist, and it is a credit to the cheerful eye of the artist and director, Herbert Brenon, as well as to the charming and talented star. It will be remembered that it was in this stage play that Nance O'Neil delighted the audiences while portraying the part of "Rafaela," the mother who was married the second time, but in the screen production Miss Talmadge takes the part of the daughter, "Acacia," who really hates the step-father because he steals the love of her mother from her. As the story progresses she is also forced to spurn the love of this step father as he has begun to force his advances upon her young daughter and the interpretation of the story on the screen forms a delightfully powerful drama.

In the story Norma Talmadge has an exceptional supporting cast with two leading men. Courtenay Poole, who plays the role of "Estaban," the step father, and Harrison Ford, who portrays "Norbert," the poet and lover of Acacia. Others in the cast are Dulcie Jensen, Charles Stevenson, Alice May, Herbert Vance, H. D. McLehann, Austin Harrison, Robert Reilly, Robert Brown, George Arlino, Talmadge, Robert Payton Gibbs, Augustus Balfour and Walter Wilson.

In addition to the feature picture the Rialto has a supporting program of stellar attractions, including a snappy western picture, a Fontaine Fox comedy and a snappy set of Kinegrams.

OPERA HOUSE

A crowded house greeted the initial performance of "Dance of Love," a drama-comedy production presented by the Lowell players at the Opera House last night. The play, a creation by Norman Houston and Charles A. Blaney, will be the attraction for the rest of the week at this popular playhouse and will undoubtedly perform before capacity crowds. "Dance of Love" is a production touching on an aftermath of the great war, made a decided hit in New York where it played for about a year at the Republic theatre. There is a strong plot in the drama, which, however, is interspersed with good, wholesome comedy, which amuses as well as it instructs in suspense the outcome of a serious situation.

Love, mystery, thrills, occupy an equal part in the production and all contribute to make the play a thoroughly enjoyable one.

The story reveals the hardships and sufferings brought about by a marriage followed by long service in the war, in which wounds and shell-shock cloud the memory of the young husband, a captain in the Yankee Division, who does not regain these faculties until years later.

As the young, dashing war hero, Captain John DeFoe, the leading man, William D. Howard, has a difficult part to portray but does himself credit in acting the part in very commendable fashion. Attired nearly throughout the play in his navy khaki officer's uniform Captain DeFoe presents an imposing appearance.

Playing opposite Mr. Howard is the girl who loves the young officer, but despairs of her chances of ever becoming his wife owing to a previous and hasty marriage. Captain DeFoe took part in just before leaving for France, in this role Miss Gracie Scott.

SCARCITY OF HOMES AND HOUSES HERE

Not the smallest of conditions which the Chamber of Commerce is forced to contend with is the matter of securing houses and homes for people who desire to live in Lowell.

As there is no housing and renting committee in the city, outsiders naturally look to the chamber of commerce to aid them in the matter of securing fees. The newspapers and real estate men help to a certain extent, but there are those who rely more or less upon public utilities such as the chamber of commerce has shown itself to be.

This morning a middle aged man, who asked to have his name withheld because of business reasons, called on the chamber rooms and asked if a house could be located for him. He said he was from the middle west from a place called Evanston out near Chicago.

He further went on to say that he understood the local chamber of commerce was the best place to find anything one wanted and that was his reason for coming in. The man said he was thinking seriously of bringing his family here to live but a proper place to house his members was one of the most important factors.

While nothing definite was promised the local men assured the stranger that an effort would be made to get him a place to live in Lowell.

GO-CARTS CROWD WALK

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Go-carts left unattended on the Broadstairs, crowded the local men against the city council to action against their obstruction. A special enclosure will be provided for them.

Manchester Police Ball Team Led By John Smith, Defeated Lowell Firemen Here Yesterday

John Smith, who used to manage Lowell baseball teams back when the New England leagues used to play on the fairgrounds led the Manchester Police team to a victory over the Lowell Firemen yesterday. The game was played at the Lowell fairgrounds and was a very close contest. Smith's team won by a score of 5 to 3. The Lowell team was managed by an old Lowell fireman, and the game was a very interesting one. The Manchester team was led by John Smith, who was a very good player. The Lowell team was led by an old Lowell fireman, and the game was a very interesting one.

The first inning in which the visitors scored five runs, the contest was a corker. The cops got three in the second but after their scoring was limited to a single marker, thus coming in the sixth. The local firefighters were unable to do much with the slants and shots of Flanagan, who pitched for the Manchester team. Not only was Flanagan a dandy pitcher but he was a whale of a catcher doing the receiving in the last two innings while Sartre flung 'em over. Callahan started in the box for the local nine but it was not his day and he gave way to Symonds in the third. "Sy" not only did well on the mound but he led the local batting attack getting a triple and two doubles in his three trips to the batting station. Johnny Tighe called the balls and strikes in an effective manner. The game, play by play, follows:

First Inning—Manchester—Hempton walked. Hempton caught off first but Christie dropped throw, runner taking second. Smith hit by pitched ball. Flanagan hit one out for Thomas. All hands safe. Langley singled, scoring Hempton and Smith. Sartre doubled scoring Flanagan and Langley. Callahan struck out. Symonds singled to left scoring Sartre and went to third on Scully's error. Kane went out on fly to first. Five runs, 4 hits, 2 errors.

Second Inning—Lowell—Le Cam struck out. Regan struck out. Callahan was safe on Symonds's error. Symonds tripled to center scoring Callahan. Thomas fanned. One run, one hit, one error.

THEY SAT ON THE BAGS IN THE 1916 SERIES - BOSTON AND BROOKLYN ONLY GOT A BASE APiece

By ROY GROVE

Frankie Frisch, the youth who this season has revived the lost art of base stealing, brings an interesting angle into the world series.

Can he duplicate the feats of stars of the past? Or has world series base stealing gone into the discard along with the strikeout kings?

Frisch, third baseman with the Giants, has stolen more than 30 bases on National League pitchers this year, almost double the thefts of his nearest competitors in both circuits.

And now Frisch is going into the world series to face the cream of American league pitchers. What'll he do? How good will he be?

Based on standards of bygone years Frisch's record for the season should be good for half a dozen thefts in the big tilt. But on the face of results in the past few seasons, he'll be lucky to collect two.

Eddie Collins is the premier thief among world series players—speaking of base thefts, of course. The little box speed merchant figured in six of the fall classics and has a grand total of fourteen sacks checked up to his credit.

Even Eddie is finding the going of recent years more difficult. One stolen base was the best he could do against Cincinnati in the series with the Reds in 1919, although he had no difficulty in working out pitchers for four sacks when with the Athletics in the 1910 series.

Back in 1907, Slagle of the Cubs stole six bases during the world series against Detroit, and two years later Honus Wagner, the doughty Pirate veteran, duplicated the feat against the same team.

In 1909 Wagner stole second three times in the third game of the series. In the fifth game Honus went to first when he was hit by a pitcher. He swiped second and third. By this time the pitcher was excited and Honus took him into throwing the ball over the third baseman's head and then scrambled home.

In the Cub-Detroit series in 1908, he stole second and third, and he and Rossman nearly got away with a double steal.

Who does he hear of ambling all the way around without a hit in the classics of today?

In the world series of 1920 between the Indians and Dodgers there were only three stolen bases in the seven games. In the series of 1916 one base was stolen by each team, duplicating the record made in the series of the year before.

Compare that to the 1907 series between the Cubs and Detroit when runners stole 25 bases. Or the series two years later when 24 pilfered sacks were registered.

How come? Pitching? In the heyday of base stealing, when the players were running riot on the sacks, they were facing such pitchers as Mathewson, Coombs, Marquard and other greats, whose performances in the box have stood unequalled.

It isn't pitching. It is simply better knitted teamwork among the contenders for the world title. The team work has tightened up and the boys who flit around the second and third sack work in better understanding with the catchers.

Ruth With 58 Homers to Credit Out To Make It 60 For Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—With a total of 58 home runs hit this year, Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees today was pointing toward a mark of 60, which he hopes to attain before the season closes. He has five games in which to reach the three score figure.

Ruth walloped the ball for two circuit clouts in the game against Cleveland yesterday. A two-bagger game him a perfect batting average. He also hit two homers in one day last year off Pitcher Rommel of the Philadelphia Athletics on Sept. 27.

In the four games just finished against Cleveland, the president of the Home Run club, averaged .727 with the bat, making eight hits for a total of 18 bases.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A total of 141,000 persons—a new attendance record for four consecutive baseball games—passed through the turnstiles to see the New York-Cleveland series just finished at the Polo Grounds. The figures made public today by Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, did not include 1500 "dead heads" per day, so that the number of persons who actually saw the games was 147,000.

Approximately 32,000 were present Friday; 35,000 Saturday; 41,000 Sunday and 30,000 yesterday. Thousands were turned away from the park Sunday. The best world's series attendance record was in 1912 when 136,996 fans witnessed the first four games between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox.

High Lights in His Film Career as Told by Bill Hart's Pinto Pony

"THE BOSS LED ME UP TO A HIGH PLACE"

BY BILL HART'S PINTO PONY
(Copyright, 1921, by Wm. S. Hart)

You folks wuz never up in the Chatsworth country, wuz ye? There must a bin a terrible row up there sometime 'tween the earth an' the stars an' such things, 'cause that country is just a bunch o' dry arroyos an' draws, an' big rocks, boulders that go so high they shut out the sun. Well Chatsworth wuz where we had our next little affair—me and the boss.

We wuz ta do a stunt for "The Narrow Trail." The boss he wrote the story for himself an' I copped it.

Well, this wuz some stunt when I looked at it. First, I just couldn't believe my eyes. They had found a canyon where a tree about a hundred feet long had fallen across, an' on the far side, it wuz only wide enough for the branches to grow out o' it, an' way down below, more feet than I kin count wuz the bottom—all rocks, too.

The boss he led me up to the high place where the thick end o' the tree wuz an' just let me contemplate. It didn't take me long ta do it.

Bad Luck Horvoshoe

I said, right quick, "What are you aintin' ta take me home in—a wagon or a truck or are you goin' ta bury me right there in the rocks?" He didn't say a word, an' then I cut loose, 'cause I know'd I had him an' I rubbed it in. You see they could a got rubber shoes for me but they didn't an' the boss—he blamed himself for not doin' it personal, an' with a whole lot o' reason, too.

Healed By Fruit Liver Tablets

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.

"I am not in the habit of praising any material medicine as I am an advocate of 'New Thought'; but some time ago, I had such a bad attack of Liver and Stomach Trouble that I gave up thinking I did not have it and took 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets.

Most gratifying was the result. It relieved my liver and stomach trouble, cleaned up my yellowish complexion and put new blood in my body. 'Fruit-a-tives' is the highest result of 'New Thought' in medicine."

ROMANCE ALWAYS JUST AROUND THE COUNTER

Ruth Agnes Abeling set out to prove that romances do occur in real life. She asked several well known women to tell her the story of their romances. Their answers prove her theories correct. Here are three of the "real romances"—there will be more later.

REAL ROMANCES I

It was at Lake Maxinkuckee that Mrs. Richard Edwards of Peru, Indiana, first vice president of the League of Women Voters, first glimpsed her husband.

"I think I was all of 12," says Mrs. Edwards, "and was visiting at the cottage of a friend of Mr. Edwards' mother. He was sent over to call on me and his report of the call is that I turned my back on him and looked out of the window until just before he left, when, according to his mother's command, he invited me to go sailing."

As that, the story goes, little Marie Stuart, as Mrs. Edwards was then, condescended to glance at the lad and found that "even though he was snub-nosed and freckle-faced, he was rather nice."

Three years later they met again at the lake, and says Mrs. Edwards: "The lake played so big a part for each of us that we eventually spent our honeymoon there and got back each fall for a week at that time of the year."

"We have started the next generation in, because my son is not only learning to swim and sail on Maxinkuckee as his father did, but he goes to summer Woodcraft school at Culver."

REAL ROMANCES II

MADAME FRANCES KOLATOR

Madame Kolator, Prague V.W.C.A. worker, smiles reminiscently. "We had such obstacles to overcome," she confides, with a little little laugh.

"My husband's father was a minister of one faith and my father was a minister of another. His father brought him one Sunday to hear my father and we saw each other across the church. We were just children."

"After church, while our preacher fathers shook hands and talked, we became acquainted."

"Then the difficulties began! We each had to go to our different churches and as our friendship grew our parents tried harder than ever to direct us toward people in our own churches."

"But love finds a way," says Madame Kolator. "And we finally

NO more of the back-breaking rubbing that used to leave you utterly exhausted after washday.

A few hours' soaking in Rinso suds takes the place of all this needless drudgery.

Rinso is the new soap product that loosens and dissolves the dirt from even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash. It gets the clothes sweet and clean without injury to a single fabric. You don't have to rub anything but the very soiled spots such as neck-bands and cuffs, and those just lightly.

Don't rub your youth away. Get Rinso today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Perfect in washing machines

With Rinso you don't have to do any rubbing. Follow regular directions given here. After soaking the clothes, wring them into machine full of hot water to which has been added enough fresh Rinso solution to make a good suds. Operate machine and rinse clothes. No other soap product is needed when Rinso is used.

DISSOLVE: For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in two quarts of boiling water. When water is hot or clothes extra dirty use more Rinso.

POUR INTO TUB: of lukewarm water. Keep adding the solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in.

Rinso

Then let your clothes soak and rinse without any hard rubbing—
Soak one hour—two hours—overnight—
Whatever time is convenient. These wonderful mild suds loosen every particle of dirt. Rinse, to remove the loosened dirt, till water runs clear.

REV. MARY SIBBITT

But for a bit of paper fluttering in a Kansas roadway years ago, a certain young girl might never have become Mrs. Mary Sibbitt of Wichita, Kan., organizer of the International Woman Ministers' association.

"I put a blanket on a young colt belonging to my father and, popping on its back, I started for a neighbor's home," says Mrs. Sibbitt. "A small piece of paper, fluttering in the road in front of a house which I had to pass, frightened the colt. He shied, reared and I slid off."

"A young man rushed out of the house, thinking I was hurt. He was bringing to our home by his friends, and how could such a romantic beginning and otherwise than in marriage?"

THE MOTORCYCLE AND BICYCLES

Eighty per cent of the motorcycle accidents in Massachusetts since the first of the year would not have occurred if the riders had observed these two simple rules:

Don't attempt to speed until you are an experienced driver.

Keep your speed down when there are curves ahead, when you are between streams of heavy traffic, and when weather conditions are bad.

Many of the bicycle accidents are caused by a boy catching hold of a motor truck with one hand while driving with the other. When the truck takes a new angle of direction the boy is thrown into the path of another motor vehicle.

Bicyclists should also be cautioned to watch out for a law that went into effect this summer, and that is still unenforced in many communities. It requires all bicycle riders to display a light at night and reads as follows:

"Chapter eighty-five of the General Laws is hereby amended by striking out section thirteen and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 13.—Whoever, without such a permit, rides a bicycle in or upon a public way, square or part or land or driveway, adjacent to a public reservoir, at a rate of speed exceeding ten miles an hour, or rides it in or upon any such place without a suitable alarm bell adapted for use by the rider or, during the period from one half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise without a light attached to the bicycle, shall be fined, on first offense, not less than $5 and not more than $20, and on subsequent offenses, not less than $10 and not more than $30, and shall be further liable for all damages occasioned to any persons thereby."

WILSON STRICKEN TWO YEARS AGO

Former President Has Since Passed Under Shadow of Death and Out of Capitol

Health Improves Though He Still Uses Cane—Has Large Correspondence

Bought "Used Car"—Allows No Disrespect for President of United States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(By Associated Press)—Woodrow Wilson fell a sick man two years ago yesterday. Since then he has passed under the shadow of death and out of the White House.

Thousands of Americans of whatever political faith, recalled the anniversary of the beginning of the former president's illness and wondered what he was doing.

Mr. Wilson, besides following the ways of a retired gentleman, with a lively interest in the world's affairs, lives by the eight-hour day which he once told congress was "adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting, as in the interest of health, efficiency and contentment."

He aims to have eight hours for sleep, eight hours for work, and eight hours for relaxation, and keeps to the schedule pretty fairly.

Seven o'clock in the morning is his rising time. He once again shaves and bathes alone and then takes some calisthenic exercise prescribed by his physicians as beneficial in restoring the use of nerves and muscles which were impaired during his breakdown. He has breakfast in Mrs. Wilson's boudoir and finds that two years of illness and slow convalescence have not affected his appetite. The morning papers never are neglected what-

House became attached to a certain automobile. It went back, as is the custom each year, to the manufacturer from whom Mr. Wilson bought it as a "used car." He had it painted black, with orange trimmings—Princeton colors—and in this car, which he regards as an old friend, he goes driving into the countryside.

He dislikes exploring new routes, but rather enjoys driving over the same ground at about the same time. Many folk in the country look for him; one quaint old lady recently held up the car and presented a sweater which she had knitted; a little girl gave him a knitted laprobe. Frequently the car stops at a farm and takes on a load of fresh vegetables, eggs and fowl. The party is always home before dark.

Dinner is an informal affair; sometimes there are guests, always old friends or associates. Mr. Wilson no longer dresses for the occasion as he always did while president; it is on a simple. But no meal in the Wilson household ever proceeds until grace is said. Mr. Wilson has always said it himself, and months ago when he was so weak he could hardly stand without aid, and his voice was almost inaudible, he stilled himself on his chair and whispered the plea for divine blessing.

Friends remember him ever at meals. Frequently a Potomac river fisherman sends him a rare specimen from his catch. Once, another friend sent him ducks out of season and paid the game warden a handsome penalty.

After dinner he goes in for reading or amusement. Once a week Mr. Wilson has a motion picture show of his own and frequently sees the feature film at the same time it is being shown at the theatres downtown.

Occasionally he goes to a vaudeville show, his party taking seats in the last row, and entering and leaving the every effort to avoid ostentation. It rarely happens, however, that somebody fails to discover the visitors and a demonstration of handclapping always results.

Writes in Bed, But Not For a Book. Evenings at home, however, are spent in the family circle. The former president and Mrs. Wilson read a book together, or perhaps Mrs. Wilson reads aloud. Sometimes it is one of the detective stories of which Mr. Wilson was said to be so fond. They do not now form as large a part of his reading as may have been the case years ago.

He takes to bed early, not to sleep, however, but to relax, to read and write. Like Mark Twain, he does much reading and writing in bed. Propped up by pillows, and with a little writing board across his knees, he reads and makes notes, some of them voluminous and in shorthand. Nobody knows what they are about. He puts them carefully away. They are not notes for a book which many expect.

Unless Mr. Wilson changes his mind decidedly he will write no reply to Robert Lansing or anyone else who has criticized his policies. A writer, who has been given access to Mr. Wilson's papers, of which there are almost a ton, is writing a book, but it will be his own, not Mr. Wilson's.

"I'll give you any material I have for your book," Mr. Wilson told him. "I'll answer any questions you ask; but it's your book. I don't even want to see what you write."

However the evening may be spent, however tired he may be, there is one thing the former president never neglects. It is the reading of a few verses of the Bible. When he says good night he invariably reads aloud some short passage from the book which always rests on the reading table at his bedside.

Friends and admirers ask, What is Woodrow Wilson's real condition now? He will be 65 years old next December and has passed through an ordeal which few men survive. His ever else may demand attention. Half a dozen of them are delivered early and Mr. Wilson reads them thoroughly.

Then comes the morning's work. About that time the mail carrier, six days a week, delivers quite a packet of letters. They come from a variety of correspondents. Old friends of the administration days write informal friendly notes or discourse on the politics of the day.

Schools and colleges ask for donations; individuals who feel the pinch of the times ask for some personal financial assistance. Others discourse on the shortcomings, as they see them, of the republican party. Autograph hunters are represented in large number. Various gentlemen who think their ailment is the same as Mr. Wilson's want to know the names of his physicians.

Mrs. Wilson invariably goes over the morning's mail with her husband. Some letters are turned over to a secretary for reply. Most of them the former president answers personally, dictating to a stenographer who comes from his law office every morning for the purpose. All of them he signs himself.

Bought White House "Used Car"

The morning's work is done in the library. The old desk and chair and table Mr. Wilson used in his study at Princeton are there. Thousands of volumes which were packed away while he was in the White House are there. Through the windows may be seen the Indigo blue strip of Virginia hills where he used to go golfing, and not far away hangs a bag of golf sticks, a reminder of a better day.

The former president and his inseparable companions always have their luncheon served in the dining-room. Then comes a nap of an hour and then, unless the weather is most inclement, a motor drive.

AMATEURS

THOUSANDS of almost miraculous cures and countless ailments heretofore considered incurable have yielded to Vitamines that new found element in food so often destroyed by modern cooking.

Babies grow fat, strong, robust, when given the Vitamines in orange juice each day, in addition to milk . . . Children show astonishing improvement when fed a meal of milk daily in addition to their meals.

Adults need even more Vitamines, yet a meal of Roast Beef, Baked Potatoes, Bread and Butter, Apple Dumpling with hard sauce and coffee fails to satisfactorily nourish the body for lack of Vitamines. You weaken, lack disease resistance, fall heir to countless minor ills—all easily banished with the wonderful Vitamines.

The Gift of Science to You

Now comes a highly concentrated tablet containing a proper dose of "Vitamin B" from yeast; Fat Soluble "A" "Vitamin" from Rice Hulls, combined with Glycerophosphates, Cascarine and Capsicum—A tablet easily taken, in ideal form, very economical and results most unusual, when taken in addition to regular diet.

THE MAN THE BABIES LIKE

Allen Prater, of Islworth, England, is a dwarf comedian. But his "sideline" is making crying babies smile! He's often hired for baby shows, parties and banquets, because he can be depended upon to amuse the youngsters. Here he is dressed up as a cop, with a Chaplin mustache.

200 P. C. PROFIT BY ARM-CHAIR LUNCHROOMS

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Average gross profits of over 200 per cent. are made by arm-chair lunchrooms in this state, the commission on necessities of life reported today. In some instances the profits have been found to run as high as 500 per cent.

Many of the restaurant proprietors, replying to questionnaires, said their prices were so fixed as to represent a gross profit of 100 per cent but the average has been found to be much higher, the commission said in announcing that the scope of its investigation would be extended before a final report was made.

Mothers Used To Say

give me the good old-fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs in preference to the new-fangled patent medicines on the market. I remember that when I had indigestion, was constipated, had a headache or my stomach was out of order, my mother would give me an old and reliable remedy called SEVEN BARKS and it would straighten me out in no time so I always keep a bottle in the house for emergencies.

Colds and grippe frequently will leave you with weak kidneys and aching back. The kidneys get overworked fighting off a cold or a contagious disease. When the stomach is out of order, the kidneys and liver not working properly, a few doses of SEVEN BARKS will stimulate the liver and kidneys, regulate the flow of bile, expel distressing acids and dangerous poisons, and quickly restore you back to good digestion.

For nearly half a century SEVEN BARKS has been recognized as one of the most reliable remedies for correcting and preventing disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is absolutely safe, made from the extracts of roots and herbs, scientifically blended.

If you have never tried SEVEN BARKS do not fail to do so, and watch the rapid and wonderful results. Your druggist keeps it, or will get it for you.—Adv.

EUGENIC LAW WOULD BREED REVOLUTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A eugenic law forbidding the unfit to marry would breed revolution, Prof. Rudolph M. Binger of the New York University told the second international congress of eugenics. A better course to pursue, he said, would be to make the unfit fit. He also disputed the assertion that men of genius usually are weaklings.

"The eugenist cannot seriously propose that only the fittest shall marry without laying himself open to the charge of Utopianism," Prof. Binger said. "or, if he insists, producing a revolution. Suppose that such a measure were seriously proposed in our country. According to the findings of the draft records during the world war, nearly 50 per cent. of the men examined were found to be unfit for military duty, and a fair percentage had to be made fit by special exercise and diet. Who would dare to deny marriage to the unfit 50 per cent."

"Again, if we read that out of twenty million school children in our country fifteen million suffer from defects which are partly or completely remediable, what are we to do? Telling them when they have grown up and are presumably worse, that they must not marry, would produce a revolution infinitely more serious than the one proposed by anarchists. And it would come immediately without much premeditation and long drawn philosophizing."

The only sensible thing to do, he asserted, was to improve the health of the children and make them fit.

Prof. Binger declared the greatest geniuses enjoyed at least fair health. In many cases being vigorous until near death at an old age. He cited Socrates, Newton, Darwin, Spencer, Hegel, Wallace, Kant, Shakespeare, Goethe, Dante, Leonardo da Vinci, Michael Angelo and Galileo.

"Lambroso, Nietzsche and their followers," Prof. Binger said, "have poisoned the modern world with their idea that genius implies either degeneracy or insanity. This is plainly untrue, especially if we look at the greatest men of genius."

SAYS BRITAIN HELPING TO PROMOTE WAR

RIGA, Sept. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—The third internationale of Moscow sent out a wireless appeal today to the workmen of Europe to block arms and munitions shipments to Poland, Rumania, Estonia, Latvia and Finland, charging that a war was being prepared by Poland and Rumania against Russia. It also attacked England, through Winston Spencer Churchill, minister of the colonies and also Lord Curzon, the foreign minister of coming forward now to help France promote such a war.

VIENNA, Sept. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Dr. Ferdinand Grimm, the minister of finance, today resigned his post in the cabinet of Chancellor Schoner.

Missing Boat Towed Into Port

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—While police boats were seeking the gasoline cruiser Myrtle, which went to the fishing banks near Ambrose channel yesterday and failed to return, the craft was towed into port today by a motion launch. Captain John Henney, owner of the cruiser, and eight fishermen were aboard.

Boland Optimistic Over Settlement

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Harry J. Boland, who has been an active participant in the Sinn Fein councils since his arrival from New York in August, expressed optimism today over the prospects for an Irish settlement. The speech of Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies in Dundee, last Saturday had increased his hopefulness, he indicated. Mr. Boland will sail for New York next Saturday.

AND I'LL TELL THE WORLD, MR. TRUE, WE'VE GOT TO FIGHT JAPAN!! I REPEAT: IT, WE'VE GOT TO FIGHT JAPAN!!!

RUSSIAN REPLY TO OUR BOARDING HOUSE

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—An outline of the reply of the Russian soviet government to the note of Lord Curzon, the foreign minister, calling the attention of the soviet government to alleged serious breaches of faith in the pursuance of a campaign of intrigue against Great Britain in Central Asia and Afghanistan by the soviets, has been delivered to Lord Curzon. M. Berzin, of the Russian trade delegation here, has written Lord Curzon that the soviet government's reply is being handed to Robert M. Hodgson, the British trade representative in Moscow.

Berzin declares that many of Lord Curzon's statements will not bear the most superficial examination. As an instance he cited Lord Curzon's allegation that Santerel Nuorteva, formerly in charge of the movement of foreigners in Moscow, issued a statement as director of the department of propaganda under the third internationale of Moscow on June 20.

In fact, M. Berzin asserts, "he has been in prison since March and never held any position under the third internationale."

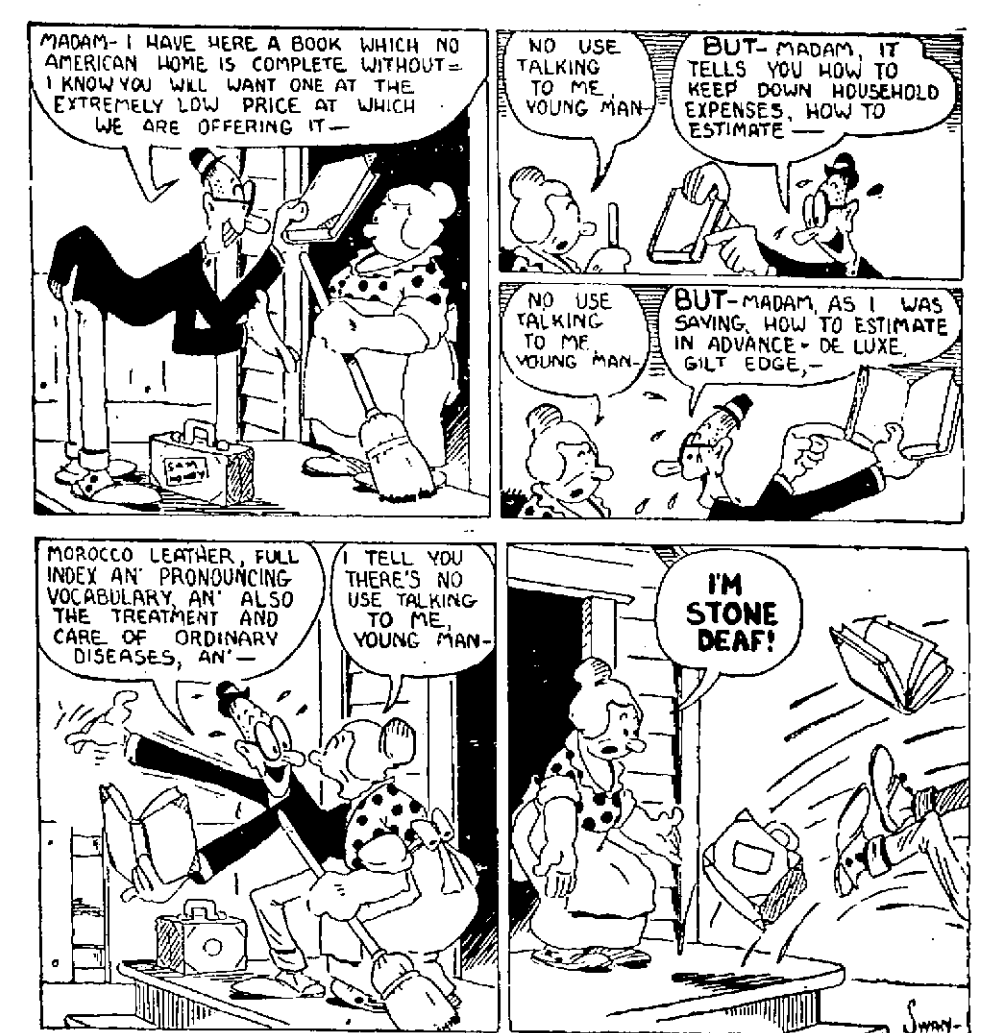

"Similarly," M. Berzin adds, "other reports attributed to Elfan Karakhan (soviet representative in Warsaw) and others have never existed. Rothstein, ambassador of the Russian socialist federal soviet republic in Tcheran, never has been engaged in forming revolutionary committees in Persia. Dr. Hafiz never has been sent to Moscow or any other place by the soviet government. (Lord Curzon's note charged the soviets with trying to induce the 'Indian anarchist,' Hafiz, who the note said had been studying the manufacture of bombs in Vienna, to proceed to Afghanistan and supervise a bomb depot on the border to facilitate the importation of bombs into India.) These examples should serve, pending receipt of the full reply from the Russian government, to convince the British government that the charges made are based on inaccurate information."

M. Berzin says there is no doubt Lord Curzon and the British foreign office have fallen victims to false rumors spread by Russian white guards and of French origin.

Adventures of the Twins

AND THERE HE STUCK, TAKING UP ALL THE SPARE ROOM

Cap'n Pennywinkle and Curly, his sea-horse, had a terrible time while the Twins were away on their errand, and when they returned with the fish net, there was the greatest commotion ever at the Cross-roads, where the fairman policeman was trying to keep order. You see Tub Terrapin was lying flat on his tummy right in the way of traffic and everybody had to go round. Cap'n Pennywinkle was so absorbed, trying to get him out of the way, that he didn't have time to direct the other big fishes that came swimming by. The first thing he knew, hadn't the old sea-fish bumped into a big sea-weed tree, not looking where he was going, at all, at all, and the first thing every body knew, his big sharp saw had cut the tree down and there it lay in everybody's road. As though that helped matters any!

And the next thing, didn't Mr. Swardfish come blundering along with his long sharp nose, not looking where he was going and didn't he run right into the big sea-weed tree and there he stuck, taking up all the spare room there was, nearly.

When the Twins returned, Cap'n Pennywinkle and Curly were prancing around, trying every-which-way to get Mr. Swardfish free. Mr. Swardfish had come to help and Mr. Hammerfish and Mr. Sturgeon and Mack Mackerel, and I can't tell you how many more. The only thing was that all the helpers had different ideas about getting Mr. Swardfish free. Mr. Swardfish was eating him at once, and if it hadn't been for Cap'n Pennywinkle's magic badge, I'm afraid he would have done so.

And all on account of lazy Tub Terrapin. There Tub lay, as unconcerned as you please.

Connecticut valley, a physician who first treated the army man after he received his wounds in the second battle of the Marne, because of a strong personal friendship the doctor succeeded in having the captain brought to his sanitarium after his return to America, where slowly but with great success he is gradually bringing him back to normal health.

Stepping at the same institution, but unknown to anyone, and there only to obtain knowledge of the whereabouts of a large amount of stock owned by DeFoe. Members of the underworld, included in the trio being Miss Garity, a nurse, played by Miss Marion Cogan, who is the girl DeFoe married the day before he went to war after an unfortunate quarrel temporarily severed the friendly relations between him and Fern Armstrong. Candelberry, acted by Kalamian Matus, the brainy member of the trio, after DeFoe's wealth who cleverly follow him everywhere, over his head, also have ways and means of the real purpose of their activities. The last member of the trio, Mr. Wiggins, a character portrayed by John Howard, and later on the employ of DeFoe as private chauffeur cleverly disguising his identity. This member of the cast had a high position in the play but acted both his parts in very good style.

Miss Wells, as the giggling young patient, constantly "fired" at the "love" hysterics of the young doctor, whom finally she marries, played by Miss Mabel Griffith, is one of the best characters of the cast and a comedy is well received by the audience.

Richard Castille, playing the part of Mr. MacKinnon, a private investigator, finds himself in a difficult position, always close to the occasion and acts his part as though he was accustomed to it in everyday life. The English butler, who later is found to be Irish, is a source of much amusement and when at the end of the play he is found in the proceedings following the discovery of the stocks and the arrests of the plotting trio, he plays his part in a happy and clever manner. Last night he was the recipient of much hearty applause.

The play, in three acts and two scenes, finally culminates in the revelation that DeFoe's real wife, whom he had married hastily before going to war, was married to Prof. Candelberry years before. This results in a happy ending for the young man, who is regaining his full mental capacities and in his marriage to the girl he loves, Fern Armstrong.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Thomas Morgan has seldom appeared in a more delightful photoplay than "Cappy Ricks." Peter Peasley, the Marling story of the sea, in which he is starring the first half of the week at the Merrimack Square theatre, has played in a number of varied roles, but in none so fascinating as the part of the seaman in this absorbing story of life on the deep.

Matt Peasley, played by Mr. Morgan, lands in San Francisco after a voyage and eventually ships as a mate on one of the freighters of the Blue Star line. The brain and soul of the company is Cappy Ricks, former sea dog and present financier. Cappy's love for his ship is transcended only by that for his daughter, Florie, a young lady who has a knack of getting what she wants when she wants it.

Florie and a friend are selling tags in San Francisco for the purpose of getting funds for a seaman's home. She accedes Peasley and his pal, one Murphy, who buy tags and are about to leave when a sneak thief seizes Florie's purse and flees. He is over-come by Peasley and the latter seizes the opportunity to become acquainted with Florie.

Peasley and Murphy sail for the South seas on one of Cappy's ships. The captain is slain by savages and Matt takes command as first mate. He brings the craft into port where he receives word from Ricks that he is sending an older man to bring the vessel back to San Francisco. When the new captain arrives and attempts to wrest the command of the ship from Peasley, he is thoroughly thrashed by the latter where he finds Cappy Ricks furious at the disobedience of orders. To add to Cappy's rage, he will marry him.

From this point on the action becomes increasingly absorbing. One of the exciting features is a shipwreck in which Peasley proves himself a hero. The story ends happily.

The other feature of the week-end is the famous special Paramount production, "The Golem." This is a picture of a celebrated legend of medieval Europe. Paul Wegener, a well-known European actor, not only wrote the scenario, but he directed the play as well. Incidentally, he plays the leading role.

The story is of the time of Emperor Rudolph of Hapsburg. The emperor takes place at Prague and has to do with an elixir sent forth by the evil power of a Jewish magician, who leaves the city. A rabbi, famed for his magic and his sculpturing, molds out of clay a figure he calls the Golem and with a magic formula, vests it with life. He takes his Golem to the emperor, impresses the monarch as to the magic power of the figure and following more complications within the rabbi's home, finally brings peace and relief to his followers. The production is one of the most unusual seen in Lowell in many months.

A comedy, "The Golem," which will appeal to not only the followers of the sport, but to the general public as well, and the International News complete, the bill.

Believed to Be Escaped Auto Thief

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—A man believed by the police to be James Monahan, who made a sensational escape from jail at Worcester last January, was held here today, awaiting identification. The man was apprehended in the South End district. Monahan, alleged to have been the leader of a trio of automobile thieves, was sentenced in Worcester to serve eight to 10 years in state prison. Shackled to twelve other prisoners, he was taken to the county jail and had reached the jail yard when he slipped out of the handcuffs which held him to prisoners on either side of him, scaled the high wall and disappeared.

$30,000 Fire Loss at Biddeford, Maine

BIDDEFORD, Me., Sept. 27.—Fire, which was discovered about 3 o'clock this morning, did damage to Main block on Main street, and its occupants to an estimated amount of some $30,000. The structure, which is one of the finest in the city, is owned by Lewis Polskevich, and son. It was occupied on the ground floor by the hall of the local branch, American Legion, club rooms of Circle Frontaine and offices of Renouf and Lachance, insurance. The clothing stock of Joe The Clothier company, in the Staples block adjoining, also suffered damage from smoke. The loss in each case is partially covered by insurance. The cause is unknown.

Six Cars of Passenger Train Derailed

LYNN, Sept. 27.—Six cars of a Boston & Maine railroad passenger train bound from Rockport for Boston, jumped the tracks today near the General Electric Co. works of West Lynn. None of the cars was overturned, and railroad officials reported that no one had been injured.

Historic Find by Sewer Gang

Continued
certain marks indicate dents that might have been made by the use of the weapon in the warfare of early days.
Conflict of Opinion
Those who have examined the weapon marvel at the soundness and hardness of the material. They are about equally divided in two camps, one insisting that the sword is petrified wood and the other that it is the spear of a sword-fisher. For our part, we are inclined to the latter theory, because the break near the top shows a row of small holes, each big enough to admit the head of a pin which is a characteristic of bone. Besides, where a piece was broken off by the workmen at the hill, there is a tubular aperture running toward the top which in all probability passes to one of the small holes shown in the upper break.
Those who believe that the sword is petrified wood, point to its weight which is perhaps four times as great as an oak weapon of the same size. They hold that there is some chemical quality in the soil or the water at that point that has petrified the wood. This usually occurs where there is a deposit of lime.
John Balfrey, who holds to this theory, cites the petrifying qualities of the waters of Lough Neagh in Ireland, where the people in the vicinity who want 1st class whiteness make out pieces of wood of the proper size, throw them into the lake and in from five to seven years recover them in a petrified state. Mr. Balfrey thinks that the water of Lake's brook on the edge of which this sword was found may have been petrifying quality in a lesser degree for it is assumed that this sword has lain there since the Indian tribes roamed the Merrimack valley and armed themselves against the intrusion of the white man upon their hunting and fishing preserves.
We cannot find anything in support of Mr. Balfrey's theory unless it might be that there is a petrifying spring in that vicinity. If the water of Lake's brook possessed the petrifying quality, the fact would have been known long ago and pieces of wood and branches of trees would have been found turned to stone. But nothing of this kind has been discovered in the past.
Mr. Tighe believes the weapon is that with which the sword fish impales its prey and sometimes pierces

It was announced at the office of the company today. There was no damage to the truck. No arrests in connection with the larceny have been made yet.

Connors is Traffic Supervisor
a task. With the coming of the new regulations, the role of a general supervisor of their enforcement has been foreseen and the mayor feels that Connors is the man for the job.
The new traffic signs in Merrimack square, put in all have been set in position. Each of them reads: "No Stoppage in this area. Per order, Police Department." Signs have also been put in on Broadway street, reading: "Stop early to left and proceed in this street between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m." The Prescott street rules will be very strictly enforced.
By tomorrow night it is expected that the work of erecting traffic signs in Central Bridge, Merrimack and East Merrimack streets will be completed. Late in the afternoon a set in position at intersecting streets in the Highlands. While the new regulations have not yet been officially promulgated, they are due to go into effect once all the signs have been erected. The work is being done under the direction of Arthur H. Wood, secretary to the mayor and the chairman of commerce. White lines, marking off safety zones in Merrimack square, will be a reality within a few weeks, Mr. Woodley says.

Dry Law Violators

de's home for what he believed was to purchase liquor.
The defendant, Victor Fernandez, of Suffolk street, charged with unlawfully keeping liquor, was continued to October 8. The premises of the defendant were raided last night, according to police information, and a gallon of moonshine was seized.
Sebron Brooks, of Suffolk street, charged with larceny, started to declare his innocence as soon as his case was called, affirmed it and reaffirmed it throughout the trial and even when the court had imposed a $15 fine, he arose from his seat in the dock and repeated "I'm not guilty. I'm not guilty."
He then went further and entered an appeal from the fine.
It was charged that Brooks stole $16 from Peter Sokorails at about nine o'clock last night while the latter was on his way home according to the plaintiff's testimony Brooks wanted to know where to find a place where he could get a drink. Sokorails told him he didn't know of any. Sokorails stated that Brooks then snatched $16 in bills he had taken from his pocket and fled. He gave chase and followed him to a house on Suffolk street where he had him arrested by an officer. Asked by Deputy Downey where his home was, Brooks replied: "My home is in Georgia, but it was in Maine up to four weeks ago when I came to Lowell and now it's on Suffolk street."
He denied the story told by Sokorails stating that they had arrested the "wrong man." When police officers told the court that he was under the influence of liquor, Brooks said he never drank and offered to bring to court witnesses who could testify whether he ever touched liquor or not. "I have been working with an automobile company in Middlesex street ever since I came to Lowell. I get paid on Monday and that's why I had money on me. You want to know why I stopped outside the house on Suffolk street where I was arrested. That's where I live. I pay rent there for a room and I had a right to be there. Your Honor." But when Sokorails asked by the court if he was sure he had arrested the right man, reassured the judge that Brooks was the man who took his money, the fine was imposed. The drunk charge was filed.

John J. Janocha, in court for assault and battery, was charged with slapping a young woman at a Cohen street dance hall Saturday night after she had refused to dance with him because, she testified, he was under the influence of liquor. The defendant was fined $10 for the latter charge yesterday and paid it. The young woman on the stand said that Janocha went up to her, asked her for a dance but she refused him, noticing his condition.

"First he swore at me and then slapped me in the face. When I threatened to call a policeman he said he wasn't afraid of me or the whole police force," she completed. She then summoned an officer and had him arrested.

Officer Conway told the court that after the arrest Janocha stated he had slapped the young woman but that "he was only fooling."

The policeman said he was drunk at the time. The court ordered him found guilty and placed the case on file. "When I imposed sentence yesterday I also took into consideration this affair," said the judge. Janocha had to pay court costs, however.

John J. Healey, the soldier from Camp Devens held yesterday for drunkenness pending notification of his superior army officers by the police, was in the dock again today and was ordered held again until tomorrow when Deputy Downey told the court army authorities would come to take him today sure.

George Burney, in court yesterday for drunkenness, today withdrew the appeal he had entered from a two months' sentence to the house of correction.

George F. Bright got drunk last night and then went to sleep in another man's house, police testimony revealed to the court.

"Is that right, that you got so drunk that you went into another home and went to sleep and they had to call the police to put you out?" asked the judge, turning to the defendant.

"I don't remember nothing," answered Bright.

"Of course you don't," retorted the court. "10."

A case of assault and battery against Edward L. Pratt was put over to October 4 and Edward F. Halligan was given a three months' suspended sentence to the house of correction for drunkenness, placing him on probation until February 28, 1922.

to get to lifeboats and pieces of floating timbers.
According to a story told by witnesses of the accident who were aboard the tender Camden and the sister ships, the R-6 was tied up at 6 o'clock last night with two hawsers binding her to three sister ships, and two hawsers connecting the string of submarines with the mother ship.

Cut Hawsers, Releasing Sub
Prior to the disaster, the entire crew it was said, was inside the hull getting torpedoes ready for battle practice. Suddenly the rope jammed apparently yielded to sea pressure and opened. The vessel began to fill rapidly and the members of the crew rushed for the conning tower. One of the first men to reach the outside of the submarine was seen to cut the hawsers, releasing the other submarines.

Just as the man believed to have been Spaulvers, who, was reported drowned, reached the conning tower ladder, there was a gas explosion, and it is said that he was thrown clear of the tower. A stream of water following him, the man believed to have been J. Dreffon, reported drowned, never reached the tower ladder. It is said, and he is believed to have gone down with the boat.

The R-6 was of the Holland type, built in 1918. Lieut. S. D. Pratt and J. St. Steel were junior officers. A landing party from the flagship New Mexico told the Los Angeles Examiner that they were unable to give a detailed account of the sinking, but they believed that while members of the crew were filling a cylinder with alcohol, the tubes of the vessel became opened in some unaccountable manner, and she sank within 30 seconds.

The cause of the disaster included 20 officers and men, and efforts were made to check the unaccounted for and the missing, to determine if any more men were lost.

It is said that the submarine went down bow first. As soon as the alarm was sounded searchlights from all ships of the fleet lying at anchor in the harbor were turned on the scene of the disaster.

According to the Examiner, executive officers of the submarine base and the Pacific fleet were immediately called into a conference aboard the flagship New Mexico. Advice regarding the reported sinking was telegraphed to the navy department at Washington and preparations were made for rescue work.

Admiral Eberle, who at present is in San Diego, was notified of the accident and it is expected that he will return to San Pedro this morning to attend a meeting of a court of inquiry, which will investigate the sinking.

The R-6 was tied up to the tender Camden when she sank. That the depth list was not larger and that only one submarine was involved is thought to have been due to the presence of mind of one sailor whose name is not known, who, it is said, was in the R-6. He saw the R-6's trouble, and he forewarned and cut the hawsers by which the submarine was moored to the Camden and two other vessels of type similar to the R-6.

Divers are working feverishly in the hope that one sailor who is thought to have been on the R-6 may still be alive in the vessel which is resting on the harbor floor, 35 feet under water. The belief was expressed that, should this man be in the R-6, he may have succeeded in closing the compartments into which water rushed through open tubes when the submarine went down.

Los Angeles Man Slain In Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—C. Daere Kissimbury, Los Angeles mining engineer and superintendent of a mining company at Medeira, Mexico, was slain at that place Saturday as he was planning to return to Los Angeles, according to advices received by his family here. The mine is in Chihuahua state, 250 miles from a railroad.

WALTER E. GUYETTE — Auctioneer

Office, 31 Central St., Lowell, Mass. Telephone 2415.

THE OWNERS OF THE TWO-STORY TENEMENT DWELLING, AND THE TWO-STORY COTTAGE HOUSE, AND ABOUT 6000 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, SITUATED AT NOS. 31-33 FISHER STREET, IN CENTRAL-VILLE, HAVE DECIDED TO MAKE SALE, AND HAVE THEREFORE INSTRUCTED THE AUCTIONEER TO SELL TO THE HIGHEST bona fide BIDDERS AT ABSOLUTE AND UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE, ON NEXT SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1921, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

The premises consist of a two-story two-tenement dwelling of six rooms and a separate cottage house of six rooms and a city water to each, at No. 31 Fisher Street. The tenement on the first floor has hall, parlor, dining-room, and two chambers, kitchen, pantry and toilet. The upper flat has six rooms on the one floor, and pantry and toilet. There are two finished rooms in the attic for either tenement. The house has hardwood floors in part, has a plentiful supply of closet room to each room, and is in excellent repair both inside and out. The upper tenement is rented to a very desirable tenant, who pays a rental of $150 per week, or $324 per year. The lower flat has recently been vacated, allowing the purchaser, if he so chooses, an immediate occupancy, or he may rent the same as the present tenant, at a rental of $260 per year, making a total rental for this parcel of $494 per year. The cellar is high posted and is divided for each tenant. The roof is slated and the premises present a very attractive appearance both for a home or investment.

The cottage house at No. 33 Fisher Street, on the same lot as the above described, is a two-story structure of six rooms and bath room, open plumbing, hot and cold water, (copper boiler). On the first floor there are parlor, dining-room and kitchen, and on the second floor there are three most attractive, light and airy chambers, and open plumbing bath-room. The house is supplied with hot city water and sewer, and is in excellent repair. The building is dry, is extra high posted and very light, having five windows. This building has an abundance of closet room, and is heavily constructed, is high studded, and was built within six years by the present owner.

This sale is most unusual, as it presents an opportunity for a buyer to have a cottage by himself, to have an income from two tenements, and the whole property located on the one lot, makes the cost of care and management practically free. Its location is within one-half mile of the city center of the Lakeview line of electric, within a reasonable distance to the city's larger manufacturing industries, in an attractive and quiet home locality, should make this sale especially appealing to all classes interested in real estate, whether buying for home purposes or for investment, or for speculation, or for future development as the same can be referred to not only as a home property but as a high grade investment, as the property can yield an income of $322 per year, by renting the cottage at the nominal rent of $550 per week.

The premises may be seen at any time before the sale, by calling at the office of the auctioneer.

TERMS: $500 must be deposited with the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms made known at the time of sale.

By order of MARTIN G. AND MARGARET E. MURPHY.

AUCTION SALE

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 28th, at 10 A. M.

Real Estate, Household Furniture, Stock and Fixtures of the Beaver Brook Hotel, Situated at the Corner of Orchard Street and Colburn Ave., Collinsville.

The real estate consists of the well known Beaver Brook Hotel. The main building has three stories, has 22 rooms, a large store, pool room, dining room, extra living room that is entirely separate from the hotel. There is a barn for horse and cow, garage for two machines, 50 foot hen house, wood sheds and other out buildings. This is a corner lot containing 5000 square feet, more or less. The buildings are supplied with town water, gas and electric lights. The large store has always had a good trade which is quite an item for a person running a house of this kind. You not only have an income from the store, but also have your own provisions at first cost, which is no small matter. The house has always been a paying one, always on the borders. The board bills are collected by the mill. There are two electric car lines to Collinsville from Lowell and it is but a few steps to Willow Dale and Lakeview, large summer resorts with good bathing, boating and fishing.

This hotel has been conducted by Mr. Holt for some time, but as he is about to engage in another line of business, we will sell without limit to the highest bidder.

I shall also sell two building lots of land across the street from the hotel, each containing 5000 square feet, the crop of vegetables on the lots will also be sold. Real estate will be sold first.

The personal property consists of the furnishings of 25 sleeping rooms containing bed, springs, mattresses, blankets, comforters, pillows, spreads, sheets, pillow slips, curtains, art squares, rugs, pictures, dressers, chairs, extra chairs and rockers, toilet sets, sitting room chairs, couches, nearly new Singer sewing machines, dining room tables, number of chairs, sideboards, ice chest, parlor stove, kitchen range with double oven, kitchen ware, lot of dishes, silverware and glassware.

The store has a large stock of canned goods, cereals, tea and coffee, cigars and tobacco, lot of small wares, five housewares, counters, large butter refrigerator, large stove, three good tables. There are also about 40 young laying hens to be sold. Two tons of coal and a lot of wood.

This is a chance of a lifetime—a hotel with a store and pool room attached that has made money for the present owner and will for the purchaser. It is within five minutes' electric car ride to the city of Lowell, which has a population of over 125,000. Come and look the property over any time before the sale.

Terms of sale—$500 deposit on the hotel, $100 on the lots of land. All personal property, cash. Other terms at sale.

Per Order, GEORGE HOLT.

"High Time That Careless and Reckless Driving Was Curbed" Says Local District Court Justice

Automobilists arrested for alleged violations of the motor vehicle laws will receive no mercy in the local court, Judge Thomas J. Enright declared at the district session this morning after J. Robert Johnson of Leominster, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Conway on Bridge street and charged with operating an automobile without a license, failed to appear in court and was pronounced defaulted.

Not only at this juncture did the judge make known his feelings on this matter, but also after the day's session was completed he told "The Sun" reporter that he intended making auto law offenders "see the mark" in court hereafter.

"They will absolutely receive no mercy at my hands," stated the judge.

Prosecution Witness in Arbuckle Case Plans to Sue "Fatty's" Lawyer

Miss Leh Prevost, Show Girl, First Witness Called Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Miss Leh Prevost, one of the show girls participating in Roscoe C. Arbuckle's hotel party which led to the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, was the first witness today in the Arbuckle murder charge hearing in police court.

Arbuckle, Miss Rappe, Mrs. Bambina, Maude Delmont, Miss Icie Blake, Alfred Semmacher and Lowell Sherman were in Arbuckle's suite when she joined the party, she testified. Arbuckle and Sherman were dressed in pajamas, both robes and slippers, she said.

Miss Rappe was seated on a settee at Arbuckle's side, according to the witness who said she saw "a little bit" of drinking.

LOWELL IS TRYING HARD TO AVOID ACCIDENTS
Lowell, like other cities and towns in New England, is doing its darndest to make a record in No Accident Week. Every method known is being practiced by public officials and private citizens alike to keep the list of accidents as low as possible.

There are certain accidents which seem to be unpreventable despite every precaution taken. It is accidents of the careless sort, advocates of the No accident week are attempting to eliminate.

On the first day Lowell had one death reported, that when a man was killed by a fall from a bridge to the top of a moving train. But as a rule other accidents reported were of a minor nature, medical assistance being necessary in only one or two cases.

Two incidents happened yesterday that may be classed as accidents, but their results were so uninjuring, the

CONGRESSMAN TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB
Congressman John Jacob Rogers addressed the Rotary club at its weekly luncheon held this noon at the Boys' club. For his topic, Congressman Rogers took the coming disarmament congress which is to meet at Washington on November 11 and to which the great powers of the world will send representatives.

Two or three points brought out in the speech struck his listeners as being extremely well put and served to open up new angles hitherto unthought of by a great many of these present.

Congressman Rogers pointed out it wasn't with the idea of totally dis-

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Action Delayed Until Council Can Talk With Consulting Engineer

The greater part of this morning's session of the municipal council was taken up with a discussion of the request of the Engineering Service & Construction company of Boston that it be allowed to close all of Central bridge to traffic with the exception of one sidewalk and a narrow stretch of roadway already reconstructed. The company, through its attorney, Fred N. Wier, insisted that under the terms of its contract, it had the right to do this and asserted that the people of Centralville would rather have the entire bridge finished within a few months and have the structure closed in the interim, rather than have the job extend through the winter.

MAYOR APPOINTS NEW POLICEWOMAN

Mayor Perry D. Thompson today announced the temporary appointment of Miss Matilda Costello, of 167 Pleasant st. as a policewoman to succeed Mrs. Nora H. Leary, who recently resigned.

Miss Costello's name does not appear on the civil service list. The only names on that list are those of Miss Mary A. Shugrue, of 413 Chalmers road st. and Miss Inah G. Lowell, who resigned from the department some time ago. Inasmuch as neither of these women want the position, the mayor has sought permission to make a provisional appointment with Miss Costello as his choice. The latter has accepted the appointment. She is very well known in Belvidere.

TWO DIE AS U. S. SUB SINKS

Disaster Believed to Have Been Caused by Water Rushing in Torpedo Tube

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Sept. 27.—Only two men lost their lives when the submarine R-6 sank in Los Angeles harbor last night. It was officially announced today by Rear-Admiral Herman O. Stickney, commander of the Pacific fleet, and an eye witness of part of the disaster. A third man who was missing and who for a time was thought a possible victim of the accident has been accounted for together with all other officers and men of the submarine.

The R-6, naval officers here recalled today, met with an accident in 1919, when she was swept by a high gale onto Black Rock at the entrance to the harbor at New London, Conn. At that time, as last night when she sank in Los Angeles harbor, the R-6 was moored to the mother ship Camden. Although swept upon the rocks, the submarine was not badly damaged and later was floated. The craft then came to the Pacific coast.

Lieut. J. R. Chambers, who was in command of the submarine R-6, is reported to have been the last man to escape from the craft when it sank. After Lieut. Chambers left the submarine he immediately began to aid members of the crew unable to swim.

The Way-Side Pulpit

One can do a whole lot of good outside the church edifice and can even preach effectively outside the Pulpit. No clergyman can take exceptions to such claim. So we continue babbling in our own weak way. "Don't shoot; he's doing his best!"

Answer this: How can a Parent believe he or she is living the Correct Life, a Life entitled to all the hoped-for Rewards of Future Life, if he falls in this Life to provide for those he or she brought into this world? How indeed if he or she fails to inculcate in the minds of the Children, the great Blessing that will follow the habits of THIEF? How great is that RESPONSIBILITY! How certain the REWARD. However, one should certainly practice what they PREACH. The EXAMPLE one sets to others is very effective PREACHING. Savings Deposits at

OLD TIME WAR WEAPON UNEARTHED ON BANK OF HALE'S BROOK.

May Have Been Sword of Some Indian Chief—Dispute as to Whether it is Petrified Wood or Spear of a Swordfish

Here is a story of a war-like relic of early days that will surely interest and even puzzle our ablest historians and antiquarians.

Foreman Owen Tighe, in charge of the sewer gang working on Congress street sewer has dug up a very remarkable sword which may date back to Indian days. For the last two days

it has been the subject of much controversy in the neighborhood and especially at the fire house of Steamer No. 1, corner of Corham and Oliver streets. The sword was struck by the pick of one of the excavators twenty-three feet below the surface near the edge of Hale's brook under which the sewer is to be laid. The weapon is three feet long with a hilt of five inches. It was broken about ten inches from the point and the break showed the material whether petrified wood or bone, to be perfectly sound. Outwardly, especially on one side, the sword shows the grain of oak and even the color; but the other side is dark and shows no grain whatever.

DRY LAW VIOLATORS

Street Bootleggers Our Worst Menace, Says Judge

A fine of $150 was imposed on another violator of the Volstead act in the district court this morning, although Judge Enright expressed himself of "having a good mind to give the defendant a direct jail sentence."

"They are doing it in Boston," commented the justice, "and that's the only way to stop this liquor traffic. Street bootleggers are the worst menace we have."

The defendant, Victor Fernandez, of Charles street, pleaded guilty to making an unlawful sale and paid the fine.

Sergeant Michael Winn of the liquor squad told the court that Fernandez sold a half pint of moonshine for one dollar to a man sent to him by the police last night. The officer also testified that men had been seen congregating on the steps of Fernandez.

Pay of Lowell Street Department Laborers Held Up By Civil Service Commission

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The Civil Service department issued a statement today through Commissioner Dana which reported stoppage of pay of 132 laborers of Lowell from the street and highway department. The curtailment became effective Saturday.

Commissioner Dana has no objection to frequent employment of laborers and is anxious to relieve conditions caused by unemployment. His only objection to the Lowell employment question is the method of selection concerning which there have been many complaints by veterans and other laborers.

Commissioner Dana requires laborers shall be taken from civil service list.

THREE STORIES OF REAL ROMANCE

MRS. BLANCHE SCOTT LEE

MRS. T. G. WINTER

MRS. JULIAN B. SALLEY

"But you must call Mr. Lee up. I want you to meet him." Thus wrote a girl friend from Chicago to Blanche Scott, who is now Mrs. Lee of Council Bluffs, Ia., and chairman of the National Humane society.

The Chicago girl had been visiting in Omaha with Miss Scott and had been showered with attention from Mr. Lee, who had been a friend of some years standing. However, introductions had been omitted. In fact, it happened that Miss Scott, who was a secretary and was working exceptionally long hours just then, never even glimpsed the man who was entertaining her visitor so royally.

So Miss Scott refused to telephone the unknown Mr. Lee until the Chicago girl gave her a message for him which had to be delivered. Miss Scott telephoned. Mr. Lee felt that the least he could do in return for the courtesy was to call and express his thanks in person!

That was in February. In June they were married!

Bank, in the Canadian Rockies, is the place in which the romance of the life of the president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. T. G. Winter, began. It was there that she met Mr. Winter.

"Mr. Winter had come from England and was traveling. My brother and I were also traveling.

"It seems to have been a case of love at first sight on both sides," says Mrs. Winter, "but, since we have been happy together for 23 years, we contradict all of the theories of danger connected with that foolish state of mind!"

A law office is something of a routine place.

But a girl, who loved dancing and out-of-door sports, was picturesquely southern and of that happy social type, found in the law office of her uncle someone who interested her in law!

She married the "somebody" and so became Mrs. Julian B. Salley, president director of the third region of the National League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Salley later began a serious study of law in her husband's office. When, at the close of the war, so much money was needed by the League of Women Voters to further their cause, Mrs. Salley gave up studying and opened a real estate and insurance office in which she has been singularly successful—due, says she, "to the sympathy and support of an understanding husband."

STATE INCOME TAX

The attention of residents of this city is called to the fact that the state income tax will be due Oct. 1 although 15 days of grace will be allowed. After Oct. 15 interest at the rate of 6 per cent retroactive to Oct. 1 will be charged. Cheques should be made payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and should be sent to Frank W. Derby, local collector, room 405, Sun Building.

Nature's first warning of some hidden kidney weakness. You may have headaches and dizziness, too, with sharp, stabbing pains, a depressed, nervous feeling, and annoying bladder irregularities. 'Don't risk gravel, dropsy, or dreaded Bright's disease. Help your weakened kidneys before it is too late. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These LOWELL Folks Found Relief

Mrs. Mary Salts, 89 B street, says: "My kidneys were always weak and the least cold I took settled in my back and kidneys. My back ached and I felt dull and weak. My kidneys acted irregularly, at times. The medicine I was using didn't help me at all, so I tried Doan's Kidney Pills. They were just what I needed and they helped me wonderfully. Doan's relieved the backache and regulated my kidneys. I know they can't be beat for kidney complaint."

D. W. Hilliard, captain in city fire department, 20 Osgood Street, says: "Several years ago I hurt my back by a fall and it weakened my kidneys. At different times, my back became weak and there was a dull, constant pain in the small of it. If I bent over, the pain seemed to be sharp and it was quite difficult for me to straighten up. Whenever I have had these attacks, Doan's Kidney Pills have given me relief." (Statement given October 23, 1914).

STILL PRAISES DOAN'S

On February 17, 1919, Mr. Hilliard said: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills is as strong as ever. I know they are a reliable kidney remedy and will do what is claimed for them. They helped me wonderfully."

Mrs. M. L. Wells, 19 Franklin street, says: "My kidneys were weak and usually in the spring. I had attacks of backache. I also felt dull and run down and had no energy at all. My work seemed a burden to me. My kidneys acted irregularly. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I have always used at these times, have never failed to put my kidneys in good order and restore my strength. They also have relieved the backaches and other signs of kidney complaints."

F. O. Townsend 14 Somerset street, says: "There was a dull, constant throbbing in the small of my back. My back was stiff and sore. The kidney secretions began to pass too frequently and I had to get up at night. The secretions were also highly colored. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended that I got a box. Doan's cured the trouble and there has never been a return of it."

GIRL GAGGED AND AS-FOUR CHILDREN
SAULTED BY BOYS ELECTROCUTED

WESTFIELD, Sept. 27.—While her escort was obliged to look on, Miss Annie Filio, a 14-year-old nurse girl employed in the family of Mayor Geo. Searle, was dragged into Pine Hill cemetery on Saturday night, and, after being gagged, was attacked by one young man while another held her.

This fact did not come to light until yesterday, when the police arrested Edward O'Brien, aged 18, of 66 King street, and Raymond Conway, aged 19, of 63 Meadow street, charging them with criminal assault on Miss Filio. The young men were questioned at length by the police, and after the grilling it was stated that both admitted their guilt. They will be arraigned in the district court today.

Ruth Mills, 7, daughter of Mrs. Arthur E. Wallace.

Jennie Borsch, 9, daughter of Franz Borsch.

Nine other children on the car escaped injury through the presence of mind of Motorman Hertel, who heroically kept them in the car until the current was shut off.

The children were being taken home from the lower primary and Maple Avenue grammar schools. All of them lived in Northwest Kingston.

Carried School Children

The trolley car was what is known as the school car and takes children from the schools to their home along the line as far as Plympton. It was a one-man car of the Brockton & Plymouth Electric railroad.

As it rounded the curve approaching the bridge over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tracks on Pembroke street, the trolley pole left the wire. Hertel stopped the car and went out to adjust it while the high tension wire that carries 13,000 volts from the head electric station at East Bridgewater to the trolley pole was broken. In a short time automobiles crowded with people began to arrive.

Jennie Borsch, when she fell, went under the car, and as the air in the brakes let up the car slid back over the body, where it lay until a wrecking crew from Plymouth arrived. The clothing on the dead children was nearly all burned from their bodies and they were badly burned.

Hertel was knocked unconscious when he thought he saw signs of life in one of the bodies and tried to pick it up. He recovered.

Dr. N. K. Noyes, assistant medical examiner of the district, was summoned and had the bodies removed to undertaking rooms of J. J. Shepard & Son, of this town.

Shouted Warning in Yawn

Motorman Hertel said that as soon as he saw that the high tension wire was down, he shouted to the children not to come out, as the charged wire was alongside the side of the car, but the leaders paid no attention to him.

Hertel telephoned as quickly as he could to have the current shut off and then tried to get the children away from the car. The news soon spread and in a short time automobiles crowded with people began to arrive.

Hertel was knocked unconscious when he thought he saw signs of life in one of the bodies and tried to pick it up. He recovered.

Dr. N. K. Noyes, assistant medical examiner of the district, was summoned and had the bodies removed to undertaking rooms of J. J. Shepard & Son, of this town.

Search Woods for Body of Woodsman

GREENVILLE JUNCTION, Me., Sept. 27.—Search of the woods near Northeast Carry was made today for the body of a woodsman known as Campbell, believed to have been killed in a quarrel. Deputy Sheriff A. G. Rogers held Allen Twitchell, another woodsman, in the jail here, announcing that he admitted shooting Campbell Sunday night and asserted he acted in self-defense. Campbell ran away after being wounded, he said. The man has not been seen since and Sheriff Rogers said it appeared probable that the body would be found in the woods.

Election by Mail at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 27.—An election by mail is being held at Harvard today to choose a new track captain. James Tolbert, giant shot-putter, has entered the law school instead of returning to college, vacating the captaincy position. Ballots have been mailed to all members of the last track team eligible to vote and the result is expected Saturday. Fiske Brown, hammer thrower and football guard, and Bayard Wharton and Dick Chute, quartermilers are leading candidates.

King Constantine Returns to Athens

ATHENS, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—King Constantine has arrived here from Hrusa, being accompanied by Crown Prince George, Prince Nicholas and Minister of War Theotokis. He was given a popular reception. Before proceeding to the palace, the king went to the cathedral where he attended prayers for the success of the Greek armies.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem Here They Come

(With Apologies to Kipling)

NOW the blazing summer's ended, now the baseball season dies,
Now the tennis fans are drawing to a close;
Now the schoolroom's full of children, now the bowlers all arise,
Now the billiardists awaken from their doze;
Now the students flock to college in the splendor of their youth
And the air is like a draft of tingling wine;
Now we cease to talk of Speaker or of Cobb or even Ruth
For the football heroes start to hit the line!

We must go, go, go away from here,
On the sidelines we're a little overdue:
Oh there's thrills enough before you
When the football fever's o'er you
And the Great Game calls to you!

NOW the tackling dummy's ready, now the coaches bawl and shout,
Now the pigskin goes in spirals to the sky;
Now the leaders of the cheering cheer crazily about
And the thunder of the rosters makes reply;
Who shall tell of sport more splendid, who shall praise a braver game,
Who shall sing of any spectacle so fine
As when mighty gridiron battles set your pulses all aflame
And the football heroes hurtle through the line!

We must go, go, go away from here,
On the sidelines we're a little overdue:
Oh there's thrills enough before you
When the football fever's o'er you
And the Great Game calls to you!

MRS. OELRICHS, BUSINESS AND SOCIETY WOMAN, IN HER SUIT-FROCK OF TAUPÉ DUVETYN.

By N.E.A. Service
NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—A Newport society woman has solved the dress problem for the modern woman of affairs.
Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs, a member of the exclusive inner circle has recently opened an imposing shop near the Casino.
Her double role of society and business woman demands that she be dressed for every contingency, but allows her no time for frequent changing. She found that the problem of being dressed for her hours in the trading company and being equally ready for luncheon at the Hippopus was perplexing.
So she had the Wooltex designers make her a costume which she is now using for all occasions except evening attire. She will wear costumes following this design in her New York shop on East 47th street this fall.

On the street or for motoring it is a tailored suit. Indoors, with the coat off, it is a sleeveless dress worn with a silk blouse.
"I am a believer in discriminating-ly simple dress," says Mrs. Oelrichs.
"I feel that the fascinations of business are rivaling the fascinations of clothes, and that the women who do-things simply can't be annoyed with the futile whims of fashion."

RORKE HELD IN $3000

Arrested on Charge of Attempting to Ship Riot Guns to Ireland

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—George Gordon Rorke of Washington, arrested on orders from Atty. Gen. Daugherty as the result of an attempt to ship riot guns to Ireland, demanded an immediate hearing when arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock today. At the request of Asst. Dist.
Atty. Mattuck, however, the hearing was set for Oct. 10, Rorke being permitted liberty under $3000 bail.
Information was withheld by the federal authorities as to three other men involved with Rorke.

DOUBTS MRS. LAWS COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Doubts that Mrs. Grace Laws killed herself after fatally wounding Miss Mildred Hanan last week were created yesterday by a report which Dist. Atty. Lewis of Brooklyn said had moved him to continue his investigation of the case.
The report reaching him, he stated, said that Mrs. Laws might not have died by her own hand and that another man besides John S. Borland was near by when she shot Miss Hanan.

Dist. Atty. Lewis said he would have a careful examination made of the body of Mrs. Laws, which remains unclaimed at the morgue. There it was said the remains would be committed to a potter's field if not claimed.

Miss Hanan died Sunday without clearing up the mystery of the shooting. Her body was taken yesterday to the Brooklyn home of her brother, Alfred Hanan, where the funeral will be held Wednesday.

Miss "Billie" Williams, a friend of Mrs. Laws, was unable to supply a motive for the shooting when questioned by Reuben Wilson, assistant district attorney. A letter addressed to Miss Williams was found among the papers of Mrs. Laws after the shooting. It revealed Mrs. Laws' intention of committing suicide and requested that her body be cremated and sent to California.

Miss Williams told Mr. Wilson that Mrs. Laws suffered for several years from an intestinal ailment and that she had been taking medicine and drugs while seeking relief from the terrible pains to which she was subjected.

Alfred Hanan also was questioned, but threw little light on the mystery.
Mr. Wilson said Borland and Miss Dorothy Gottlieb, outside whose apartment the shooting occurred, will be questioned today.

PREVENT REPETITION OF WORLD WAR

Rev. J. Trewartha delivered a lecture at the Graham street Methodist church last night, having for his subject, "With Tommy on the Road to Tipperary." The need for some association composed of sensible men from the English speaking nations to prevent a repetition of the world war, and that the Y.M.C.A. has not been given enough credit for its work, were strongly emphasized by the speaker.

During the course of his talk, Rev.
Trewartha carried his audience through the formation of the English soldier from the time he was enlisted into Kitchener's army until his return to "Hilary."

The speaker was well qualified for his subject as he enlisted as a private, worked his way to a commission and was finally put in command of his original detachment.
In conclusion he outlined the ideals for which the war was fought and significantly asked if having attained these ideals the world is, by its apathy, to place them in jeopardy once more.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27. (By the Associated Press.)—Property acquired by oil corporations to May 1, 1917, cannot be construed as coming within the provisions of Article 21 of the Mexican constitution which nationalizes petroleum deposits. This is the view of several legal authorities who last night examined the formal decision in the Texas Co. Amparo case which was handed down last night by the Mexican supreme court. Members of the court admitted that paragraph 4 of article 27 contained "perplexing problems," but they concurred in the decision that this article could not impair titles to property perfected before the constitution went into effect.

George T. Sumner, American charge d'affaires in this city, obtained a copy of the decision last night. He will forward it immediately to the state department in Washington, but refused to comment on the court's action.
The document was lengthy, containing more than 3000 words.
The supreme court reversed the lower court's ruling, but did not find that President Carranza exceeded his powers when he issued the decree ordering the denunciation of the Texas Co.'s properties under the provisions of article 27.

"Paragraph 4 of article 27," said the section of the decision dealing with the non-retroactivity of the article in question, "cannot be regarded as retroactive, either in its text or its spirit.
It does not attack acquired rights."

Seaplanes were used extensively as air taxis in the Adirondacks.

Principals in Shooting of Hanan Heiress

Mrs. Grace Laws (left) who committed suicide after shooting Miss Mildred Hanan (right) daughter and heir of the late A. P. Hanan, millionaire shoe manufacturer. The shooting took place in Brooklyn, in the presence of John S. Borland, the New York exporter, who was seeing Miss Hanan home. Borland told police that he was a friend of both women, and added: "Mrs. Laws had no reason to be infatuated with me." In a last letter to her mother, Mrs. Laws said: "Too much high life," in explaining her illness.

SEN. WILLIAMS OPPOSE TREATIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Senate warfare over the German peace treaty was resumed yesterday and informal caucuses of republican and democratic leaders were held to show about a dozen senators in opposition—three of them republicans.
A notable accession yesterday to the opposition ranks was Senator Williams of Mississippi, veteran democratic member of the foreign relations committee. Although he had declared himself previously in favor of ratification, Senator Williams announced to the senate that he had decided finally to vote against, because "desertion of the allies was involved."

Democratic senators will meet today to discuss their positions. Senator Underwood of Alabama, democratic leader, issued the conference call after consulting Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee. It was said there was no intention to cancel or hide senators.

Senator Lodge urged prompt ratification, while Senator Borah, republican, irrefragable, spoke two hours in opposition. Another republican "irreconcilable," Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, and Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, intervened in favor of ratification.

Asserting that the new treaty would entangle this nation in European affairs, Senator Borah emphasized predictions that America would be required to participate in the allied reparations commission and become involved in European affairs. Senator Brandegee declared against such participation.

The reparations commission was denounced as "a militaristic government" by Senator Borah, who declared Europe could never recover until the Versailles treaty had been changed.

"You could have gotten out of this for 10 years," said Senator Borah, referring to the term of German indentity payments. He predicted that eventually the German people would rebel against the Versailles treaty terms.

Deploping a policy of national isolation, Senator Williams said that at first "in moments of pessimism" he had been inclined to support the new treaties. Later, he said, had come feelings of "disgust and desperation" and he had finally concluded to oppose ratification "because I will not be a party to any agreement that leaves out our allies and associates of the war and our boys and the other boys who died on the fields of battle."

The new treaties, Senator Williams said, constitute "an ignominious and inglorious postscript" to American war history.

FRATERNAL NEWS

The scarlet degree was conferred on three members at the regular meeting of Loyal Integrity lodge, I.O.O.F.M.U., which was held in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street, Tuesday evening.
The lodge was presided over by Wm.

Howe, Donald M. Cameron, William T.
Sheppard, L. A. O'Leary, Otis W. Butler,
C. E. Fleming, H. J. Ball, B. H. Wiggin, Walter Clement, W. H. C. Wright, H. Hutchings Parker, C. T. Upton and General Secretary H. F. Howe.

Members of Integrity Staff association held an outing at the summer camp of Richard Taff on the shores of Lake Muscogee Sunday. The affair was largely attended and all present enjoyed the program immensely.
Sports were carried out and an appetizing dinner was served.

HEROES OF LAND AND SEA OPEN CONVENTION

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Heroes of land and sea, members of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor of the United States comprising those who have been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor or the Distinguished Service Cross, opened a two days' convention here today. Former Governor Samuel
B. Dineen of Vermont, leader of Union forces in the Civil war, and Capt. Samuel R. Horne, said to be the first from Connecticut to volunteer in the Civil war, were among the heroic veterans greeted by Mayor Peters and a citizens' committee.

A plan to continue the life of the organization by the creation of a second class of membership, to which the lineal descendants of the members would be eligible, will be considered by the convention.

A dinner at which Governor Cox,
Mayor Peters and Maj. Gen. Clarence
B. Edwards will be guests of honor, will close the gathering tomorrow night.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD OF GOVERNORS MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the board of governors of the Y.M.C.A. held at that institution last night showed the association was making steady progress despite the general business depression.

After supper was served at 6.30 by Mrs. Stephen W. Hands and the Ladies' Auxiliary regular business routine was taken up, Louis A. Olney presiding. Reports were read by the chairman of the various committees.

Walter W. Cleworth was elected treasurer to succeed C. B. Redway who has held the position for some time.

The report of the membership committee showed a total of 1405, which included 532 in the men's department and 474 in the boys' department. This year shows a gain of 103 members.

At the present time there are 102 men living in the dormitory. Nearly 150 transients have been accommodated since June 1.

During the summer months the attendance in the physical department of which was public work in session
as follows: June, 2336; July, 3520; August, 3024; September to date, 1950. Totals,
12,430.

Arrangement has been made with H.
E. Hockman, physical director, for the winter program. Ernest Hale, assistant physical director at Wilmington, N.
Del., will be associated with Mr. Hockman.

During the summer months two meetings of the Lowell Society of Industrial Science were held and three meetings of the Lowell safety council one of which was public work in session.

As usual the Y.M.C.A. camp for boys was conducted at Camp Nabnasset by T. R. Williams. The greatest number of boys there at any one time was 131.
The other directors present included:
Benjamin W. Clements, W. A. Cleworth,
Henry Polard, H. W. Thorne, S. H.
Thompson, Abel R. Campbell, W. K.
Howe, Donald M. Cameron, William T.
Sheppard, L. A. O'Leary, Otis W. Butler,

THE MARDI GRAS DANCERS

Perhaps one of the most attractive groups in the Girls' club play, "Springtime," which will be presented at the Opera House, Oct. 17 and 18, is that of the Mardi Gras dancers. The girls will be dressed in the ever-pleasing costume of the Harlequin and Columbine and will enact an up-to-the-minute modern jazz dance. Some of the best dancers of the high school have been selected for this chorus and are as follows: The Misses Hazel McFale, Margaret Gossin, Miriam Lannan, Marian McDonald, Josephine Park, Margaret Reynolds, Elizabeth Joyce, Dorothy Ward, Hazel Manning, Margaret Holgate, Anna Harris and Frieda Atkinson.

In direct contrast to this group will be the asthetic number, "Spirit of Memories," a purely interpretive dance.
The girls will dance in soft clinging costumes with veils and in the changing lights make a pretty picture indeed. The personnel of this group is the Misses Dorothy Young, Edith Cau, Annabelle McFale, Bernice Wood, Kathleen Sullivan, Anna Egan, Armandine Lalonde, Marie Lalonde, Laur Edmonds, Alice O'Brien, Dorothy Ryan and Georgianna Lalonde.

Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes' Earnings Exceed Husband's Pay as Senator

MRS. FRANCES PARKINSON KEYES

(By N.E.A. Service)
NORTH HAVERHILL, N. H., Sept. 27.—To be the wife of a United States senator would satisfy most women's ambition.

To mother three lively boys would keep most women occupied.

But this is only part of it with Frances Parkinson Keyes, whose revenues from her writings exceed the salary of her husband as senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. Keyes is putting a new novel, "The Career of David Nobel," on the market in October.

Also she is vice president of the League of American Penwomen and business manager of their magazine, "The Penwoman"; vice president of the Children of the American Revolution; adviser on the national council of the Y.W.C.A.; state chairman for New Hampshire of the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial association; head of the publicity work of the Congress-sional club, which issues a weekly bulletin; and—

But to exhaust the list would merely exhaust the reader.

It was the triple duties of writing, and rearing her boys, and carrying out her social obligations as the wife of the governor of New Hampshire—for it was from the governorship that the senator stepped to his seat in the senate—that prepared Mrs. Keyes for her many present duties.

"I made more than a thousand calls in the capital last year," she says—and this is the more remarkable when it is noted that the Keyes do not keep a car.

Friends speak of her as "the woman who always has time"—for no matter how many or pressing the demands on her, she always seems to find the precious minutes for any duty.

The U. S. nickel is 75 per cent copper.

CONRAD TELLS OF HIS WIFE'S TROUBLE

SAYS SHE HARDLY HAD STRENGTH OF A CHILD WHEN SHE BEGAN TAKING TANLAC

"I can't help but speak out for Tanlac since it has done so much for my wife," said Elgin W. Conrad, 11 Sherrington Court, Springfield, Mass. "About a year and a half ago her health began failing and she became so rundown she hardly had the strength of a child. Her appetite was so poor she ate barely enough to keep going, and was bothered almost continually with gas on her stomach. Her heart palpitated badly, she had awful headaches lasting for several days at a time, and was so nervous and restless she could never sleep well. She complained of feeling tired all the time and in fact, was just about ready to give up. "We could never do anything to help her until some of our friends recommended Tanlac, but four bottles of this medicine have built her up to health and strength. She has a ravenous appetite, digests her food perfectly, and has gained seven pounds in weight. She says she never feels tired now, sleeps like a child at night, and does her housework with ease. Why, she doesn't seem at all like the same person, and we both think Tanlac is the finest medicine made."

EVENING HIGH SCHOOL REGISTRATION

With only one-half the registration sessions over, the enrollment for classes in the Lowell evening high school this year shows an increase of 33 over the enrollment at a corresponding period last year.

The first registration session for new students was held last evening, and 216 young men and women registered. A year ago the figure for the first registration session for new students was 159. In 1919 it was 197, in 1918, 155, and in 1917, 152. Further registration sessions for both former and new pupils will be held this evening, Thursday evening and Friday evening, from 7 to 9 o'clock. The school will open next Monday evening.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE
Margaret Tombs, aged 5 years and residing in North Billerica, was struck by an automobile near her home yesterday morning and sustained a fracture of the left leg and left arm as well as other minor injuries. The accident occurred while the little girl was waiting for the school bus to take her to the Pollard school in the Centre village.

VISITED GRAVE OF CORP. SILK
Thomas W. Johnson of 437 Andover street has had an opportunity to visit the grave of Corp. Gerald Silk of Haverly F. who was killed in action in 1918. The grave is located in Belleau cemetery, according to Mr. Johnson. The latter is in Europe for the purpose of making a visit to his old home in northern England.

ENROLLED FOR EVENING WHAT'S MATTER ANYWAY? SCHOOL WORK

A total of 237 men and women enrolled for evening school work at the Lincoln grammar school last night. The opening of an evening school here is more or less of an experiment, but after last evening's heavy registration there was no doubt left in the mind of Principal D. Murray Cummings that the courses were wanted. Another registration session will be held at the school Thursday evening beginning at 7 o'clock.

Last evening's registration was divided as follows: Dressmaking, 125; millinery, 117; Americanization work, 35; and parliamentary course, 17. Foreign born persons who cannot speak English will find an opportunity to become versed in the language by joining one of the Lincoln school classes. There will also be special classes for young men and women planning to take civil service examinations.

There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves. Nuxated Iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and you will be surprised to find that it will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results.

NUXATED IRON For Red Blood, Strength and Endurance

BY WALTER C. TEAGLE
President, Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey

I was a little surprised to learn from your question that there is such a difference of opinion among authorities as to the real cause of unemployment and business depression.

Not being an authority on economic conditions, perhaps I am wrong in considering only the obvious reason for the contraction suffered in nearly every line of trade.

I cannot call any financial wizardry to my aid, nor coin any epigrams to make the present business situation appear the result of mysterious or hidden causes.

To me it resolves itself into nothing more nor less than the convalescent stage following a period of financial and commercial excesses. There may be any number of contributing causes, but they are the kind of troubles that we always have with us, even in times of greatest prosperity.

Cost of the War
The lowest authoritative estimate that I have seen of the actual money cost of the war—that is, the direct tangible loss outside of the fearful toll of human lives—is 176 billion dollars. I believe that eminent economists estimate the direct and indirect costs to date at more than 235 billions of dollars. A large part of that represents actual wealth forever destroyed.

With the world just emerging from the greatest calamity in history, it is not so remarkable that there has been a period of all kinds of business, financial and labor troubles, contributing to what we call a depression, but that we have done so well in meeting our troubles and working back towards normal prices and normal living.

A small boy and a hammer can make a perfect machine, representing months of work by skilled artists, worthwhile in five minutes. The work of half a century had come into the system of domestic and international trade which was disrupted overnight by the war. Business friendships of long standing were broken.

It is not necessary to review the train of evils that followed the withdrawal of millions of men from productive pursuits for the purpose of war. Wage scales were abandoned, efficiency suffered, people swung from economy to extravagance and many other evils quickly developed.

The contraction necessary to a return to a sane life is, of course, painful. It is not easy to return to the simple life abandoned under the intoxicating influence of sudden and abnormal prosperity.

Nevertheless, it seems to me that we have made progress toward normal conditions and I hope we have passed through the worst of the re-adjustment trials. There must be a still further reduction in costs of manufacture and distribution and in all living costs. I see no reason to expect an immediate return to what we regard as prosperity in this country, but our gain will be greater if we work out our salvation slowly, giving time to make the readjustment more nearly uniform in all lines of activity.

Forty delegates will go from the Lowell district to the annual convention of the Massachusetts Sunday-school association at Brockton, as stated on the program now being issued by the secretary, Rev. E. M. Ferguson. He has asked the district president, Rev. J. E. Kennedy, Lowell, to distribute programs and lead the delegation from this district. The convention which opens Tuesday evening, October 15th and closes at noon on Friday 21st, will have unusual motion picture, musical, dramatic and institute features, with many noteworthy addresses, including three by Margaret Slattery.

The latest novelty for pleasure is a phonograph camera combination.

This Letter Will Tell You How

"I suffered terribly every month, and was always tired and nervous, and I had indigestion, and often could not do a thing. I was this way about two years, and had to stay home with my mother. I tried several medicines, then I found a book of yours, and mamma told me to try the Compound. So I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it certainly worked wonders with me. I have taken six bottles of it, and am still taking it when I feel the need of it. I have already recommended it to a number of working girls, who are taking it. I am working now, and stand up all day and feel fine. I am glad to say that Pinkham's medicine did a lot for me and for my mother, and we only wish we had taken it a long time before."—Rose Schoeff, 4576 Annunciation St., New Orleans, La.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Schoeff works for her living, but on account of sickness was obliged to stay at home for two years. During this period she suffered terribly at times. She tried several medicines without finding relief. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood may depend on your health. So try

BOY INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

Motorcycle Officer Kivlan made a sensational ride through Merrimack square at about 12:15 o'clock this afternoon, his object being to capture a man in an automobile whom he believed to be escaping after striking a boy. The officer sped through the square at about 50 miles an hour, dodging through automobiles, electric cars and pedestrians, and managed to get through without hitting any one or anything and finally caught up to his man on the East Merrimack street bridge. He did not stop the party, however, as the latter had the injured boy in his machine and was rushing him to St. John's hospital.

The driver of the car was Roy O. Wilbur of 172 Shaw street, while the injured boy was Barker Lyons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of 55 Branch street. The accident occurred near the corner of Branch and Smith streets shortly after 12 o'clock, when the Wilbur claims, the boy ran into the path of his machine. Wilbur, according to his own statement to the police, was operating his machine at about 18 or 20 miles an hour when the collision occurred. At the hospital it was found that the lad was suffering from a deep cut on the right side of the face as well as other abrasions about the head. After receiving first aid treatment the little fellow was taken to his home.

THEATRE MANAGERS AND EMPLOYEES

The first definite step to bring about a settlement of the differences between local theatre managers and their musicians, stage hands and moving picture operators was taken this morning when a delegation representing the Musicians' union called upon Mayor Perry D. Thompson to enlist his services in bringing about harmony between the theatre men and their employees.

For the past few months most of the local theatres have operated on the open-shop basis because of the alleged refusal of their union employees to accept a wage reduction. The mayor did not bring a settlement at today's conference, but opened the way for negotiations with the theatre managers. He will make an effort to get in touch with the latter this evening and then bring both parties together tomorrow.

REGISTRATION AT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

The first session of registration for the men's classes at the Lowell Vocational school was held last evening with a normal enrollment of students according to Principal Thomas F. Fisher. Another registration session will be held this evening from 7 to 9. Regular classes in automobile repairing, electricity, carpentry, cabinet making, stationery engineering (for both men and women), machine shop, practice and plumbing are to be conducted. The classes open next Monday and Tuesday evenings. There will be two sessions per week for each class, some attending school Monday and Thursday and others Tuesday and Friday.

The corps of teachers for the evening classes has been completed. Chester Macdonald will teach the theory of electrical work. The automobile repairing class for chauffeurs and garage men and a special advanced course in the same subject will be under the direction of John J. Gildea. John J. McGuinness will be in charge of plumbing classes and Mr. Fisher says that the accommodations for this class will be better than those available last year. Fred Wiggin will have charge of the carpentry and cabinet making classes.

The firemen's class will be under the direction of Daniel Callahan, and Edwin Wells will be in charge of the engineering class. All their courses are known as extension courses and will be open to men who are employed in related work during the day.

Trying to Avoid Accidents

Humorous sides overshadowed everything else connected with them. It was agreed that at a certain hour yesterday morning whistles and bells should proclaim the start of No Accident week. One man, unaware of what was going on, heard the noise and started on the run across Merrimack square. Part way across the street he was slightly bumped by an automobile. Stopping he inquired what the whistles were blowing for and he was laughingly informed of their mission.

Another man drove his automobile up in front of a store. He drove it pretty close to the curb. Turning around he noticed a man standing near the rear mudguard waving his arms for the driver to back up. His companion replied, "This is No Accident week, so you had better back the car up a bit."

the rear wheel is on one of his feet." While other communities have not been as fortunate as Lowell in the matter of keeping down accidents, the general opinion is they are being averted more than ever and that everyone is trying to co-operate in the movement.

Pay of City Laborers Held Up

All are requested to register in their city or town and they may be employed in their order of registration on the last one work in three or four. It is believed this method will give employment without prejudice or favor. Commissioner Dana states the civil service rule has not been suspended. In some places the appeal of Gov. Cox to give immediate employment was taken to mean the barriers had been let down. This is not so, the commissioner states.

Lowell officials have just applied to Dana for 75 laborers and it is believed at the state house the trouble between Dana and the Lowell officials will be speedily ironed out.

GENERAL MISUNDERSTANDING

The above dispatch from Boston seems to clear up the general misunderstanding in regard to the civil service laws and employment question. A short while ago the news came out that certain parts of the civil service laws would not be strictly enforced. This was interpreted to mean the civil service laws had been suspended for the time being.

The statement coming from Commissioner Dana today, however, clears up the situation and leaves no doubt in the minds of any what is expected by the commission.

It is also noted that Commissioner Murphy's request made in Boston that he would not have to immediately discharge his laborers was granted. When Commissioner Murphy was called to Boston on the question he was asked to discharge the employees at once who were not connected with the civil service.

Mr. Murphy emphasized the fact it would be almost impossible to comply with the order and asked that he be given a short while to do their bidding.

City Council Holds Meeting

months as it will if the job is completed in small sections.

City Engineer Stephen Kearney was of the opinion that the problem could be solved by starting street railway traffic over the track already completed—the outbound track—and then have the company work on the other track, leaving the rest of the bridge open. As soon as the second track has been completed, the rest of the bridge could be closed. He felt that the job was one which required three operations instead of two.

He said that he had taken a traffic census of vehicular traffic over the bridge and had found that on an average, 300 vehicles cross the structure every hour. When the street railway traffic is at its height, approximately 15,000 people ride across the bridge daily. At the present time, the average is about 10,000.

Mr. Wier said that he hoped the council would make an early decision on the matter as he intended to begin work tomorrow morning on the part of the bridge not yet finished.

It was finally agreed to delay action until the consulting engineer on the job, Prof. Lewis E. Moore, can come here and give his opinion. Prof. Moore will come to Lowell tomorrow and the council will be ready to say just how much of the bridge may be closed by Thursday morning when a special meeting will be held.

The meeting was called at 10:05 a. m. and began.

A hearing was held on the petition of the Massachusetts Oil and Refining Co. for the erection and maintenance of a distributing station on Tanner street. A. M. Bruce, representing the company, said that the building would be strictly fireproof and would be removed from any neighboring buildings to avoid any danger. He said that the erection of the building would bring more taxable property to the city and would also afford employment. He said that three tanks are to be located in the building and that these have been approved by the state police. He explained that a concrete dividing wall was to be built which would withstand three times the capacity of the three tanks.

F. P. Cheney said he wanted to get a statement from his insurance company relative to the effect of the proposed building on rates in that district before he would approve the project. He was assured that there would be no increase, he would not oppose the petition.

The matter was referred to Commissioner Salmon.

A petition from the same company for a license to maintain a garage in Tanner street for the use of its own machines was also referred to Commissioner Salmon.

The petition of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. for permission to erect three poles in State street was opposed by four women living in that street who felt the thoroughfare too narrow for the placing of poles. The proposed poles are to provide service to James Danahy, living at 22 State street. The petition was referred to Commissioners Murphy and Marchand.

The petition of the Lowell Electric Light corporation for permission to locate four poles in Endicott street was referred for a hearing Oct. 11.

Then came the lengthy discussion relative to the closing of Central bridge and after the matter had been disposed of, Mr. Wier requested the council to authorize a special committee composed of the commissioner of streets and highways, the city engineer and the city solicitor, to consider the Engineering & Construction Co's bill for extras for the month of August, amounting to about $5000. He said that only $3500 of this amount has been approved by the council, which is a smaller percentage than was approved in the July bill for extras. The council property damage conservatively estimated at $50,000,000.

The Anhwei catastrophe followed the famine in the seven northern provinces of the republic in which millions literally perished, and the earthquake in Kansu province, in which 40,000 people are estimated to have been killed by tremors that devastated entire counties.

The floods in Anhwei cut rail connections between Shanghai and Tien Tsin and Peking. Wesley M. Smith of the Southern Methodist mission at Changshu, Kiang Su province, who traveled across 100 miles of the flooded area, was the first arrival here to bring an eyewitness account of the disaster.

The flood district, according to Mr. Smith, lies about 60 miles north of Nanking. It is low fertile country and was thickly populated, contained numerous villages and several walled cities of thousands of inhabitants. The inundation occurred when Hungze lake and some of its tributary rivers overflowed.

Refugees gathered on the railway embankments in the flooded area with their belongings and so closely were these unfortunate packed on these restricted islands in the midst of the watery wastes that numbers were killed by relief and construction trains.

Similar floods devastated this district in 1900 and 1916, following which measures to prevent a recurrence of the inundations were suggested by the American Red Cross in China. The plans fell through, however, when the Chinese provincial authorities demanded complete control of the work and the funds to be provided for it.

Plan to Extort Money Denied

Denies Extortion Charge

The extortion charge has been disposed of. It was intimated today by action of the San Francisco grand jury, which last night heard Semmacher's story and "placed it on record." Semmacher denied to the grand jury that he had any knowledge of a plan to extort money from the defendant, as was alleged by Frank Dominguez, chief counsel for Arbuckle. Dominguez intimated Semmacher when he took to Los Angeles torn articles of clothing which had been worn by Miss Rappé.

To Sue Arbuckle's Lawyer

The grand jury hearing was sought by District Attorney Matthew Brady at Semmacher's request. Semmacher was the only witness. Dominguez and others of Arbuckle's counsel were invited by Brady to appear before the grand jury but no subpoenas were issued.

As he left the grand jury room, Semmacher told a group of newspapermen, suit for defamation of character would be filed against Dominguez.

Judge Bars Questions

Testimony concerning past actions of Mrs. Bambina Delmont, who swore to the complaint charging Arbuckle with murder, will not be allowed to proceed beyond the point relevant to the case on trial, Judge Sylvain T. Lazarus declared. He denied permission yesterday to Arbuckle's attorneys to proceed with questions they said would show details of a friendship tion, and neither will I intercede to Mr. Goodwin, chairman of the motor registration commission, for automobile operators whose licenses have been revoked by the commission. It is high time careless and reckless driving was curbed. Here we are observing "No Accident" week and yet one reads of automobile accident after automobile accident, all due to loss of speed and utter carelessness on the part of drivers. I received a letter this morning commenting on this subject which discloses the sad information that last year 2700 human lives were snuffed out through automobile accidents. That is a base shame.

John Smith, who used to manage Lowell baseball teams back when the New England League used to play time on the Fairgrounds led the Manchester Police against the Lowell Firemen on the South common yesterday. And the success Smith used to enjoy was not interrupted in this contest as the bluecoats downed the smoke-eaters in an abbreviated game by a score of 3 to 2. The Lowell team was also managed by an old Lowell leaguer in the person of Pete Regan. The game went but seven innings as the players were delayed on route and did not get here until after three o'clock.

After the first inning, in which the visitors scored five runs, the contest was a work for the day. In the second but after this their scoring was limited to a single marker, this coming in the sixth.

The local firemen were unable to do much with the starts and shoots of Flanagan. The visiting hurler, Norio, was Flanagan a dandy pitcher but he was out of the game doing the receiving in the last two innings while Sarate dished out.

Callahan started in the box for the local nine but it was not his day and he gave way to Symonds in the third. "Big" not only did well on the mound but he led the local batting attack getting a triple and two doubles in his three trips to the pelting station. Johnny Tighe called the balls and strikes in an effective manner. The game, play by play, follows:

First Inning—Manchester, Hempton walked, Hempton caught off first but Christie dropped the runner taking second. Smith hit by pitched ball. Flanagan hit one too fast for Thomas. All hands safe. Langley singled, scoring Hempton and Smith. Sarate doubled scoring Flanagan and Langley. Clayton struck out. Souso singled to left scoring Sarate and went to third on Scully's error. Kane went out on fly to first. Five runs, 1 hit, 2 errors.

Lowell—Le Cam struck out. Regan struck out. Callahan was safe on Souso's error. Symonds tripled to center, scoring Callahan. Thomas fanned. One run, one hit, one error.

Second Inning—Manchester—Marston walked. Hempton doubled to right, scoring Marston. Smith singled to right. Flanagan hit to Callahan and Smith was forced at second. Langley walked. Sarate singled off Callahan's foot and Marston and Hempton counted. Clayton fanned. Souso went out. Regan to Christie. Three runs, 3 hits, no errors.

Lowell—Sarate booted Christie's grounder. Farrell fanned. Christie stole second. Tighe fanned. Christie was out stealing third. No runs, no hits, one error.

Third Inning—Manchester—Symonds, now pitching for Lowell, Callahan in center field. Kane walked. Hempton fanned. Smith singled over second. Flanagan singled to center. Langley flew out to Callahan. No runs, 2 hits, no errors.

Lowell—Scully fanned. Le Cam went out. Flanagan to Hempton. Regan fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning—Manchester—Sarate walked Clayton into a double play. Symonds to Regan. To Christie. Souso popped to Thomas. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Lowell—Callahan fanned. Hempton fanned. Symonds doubled to left. Thomas fanned. Christie fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Inning—Manchester—Kane was hit by pitched ball. He stole second. Marston singled to center. Hempton fanned. Smith popped to Christie. Flanagan popped to Regan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Lowell—Farrell fanned. Tighe singled to left and went to third on Marston's error. Tighe came in on a hit. Scully fanned. Le Cam walked. He stole second. Regan doubled to left, scoring Le Cam. Regan went out stealing third. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Sixth Inning—Manchester—Langley flew out to Callahan. Sarate doubled to right. Clayton singled to center, scoring Sarate. Kane fanned.

Lowell—Sarate pitching—Flanagan catching, Langley at short for the runs. Callahan fanned. Symonds doubled to left. He was caught off second. Thomas fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Seventh Inning—Manchester—Marston fanned. Hempton fanned. Smith fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

WILHELM AIDS INDIANS IN FIGHT FOR TITLE

"Dutch" Wilhelm, "the man with a million football friends," who played half back on Jim Thorpe's Canton Bulldogs in 1916, and who this season will play and assist in the coaching of the local Indians, is very confident that the Lowell boys will be successful in their drive for the state championship.

For several years the Indians have been regarded as among the leading eleven in Massachusetts, and have played some of the strongest and most prominent clubs in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

With the opening of the present season, Wilhelm has shown great ability, not only as a player, but as an instructor. He has given the local a number of tricks and has been the Indian coach and the management promises that local fans will see many innovations when the team takes the field this season.

The Indians will open their season Sunday with the famous Rosindale eleven as opponents. The Rosindale team is regarded as one of the strongest in the state, and a victory for the Indians will mean much to the local team. In addition to Wilhelm, the following men will appear with the Indians in the opening battle: Melntyre, Loucraft, Bull, O'Connell, Spence, R. Donnellan, Keenan, O'Halloran, White, Whitehead, E. Donnellan, Matthews, Toye, Harran, Grady, Turner, Neary, J. Linton, Williams and Locke.

Practice will be held tonight. The members of the squad are expected to meet at 7:30 sharp.

On the Other Hand

By GROVE

Ban Johnson, president of the American League, declared he was in favor of a return to normalcy in admission prices for the world series games and that he would like to restore the 50-cent bleacher seats which are rating at a dollar.

Ban got the idea. He knows where the real fan who will stand all day in line and root his head off in the hot sun.

Ban ought to learn to for nothing.

Little Tex Rickard sat in the corner. Rating a million-dollar pile. He had pulled out a stem.

GIVE HIM CREDIT

Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass., has just failed in his fifth attempt to win the Pulitzer prize.

Sullivan last tried to cross September 3 from Denver, but was forced to stop at the airport about 10 miles from the prize.

Henry deserves all the credit in the world. Most of those who cross the ocean in a small boat do so to see the prize.

Oh, yes—a-s-a-h-a-b-y by the way. May was the pennant in the Three-Days.

ONE LEFT

Sullivan's bid to win the Pulitzer prize was the last of the 10 bids in the new rules of the New York state boxing commission.

All there is left is the handshake, which solves the wrestling question.

Frisch Revives the Lost Art

By ROY GROVE

Frankie Frisch, the youth who this season has revived the lost major league art of base stealing, brings an interesting angle into the world series.

Can he duplicate the feats of stars of the past? Or has world series base stealing gone into the discard along with the strikeout kings?

Frisch, third baseman with the Giants, has stolen more than 30 bases on National league pitchers this year, almost double the thefts of his nearest competitors in both circuits.

And now Frisch is going into the world series to face the cream of American league pitchers. What'll he do? How good will he be?

Based on standards of bygone years Frisch's record for the season should be good for half a dozen thefts in the big tilt. But on the face of things in the past few seasons, he'll be lucky to collect two.

Eddie Collins is the premier thief among world series players, speaking of base thefts, of course. The White Sox speed merchant has figured in six of the full classics and has a grand total of fourteen sacks checked up to his credit.

Even Eddie is finding the going of recent years more difficult. One stolen base was the best he could do against Cincinnati in the series with the Reds in 1915, although he had no difficulty in working Cub pitchers for four sacks when with the Athletics in the 1910 series.

Back in 1907, Slagle of the Cubs stole six bases during the world series against Detroit, and two years later Flanagan, the doctory Pirate veteran, duplicated the feat against the same team.

In 1920 Wagner stole second three times in the third game of the series. In the fifth game Flanagan went to first when he was hit by a pitcher. He swiped second and third. By this time the pitcher was excited and Flanagan worked him into throwing the ball over the third baseman's head and then scrambled home.

In the Cub-Detroit series in 1903, when he was hit by a pitcher, he swiped second and third. Then he stole second and third, and he and Roseman nearly got away with a delayed double steal.

Who do you hear of ambling all the way around without a hit in the classics of today?

In the world series of 1920 between the Indians and Dodgers there were only three stolen bases in the seven games. In the series of 1915 one base was stolen by each team, duplicating the record made in the series of the year before.

Compare that to the 1907 series between the Cubs and Detroit when batters stole 25 bases. Or the series two years later when 24 pilfered sacks were registered.

How come? Pitching? In the heyday of base stealing, when the players were running riot on the sacks, they were facing such pitchers as Mathewson, Coombs, Marquard and other greats, whose performances in the box have stood unequalled.

It isn't pitching. It is simply better fielding. It is simply better knitted teamwork among the catchers for the world title. The team work has tightened up and the boys are all around the second and third base work to better understanding with the catchers.

They sat on the bags in the 1916 series—Boston and Brooklyn only got a base apiece.

Slagle copped 6 bases in the 1907 series.

Honus Wagner stole 6 bases in the 1909 series.

Ruth With 58 Homers to Credit Out To Make It 60 For Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—With a total of 58 home runs hit this year, Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees today was pointing toward a mark of 60, which he hopes to attain before the season closes. He has five games in which to reach the three score figure.

Ruth walloped the ball for two circuit clouts in the game against Cleveland yesterday. A two-bagger game him a perfect batting average. He also hit two homers in one day last year off Pitcher Rommel of the Philadelphia Athletics on Sept. 27.

In the four games just finished against Cleveland, the president of the Home Run club, averaged .727 with the bat, making eight hits for a total of 18 bases.

141,000 Saw New York-Cleveland Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A total of 141,000 persons—a new attendance record for four consecutive baseball games—passed through the turnstiles to see the New York-Cleveland series just finished at the Polo Grounds. The figures made public today by Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, did not include 1500 "dead heads" per day, so that the number of persons who actually saw the games was 147,000.

Approximately 32,000 were present Friday; 33,000 Saturday; 41,000 Sunday and 30,000 yesterday. Thousands were turned away from the park Sunday. The best world's series attendance record was in 1912 when 136,996 fans witnessed the first four games between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox.

Yankees and Giants Widen Gaps Between Runners-up in League Races

Ruth's Batting, Miller's Fielding and Mays' Pitching Features in Yesterday's Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Father Knickerbocker's two major league baseball clubs, Yankees and Giants, breathed easier today than they have for quite a spell. They could look back at their nearest rivals, the Cleveland Indians and the Pittsburgh Pirates, respectively, without seeing them so close at their heels.

The Yanks were 15 steps ahead of the world's champions from Ohio and the Giants were 10 steps ahead of the Pirates.

Two more victories out of four games for the Yankees and the pennant will be theirs, even though the Pirates are successful in all their remaining games. If the Yankees win three of five games left on their schedule, they will be the American league champions despite the possible sweep by Cleveland in their final four-game series with the Chicago White Sox.

The Yankees may not find the going so easy today with St. Louis as their opponents, especially if Urbain Shocker, their old rival, twice against them, beats them several times this season.

At the Polo grounds yesterday and served notice on Manager Huggins' men that he means to pitch today and beat them.

The 3 to 7 victory for New York over Cleveland yesterday made it three out of four in the "little world's series." Featuring the final trilling battle was Ruth's batting, Miller's spectacular fielding and Mays' pitching. Ruth hit two homers and a double. Miller saved the game for the Yankees in the eighth by a shoestring catch off Speaker's bat, with two runners on base. Mays, who won Sunday's game, relieved Hoyt in the eighth and kept the Indians from scoring. Burns, Cleveland's first baseman, made the most hits of the game, four, and a triple in five times at bat.

The 3 to 7 victory for New York over Cleveland yesterday made it three out of four in the "little world's series." Featuring the final trilling battle was Ruth's batting, Miller's spectacular fielding and Mays' pitching. Ruth hit two homers and a double. Miller saved the game for the Yankees in the eighth by a shoestring catch off Speaker's bat, with two runners on base. Mays, who won Sunday's game, relieved Hoyt in the eighth and kept the Indians from scoring. Burns, Cleveland's first baseman, made the most hits of the game, four, and a triple in five times at bat.

High Lights in His Film Career as Told by Bill Hart's Pinto Pony

"THE BOSS LED ME UP TO A HIGH PLACE"

BY BILL HART'S PINTO PONY
(Copyright, 1921, by Wm. S. Hart)

You folks wuz never up in the Chatsworth country, wuz ye? There must a bin a terrible row up there sometime between the earth an' the stars an' such things, 'cause that country is just a bunch o' dry arroyos an' draws, an' big rocks, boulders that go so high they shut out the sun. Well Chatsworth wuz where we had our next little affair—me and the boss.

We wuz ta do a stunt for "The Narrow Trail." The boss he wrote the story for himself an' I copped it.

Well, this wuz some stunt when I looked at it first. I just couldn't believe my eyes. They had found a canyon where a tree about a hundred feet long had fallen across, an' on the far side, it wuz only wide enough for the branches to grow out o' it, an' way down below, more feet than I kin count wuz the bottom—all rocks, too.

The boss he led me up to the high place where the thick end o' the tree wuz an' just let me contemplate. It didn't take me long to do it.

Bad Luck Horsehoe

I said, right quick, "What are you aimin' ta take me home in—a wagon or a truck or are you goin' ta bury me right there in the rocks?" He didn't say a word, an' then I cut loose, 'cause I know'd I had him an' I rubbed it in. You see they could a got rubber shoes for me but they didn't an' the boss—he blamed himself for not doin' it personal, an' with a whole lot o' reason, too.

Easy To Take Yeast Vitamon In Tablet Form

QUICK SURE RESULTS FOR THIN, RUN-DOWN FOLKS—BETTER HEALTH AT SMALL COST

To at once increase energy and put on fat, set the stomach, but, on the contrary, is a firm, "stay-there" flesh, thousands of thin, nervous, run-down folks have turned to the new tablet form of true yeast-vitamins, known to druggists as Mastin's VITAMON. This supplies a proper dose of all three vitamins (A, B and C) and is so highly concentrated that results are quick and wonderful. Mastin's VITAMON mixes with your food, helps it to digest and provides the health-giving strength-building nourishment that your body must have to make firm tissue, strong nerves, rich blood and a keen, active brain. It will not cause gas or upset the stomach, but, on the contrary, is a great aid in overcoming indigestion or chronic constipation. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish as if by magic, leaving the complexion clear and beautiful. So remarkable are the benefits from these highly concentrated VITAMON tablets that entire satisfaction is absolutely guaranteed or the small amount you pay for the trial will be promptly refunded. Be sure to remember the name Mastin's VITAMON—the original and genuine yeast-vitamins tablet—there is nothing else like it, so do not accept imitations.

You can get Mastin's VITAMON Tablets at all good druggists, such as Dows' drug store, F. H. Butler & Co., P. N. Brunelle, Liggett Stores—Adv.

ROMANCE ALWAYS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Ruth Agnes Abelring set out to prove that romances do occur in real life. She asked several well known women to tell her the story of their romances. Their answers prove her theories correct. Here are three of the "real romances"—there will be more later.

REAL ROMANCES I

It was at Lake Masinkukce that Mrs. Richard Edwards of Peru, Indiana, first vice president of the League of Women Voters, first glimpsed her husband.

"I think I was all of 12," says Mrs. Edwards, "and was visiting at the cottage of a friend of Mr. Edwards' mother. He was sent over to call on me and his report of the call is that I turned my back on him and looked out of the window until just before he left, when, according to his mother's command, he invited me to go sailing."

At that, the story goes, little Marie Stuart, as Mrs. Edwards was then, condescended to glance at the lad and found that "even though he was snubbed and freckle-faced, he was rather nice."

Three years later they met again at the lake, and, says Mrs. Edwards: "The lake played so big a part for each of us that we eventually spent our honeymoon there and go back each fall for a week at that time of the year."

"We have started the next generation in, because my son is not only learning to swim and sail on Masinkukce as his father did, but he goes to summer Woodcraft school at Culver."

REAL ROMANCES II

Madame Kolator, Prague, Y.W.C.A. worker, smiles reminiscently.

"We had such obstacles to overcome," she confides, with a biting little laugh. "My husband's father was a minister of one faith and my father was a minister of another. His father brought him one Sunday to hear my father and we saw each other across the church. We were just children. After church, while our preacher fathers shook hands and talked, we became acquainted."

"Then the difficulties began! We each had to go to our different churches and as our friendship grew our parents tried harder than ever to direct us toward people in our own churches."

"But love finds a way," says Madame Kolator. "And we finally

NO more of the back-breaking rubbing that used to leave you utterly exhausted after washday.

A few hours' soaking in Rinso suds takes the place of all this needless drudgery.

Rinso is the new soap product that loosens and dissolves the dirt from even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash. It gets the clothes sweet and clean without injury to a single fabric. You don't have to rub anything but the very soiled spots such as neck-bands and cuffs, and those just lightly.

Don't rub your youth away. Get Rinso today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Perfect in washing machines

With Rinso you don't have to do any rubbing. Follow regular directions given here. After soaking the clothes, wring them into machine full of hot water to which has been added enough fresh Rinso solution to make a good suds. Operate machine and rinse clothes. No other soap product is needed when Rinso is used.

DISSOLVE: For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in two quarts of boiling water. Where water is hard or clothes extra dirty use more Rinso.

POUR INTO TUB: of lukewarm water—mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in.

Then let your clothes soak and rinse without any hard rubbing—Soak one hour—two hours—overnight—whatever time is convenient. These wonderful suds loosen every particle of dirt, Rinso to remove the loosened dirt, till water runs clear.

REAL ROMANCES III

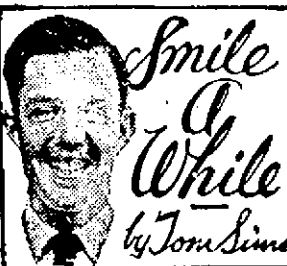

REV. MARY SIBBITT

But for a bit of paper fluttering in a Kansas roadway years ago, a certain young girl might never have become Mrs. Mary Sibbitt of Wichita, Kan., organizer of the International Woman Ministers' association.

"I put a blanket on a young colt belonging to my father and, hopping on its back, I started for a neighbor's home," says Mrs. Sibbitt. "A small piece of paper, fluttering in the road in front of a house which I had to pass, frightened the colt. He shied, reared and I slid off."

"A young man rushed out of the house, thinking I was hurt. He was visiting there from the east and wasn't used to seeing girls ride that way. I was up before he reached me, but we chatted a minute as I thanked him. In a few days he came to my house and brought to our home by his friends, and how could such a romantic beginning and otherwise than in marriage?"

THE MOTORCYCLE AND BICYCLES

Eighty per cent of the motorcycle accidents in Massachusetts since the first of the year would not have occurred if the riders had observed these two simple rules:

Don't attempt to speed until you are an experienced driver.

Keep your speed down when there are curves ahead, when you are between streams of heavy traffic, and when weather conditions are bad.

Many of the bicycle accidents are caused by a boy catching hold of a motor truck with one hand while driving with the other. When the truck takes a new angle of direction the boy is thrown into the path of another motor vehicle.

Bicyclists should also be cautioned to watch out for a law that went into effect this summer, and that is still unenforced in many communities. It requires all bicycle riders to display a light at night and reads as follows: "Chapter eighty-five of the General Laws is hereby amended by striking out section thirteen and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 13—Whoever, without such a permit, rides a bicycle in on upon a public way, as part or part of land or driveway appurtenant to a public reservoir, at a rate of speed exceeding ten miles an hour, or rides it in or upon any such place without a suitable alarm bell adapted for use by the rider or, during the period from one half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise without a light attached to the bicycle, visible from the front and rear, or rides it on a sidewalk, shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty dollars, and shall be further liable for all damages occasioned to any persons thereby."

QUICKLY REGAINS STRENGTH AFTER ATTACKS OF PLEURISY

Pennsylvania Woman, Long Suffering From Weakness and Run-down State of Health, Attributes Her Remarkable Recovery to Taking Wincarnis

Mrs. Laura Schneck, formerly of 125 West 7th street, Philadelphia, now of Bridgeport, Pa., after two attacks of pleurisy, could not regain her strength and suffered for a long time from weakness, lack of sleep and loss of appetite.

"It was for a long time in a very nervous and run-down condition," writes Mrs. Schneck. "One day I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought a bottle of Wincarnis. I soon began to notice that I was eating and sleeping much better, and after a while my nerves quieted down, and I began to feel fine, putting on flesh, which I needed, as I was very thin after my illness."

If you are weak, anaemic, nervous or run-down, start taking Wincarnis

now. You can hardly believe how much Wincarnis will help to bring you renewed health and endurance. Yet thousands of people, like Mrs. Schneck, grateful for the health and strength Wincarnis gave them, have vouched for its remarkable virtues as a tonic, reconstructive and bloodmaker.

Wincarnis is one of the oldest general tonics in existence, and has been recommended by over 19,000 physicians in all parts of the world. Buy a bottle of Wincarnis today. Sold in two sizes—$1.55 and $1.10 at all first class drug stores.

LEADING CAUSES OF ACCIDENT

It appears that in spite of every effort on the part of the people who are working to prevent accidents, the accidents will continue to occur. It is a very difficult matter to reach every body in the community with the gospel of "safety first." That, however, is what must be accomplished if we are to have any reasonable reduction in the number of accidents. It may be accomplished by the leading causes of accidents in all the walks of life. That will be done as far as possible during this "No Accident Week."

Formerly the greatest number of accidents was due to falls, to people falling from ladders, falling down stairs, falling from windows and verandas of dwellings, and falling even on level ground as a result of making a misstep or failure to look ahead.

There has been a notable reduction in the number of accidents due to falls since the adoption of the eighteenth amendment by which the liquor business was outlawed throughout the country. In recent years, however, accidents on the public streets and highways have taken the lead not only in number but in the seriousness of the results. The automobile is a new and powerful vehicle of rapid transit, let loose on the highways. A vast number of those who use this new engine have but a vague idea of the great power placed in their hands, or of the danger of running it at high speed on the public highways.

Over-speeding, reckless driving and inexperience still cause a vast number of accidents, fatal and otherwise. Pedestrians on their part, contribute to the number of accidents through sheer carelessness in the use of the public streets. It is simply astounding to consider the number of persons killed or maimed in the streets of metropolitan cities every day. Evidently they people have not yet adapted their modes of life to the new order of things in which the automobile is a great and growing factor in the business of every day life. There must be a radical reform in the regulations governing the use of this new and powerful engine so that the number of accidents may be greatly reduced and safety and security on the highways guaranteed to a much greater extent than at present.

Before the coming of the automobile the railroad appeared to lead in the number of fatal accidents throughout the country. These resulted from collisions, trains running off the tracks, persons killed at grade crossings and by walking upon the tracks, usually from taking a short cut between two points. Nowhere has the work of safety first been more successful than on the railroads. It has been well organized and successfully conducted.

As a result of safety devices in various industries, the number of industrial accidents has also been greatly reduced and it is safe to say that even minor accidents will be less numerous in the future as a result of strict regulations for safety with the insistence of care and caution in the use of rapidly moving machinery.

In the mines of the United States, there have been many disasters resulting in great loss of life, but owing to the additional measures for enforcing safety, such happenings are not nearly so numerous at the present time as in the past. Occasionally some very dreadful accidents will occur, more perhaps from the unreliability of the human element than from the fault of machinery or the lack of proper care on the part of the management.

Thus it appears that in practically every human activity except in the use of the automobile, very satisfactory progress has been made in cutting down the number of serious accidents. That the number due to the automobile is still growing, is due, of course, to the fact that the autos are still becoming more numerous. But in time the auto accidents will also be brought under control of preventive measures, but years of hard work and very many accident campaigns will be necessary to accomplish such a desirable end.

SUCCESS AT SCHOOL

Now that the schools and colleges are again at work, the students will spend much time trying to peer into the future and to divine in advance where they will finally land.

This is unprofitable business. The course of study indicates the general direction and it is only the diligent student who will reap all the benefits it offers.

The one who tries to shrink and take short cuts, is not likely to reach the end with any degree of credit.

It will not do to spend too much time in play, although excess requires a judicious combination of work and play. It is an old saying that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Play is necessary. It is essential to the health and vigor of both body and mind. The old adage of education was to have a sound mind in a sound body. That is still the great essential. The development of the physical and intellectual powers should go hand in hand so that both will attain something above their normal possibilities. The boy or man in poor health cannot succeed in mental work.

As the muscles of the body are developed by training in a gymnasium, so the intellectual powers, also, should be trained by the course of study at school and college. But the extent to which each student will benefit by this mental training will depend upon the determination with which he overcomes difficulties by hard work and self-discipline. It is this hard and long continued mental work on one difficulty after another, that makes the mental faculties capable of greater capacity, greater endurance, greater accuracy and greater facility for execution in every direction. It is therefore, a waste of time for students to keep pondering over where they are likely to land, just as if their final achievement depended upon luck alone. That will depend upon their own efforts, the vision to see conditions around them, the judgment to draw right conclusions and the willingness to persevere in the course of action taken.

CAUSES OF FAILURE

It is necessary to study the causes of failure as well as the causes of success. It is necessary to avoid the former and make the most of the latter.

There is nothing mysterious in the degree of success attained in any business or by any individual. It is measured by the energy and skill applied. This rule will explain the success or failure of every business enterprise however humble or however great.

There are about 1,500,000 business concerns in our country. In the last decade, failures have averaged 14,152 a year, or less than one in 100. Bradstreet's credit agency analyzes those failures and finds that in every 1000 failures, lack of success is due as follows:

Personal causes:
Lack of capital.....323
Incompetence.....325
Fraud.....66
Neglect.....11
Unwise credits.....12
Extravagance.....12
Speculation.....6
Outside causes:
Business conditions.....144
Failure of others.....12
Competition.....13
Incompetence heads the list. That shows the value of schooling and experience laboriously and slowly acquired.

Lack of capital comes second as a reason for failure. In most cases that can be overcome only by patient saving.

Business conditions, third in rank as a failure cause, are beyond the control of any individual. The best we can do is save a reserve fund for the lean years.

THE LABOR SAVING MACHINE

Human labor throws off another chain. Electric motors and machinery eliminate breaker boys and mules in an anthracite mine owned by the Pennsylvania Coal company.

Man is another step nearer the day when machinery will do his work. All of it? Never!

Two hundred breaker boys leave the mine. But 15 have to stay on to run the machinery. That will always be necessary, also human labor to manufacture the machinery and keep it in repair.

Human labor—work—is the price of civilization.

There will be work, as long as man survives and remains civilized. But the tendency will be to reduce the hours.

OUR NATIONAL DEBT

You shiver when our national debt is mentioned. It is about $21,000,000,000. A huge sum. Yet the interest on it is only $5.66 a year for each of us.

So with all our other national problems. They look enormous, disheartening, on the surface. But there is an enormous nation under our flag, to share the burden.

We pay $5.66 a year, each, to carry our debt. Austria pays $106.77. Germany $41.61 (not counting indemnity). France $47.76. England $38.45. Those seem large, yet small enough to be handled. Europe can come back financially—if it keeps its head, works hard and has wise leaders.

AGENDA

Japan must be satisfied about the "agenda" at the peace conference. Many, seeing the word in print, wonder if it is a drink.

"Agenda," pronounced "ajenda," is the plural of "agendum," which means a program or schedule. Japan, inquiring about it, simply wants to know what questions will be discussed at the conference.

This is an old word of dictionary used "jumps" out of the dictionary and through diplomatic channels finds its way into common use.

The disarmament conference planned to open in November is likely to put a stop to competitive armament, but the United States as the leader of the movement, will be expected to set the example in disarmament which will put this nation at a disadvantage. England and Japan will make sure that no action taken will reduce their relative standing as military powers on the war map of the world.

Members of the chamber of commerce will not be given any ready-made arguments for or against municipal socialism. It is just as well to let each member decide the question for himself on the common referendum. We can see no argument in favor of any such move in Lowell or any other American city.

Democrat leaders in congress have wisely decided not to expose the peace treaties now before the senate for ratification. The minority cannot be blamed for republican delays.

"No Accident Week" was inaugurated with a few very serious accidents. There are some things that even the National Safety Council cannot control.

During this "No Accident Week" at least for each individual make an earnest endeavor to prevent accidents. Care, caution and foresight are the great preventers of accidents.

SEEN AND HEARD

"Medicine for headache," says an adv. Good swap, but what do they want with the headache?

The neighbor who borrowed our lawnmower last spring has brought it back and wants an overcoat.

The poet who wrote "The world is so full of a number of things," must have been a home brewer.

Disarmament
"I'll never forget," said Cactus Joe, "the time Crimison Gulch declared that all its citizens ought to disarm. 'Did the boys ever see me?' he asked out the bill Tangle Tom found out where the weapons were cached and took possession. The recovery of our right to self-preservation was one of the most prolonged and agitating events in Crimison Gulch history."—Washington Star.

Right, But Wrong
Smith had been picknicking and, unfortunately, during a ramble over a hill he had strayed away from the remainder of the party. Not being able to find them after a thorough search, he set out to walk to the nearest village, about three or four miles away. After walking a good four miles in the direction he had imagined the village lay, he chanced to meet a hand from a neighboring farm. "Am I on the right road for the village?" he inquired. "Ay, woe, zur," he replied. "But ye he goin' the wrong way."—New York Globe.

Reflexive Conclusion
During the late unpleasantness in Europe a certain British regiment was ordered to occupy a devastated and desolated village. On arriving, the only living thing discovered there was a cow which was promptly commandeered for the benefit of the colonel. The adjutant was fortunate in finding a bed of strawberries to which he laid claim for his own use. As the days passed, he noticed that some of his straws appeared and he had grave suspicions as to who was responsible; he therefore wrote out and posted a notice which read: "Any one found stealing my strawberries will have his cow shot."—Everybody's Magazine.

What George Missed

"George! O, George! Come! Come!" "What's that?" George brightly sprang from his bed at the sound of his wife's voice raised in an earnest entreaty. "George! O, George!" She was in peril. She whom he loved better than life itself; his young wife, his first and only love! "George! O, O, quickly!" He scrambled into his nightgown. "Not a second must be lost. He must save her!"

"George! George! George!" At last he is on his way down, three steps at a time, to arrive, breathless, in the dining room. "Ah! George, you are too late! Too late!" "Too late," gasped George. "Yes, the baby had his toe in his mouth, and he looked so funny! Why didn't you come when I called?"—Rehebeath Sunday Herald.

Potato Unit Had Its Uses

Although the police stated that fishing was prohibited, the angler sat dangling his line over the stream. The grate keeper who approached him was surprised to notice that the line was baited with a potato. In an amused voice he asked the intruder what he was doing. "Fishing," was the reply. "You see, my health has been upset by financial worries and I came down here to see if fresh air would help me."

"Thinking that the chap was mentally deficient, the keeper went away without denouncing him. That evening the keeper was in the local tavern, talking about the potato-baited line, when in walked the intruder. "Any luck?" asked the potato-baited line. "O, fair," was the reply, as the fisherman opened his basket and displayed a large and plump trout. "You didn't catch that lot with a potato?" "O, no," said the other, coolly. "That was what I caught you with."

Arrostook County, Maine

You have known taters in patches; You have known taters in fields; You have known taters in statches; But but you know them in their fields. Whatst' you know them in their fields. Have you observed them in statches? Know them in ransoms and boundaries. Trailroads and barnloads and crates?

Then you have been to Arrostook; Then you have been to Arrostook; Some one who wasn't a potato took forethought and judgment and care to locate the world's tater garden. Hence I will need to beg pardon. Telling you things that you know.

Arrostook is bigger than Mass. is; All of it taters and grass; Taters wherever you pass; Stretching and stretching away into a bound horizon; Into a tatered beyond; Arrostook simply surprisin'— Taters of which we are fond!

Spuds are a grand institution! Spuds blessings are undiscussed! Never should there be diminution. Ever should spuds be prized. Arrostook is a good old Arrostook. Where, as all wise people know, Some one who wasn't a potato took forethought and judgment and care to locate the world's tater garden. Hence I will need to beg pardon. Telling you things that you know.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A majority of the Lowell delegates who attended the state convention of the American Union which came to a combined business with pleasure trip to the Spindle city after spending, we might say, a three day vacation or respite from their usual duties here.

When we asked one delegate the usual question that is put to a person who has been away on a trip that has a tater garden, a reply appeared to us to believe that at least one local legislator did not greatly enjoy his exposure in the convention city.

He is one of those that, general assistant, left the district in the hands of George P. Tice, who is an active member of the local post and who was selected as one of the delegates to the state convention.

Mr. Tice, although retired, out of politics, to admit it, that he was on what is usually called at a convention, a "reserving" committee.

It fell to George's lot to direct the transportation campaign of a number of "reserving" committee which was headed by George P. Tice, who is an active member of the local post and who was selected as one of the delegates to the state convention.

Further in reply on our part brought out the interesting information from Mr. Tice, although retired, out of politics, to admit it, that he was on what is usually called at a convention, a "reserving" committee.

SAYS POLICE CHIEF BATTLING CATHCARTS

PARTNER IN FIRM

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A statement that Police Commissioner Enright was in partnership with former Police Capt. Edward P. Hughes in conducting a private agency employing watchmen on piers was introduced yesterday in testimony before the Meyer legislative committee investigating municipal affairs.

James Audette, lessee of several Brooklyn piers, told of turning over the business of guarding these to Capt. Hughes when he resigned from the police department three years ago. "Hughes told me," he said, "that Enright was associated with him as a partner on a 50-50 basis. He spoke of the partnership as giving better protection, and said he could get policemen any time he wanted to if there was trouble."

Mr. Audette told of going out buying him clothes. "Once," he added, "after Hughes had introduced him to Senator Calder at a Broadway hotel, the ex-police captain said: 'Jimmie, I think you ought to give me $100 a week for coming around with you.'"

Mr. Audette said after that he never had anything to do with Mr. Hughes.

But Hughes, he declared, molested him after they severed relations. At one time having a police sergeant and six patrolmen sent to a pier to arrest Mr. Audette over disagreements had arisen between the latter and his business associates.

Both Commissioner Enright and former Police Captain Hughes last night issued denials of Audette's declaration that they operated a private agency for watchmen on a 50-50 basis.

FINED FOR ATTEMPT TO START POGROM

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Walter Dombrowski, a Russian, who, according to the police, claimed membership in the Ku Klux Klan, was fined $100 and costs yesterday for urging fellow Russians to start a pogrom in a West Side Jewish settlement.

Dombrowski, mounted on a soap box and using a two-foot section of lead pipe to emphasize his words, was inviting the Russians to join him in attacking the Jews, when two police sergeants arrested him. At the station, the sergeants testified in court, Dombrowski told him he had been instructed by a Ku Klux Klan leader to organize the pogrom. Dombrowski testified that he had been advocating an attack on the Jews, but refused to tell Judge Jacobs whether he is a member of the Klan.

voicing took place that in most cases no opposition was registered and the local man's candidate had a clear field, thereby winning unanimous recognition. It would have pleased George and the other candidates greatly if they could have returned with the news that the convention had selected him as the nominee for 1922, but when the delegation found it impossible to guarantee the necessary hotel accommodations asked by the committee in charge for the next morning, place New Bedford was chosen as the city which will next see the former service men next year.

Those who were able to make the trip and represented the Lowell Post in real live fashion were, besides Mr. Tice, Historian John J. Walsh, John P. Roane, James P. McCreedy, Martin M. McCarthy, Stephen Garity and Eli H. Hart.

Members of Bishop Delany assembly, Fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, tell me that they are looking forward to one of the largest organizations in the history of their organization on Sunday, October 9, when the annual communion of the assembly will take place in St. Michael's church at the city center. Annually, this general communion of the members is a most impressive affair. The six knights wear their full dress attire and regalia and present a most impressive picture as they march from their rooms in the Associate building. Following the mass they will return to the hotel where a communion breakfast will be served and a program of entertainment and speech making carried out. On Columbus day the assembly will take part in the big observance to be held by the Knights of Columbus in Haverhill. William H. Gallagher, faithful navigator of the assembly, looks forward to large attendances at both affairs.

Science is making such amazing strides that even the most absurd theories are being seriously considered. Being labeled "serious" is becoming a badge of honor. Walter E. Traprock writes a book, "The Cruise of the Kawa." It tells of a strange "fatu liva" bird on the South Sea Islands that lays square eggs. The National Geographic society officials think Cap may be kidding. But they are much excited and will investigate.

The colder the winter is going to be, the more nuts you'll find a squirrel storing away. Squirrel doesn't take any chances. But humans do, especially Americans. The treasury department says that the average American has only $250 savings. That's a mighty thin door to build upon in a prosperous country. That lulls us into a false feeling of security. Probably we'll soon stop saving altogether. If we didn't have periodic hard times to jolt us to our senses.

EARL TRIES TO DIVORCE WIFE

—London Society Very Much Interested

BY MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, Sept. 27.—All London society will be sitting on the sidelines this fall when the divorce courts hear the noble Cathcarts air their family troubles.

They started doing so some time ago in the newspapers. Now they are going to fight to a finish.

Earl Cathcart has filed suit for divorce from his countess. He is 59 and was married in January, 1919. His bride was much younger than

Spectacular Fire in Hyde Park

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—A spectacular fire early today destroyed a wooden building in the Hyde Park district used for manufacturing purposes. The building, a one-story structure, with equipment, was valued at $10,000. No one was injured. The Pluff Manufacturing Co., makers of gauges, and the Web Co., manufacturers of leather goods, were the principal occupants. Three alarms were necessary to get enough apparatus to fight the flames.

WANT TO CONTINUE TEN-CENT FARE

Residents and mill workers of Colinsville district in Dracont are circulating petitions requesting that the fare be continued at ten cents. The fare was raised on Oct. 1. The petitions, it is expected, will be delivered to the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. within a short time. The fare on that line went into effect on Memorial day and as one of the officials of the road said recently, this innovation was made to encourage riding to Lakeview, the only resort of the company in this part of the state, than to benefit the October 1 at which time the old two-cent fare was to be discontinued after a year.

TO PUT ON SOLID FLESH

What to eat to put vitamins in your system, increase your weight and make you strong. Scientists tell how vitamin-containing vegetables, such as lettuce, spinach and apples build weight and strength.

You cannot possess a fine figure, elegant appearance, have good color and be strong and robust-looking skins and peels of fruit and vegetables and the hulls of grain so as to get a sufficient quantity of vitamins in your blood and system as nature intended you should do. Then you should eat plenty of vitamin-containing foods, such as lettuce, spinach and apples and assist them from time to time with your meals with a little harmless, palatable "MEDIC-YEST," which is rich in vitamin E. It is a vitamin-like the vitamins in your blood, it is self and the vitamins in the cow, ox and horse get in the green grass at pasture. You know what the little blades of grass with its vitamins means to one of these creatures in flesh and strength. Just so much nature in making you strong, well and fully developed. You owe it to yourself to make this simple test: Weigh and measure yourself. Next take MEDIC-YEST with every meal. Then weigh and measure yourself again each week. The scales, mirror and tape measure won't deceive you. When you are satisfied with your gain in weight, energy and strength tell your friends about MEDIC-YEST. Tell them that what they will do for them, MEDIC-YEST will do for them. MEDIC-YEST is not a medicine, it is a vitamin. HOW FRIENDLY LONDON MOBBED CHARLIE CHAPLIN

London's greeting to Charlie Chaplin was like the victorious home-coming of a conquering hero. Tens of thousands of Londoners packed streets for blocks, as he made his way from Waterloo station in an automobile surrounded by mounted police and detectives. This picture shows a small part of the throng that welcomed the comedian. Arrow indicates Chaplin in light suit. For days he was given police protection against friendly mobbing, whenever he ventured from his hotel.

WOODROW WILSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(By Associated Press)—Woodrow Wilson fell a sick man two years ago yesterday. Since then he has passed under the shadow of death and out of the White House.

Thousands of Americans of whatever political faith, recalled the anniversary of the beginning of the former president's illness and wondered what he was doing.

Mr. Wilson, besides following the ways of a retired gentleman, with a lively interest in the world's affairs, lives by the eight-hour day which he once told congress was "advised by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting, as in the interest of health, efficiency and contentment."

He aims to have eight hours for sleep, eight hours for work, and eight hours for relaxation, and keeps to the schedule pretty fairly.

Seven o'clock in the morning is his rising time. He once again shaves and bathes alone and then takes some calisthenic exercise prescribed by his physicians as beneficial in restoring the use of nerves and muscles which were impaired during his breakdown.

He has breakfast in Mrs. Wilson's boudoir and finds that two years of illness and slow convalescence have not affected his appetite. The morning papers never are neglected whatever else may demand attention. Half a dozen of them are delivered early and Mr. Wilson reads them thoroughly.

Then comes the morning's work. About that time the mail carrier, six days a week, delivers quite a packet of letters. They come from a variety of correspondents. Old friends of the administration days write informal friendly notes or discourse on the politics of the day.

Schools and colleges ask for donations; individuals who feel the pinch of the times ask for some personal financial assistance. Others discourse on the shortcomings, as they see them, of the republican party. Autograph hunters are represented in large number. Various gentlemen who think their ailments is the same as Mr. Wilson's want to know the names of his physicians.

Mrs. Wilson invariably goes over the morning's mail with her husband. Some letters are turned over to a secretary for reply. Most of them the former president answers personally, dictating to a stenographer who comes from his law office every morning for the purpose. All of them he signs himself.

Bought White House "Used Car"

The morning's work is done in the library. The old desk and chair and table Mr. Wilson used in his study at Princeton are there. Thousands of volumes which were packed away while he was in the White House are there. Through the windows may be seen the indigo blue strip of Virginia hills where he used to go golfing, and not far away hangs a bag of golf sticks, a reminder of a better day.

The former president and his inseparable companions always have their luncheon served in the dining-room. Then comes a nap of an hour and then, unless the weather is most inclement, a motor drive.

Mr. Wilson while in the White House became attached to a certain automobile. It went back, as is the custom each year, to the manufacturer from whom Mr. Wilson bought it as a "used car." He had it painted black, with orange trimmings—Princeton colors—and in this car, which he regards as an old friend, he goes driving into the countryside.

He dislikes exploring new routes, but rather enjoys driving over the same ground about the same time. Many folk in the country look for him; one quaint old lady recently held up the car and presented a sweater which she had knitted; a little girl gave him a knitted laprobe. Frequently the car stops at a farm and takes on a load of fresh vegetables, eggs and fowl. The party is always home before dark.

Dinner is an informal affair; sometimes there are guests, always old friends or associates. Mr. Wilson no longer dresses for the occasion as he always did while president; it is en famille. But no meal in the Wilson household ever proceeds until grace is said. Mr. Wilson has always said it himself, and months ago when he was so weak he could hardly stand without aid, and his voice was almost inaudible, he steadied himself on his chair and whispered the plea for divine blessing.

Friends remember him ever at meals. Frequently a Potomac river fisherman sends him a rare specimen from his catch. Once, another friend sent him ducks out of season and paid the game warden a handsome penalty.

After dinner he goes in for reading or amusement. Once a week Mr. Wilson has a motion picture show of his own and frequently sees the feature film at the same time it is being shown at the theatres downtown.

Occasionally he goes to a vaudeville show, his party taking seats in the last row, and entering and leaving with every effort to avoid ostentation. It rarely happens, however, that somebody fails to discover the visitors and a demonstration of handclapping always results.

Writes in Bed, But Not for a Book

Evenings at home, however, are spent in the family circle. The former president and Mrs. Wilson read a book together, or perhaps Mrs. Wilson reads aloud. Sometimes it is one of the detective stories of which Mr. Wilson was said to be so fond. They do not now form as large a part of his reading as may have been the case years ago.

He takes to bed early, not to sleep, however, but to relax, to read and write. Like Mark Twain, he does much reading and writing in bed. Propped up by pillows, and with a little writing board across his knees, he reads and makes notes on some of them voluminous and in shorthand.

Nobody knows what they are about. He puts them carefully away. They are not notes for a book which many expect.

Unless Mr. Wilson changes his mind, he will write no reply to Robert Lansing or anyone else who has criticized his policies. A writer, who has been given access to Mr. Wilson's papers, of which there are almost a ton, is willing to bet that it will be his own, not Mr. Wilson's.

"I'll give you any material I have for your book," Mr. Wilson told him. "I'll answer any questions you ask; but it's your book. I don't even want to see what you write."

However the evening may be spent, however tired he may be, there is one thing the former president never neglects. It is the reading of a few verses of the Bible. When he says good night he invariably reads aloud some short passage from the book which always rests on the reading table at his bedside.

Friends and admirers ask. What is Woodrow Wilson's real condition now? He will be 65 years old next December and has passed through an ordeal which few men survive. His progress toward health must be measured with those facts in mind. His normal weight in health while he was president was 150 pounds. He shows little departure from that figure now. His eyesight is as good, although he has discarded his favorite nose glasses for spectacles. His hair has turned snow white, but it has not thinned. His appetite is too robust to please his physicians.

Last March, when he left the White House with President-elect Harding, an attendant had to place his feet on each succeeding step from the portico. The other day he sent his attendant away and climbed alone, not without some effort, into his automobile, just to see if he could do it, and seemed pleased to find that he could.

Allows No Disrespect For President

Motor nerves and muscles of his left side have given more response to treatment than was hoped for. Of course they are not fully active now. He still walks with a cane most of the time, but frequently hangs the crook over his arm and "goes it alone without my third leg," as he puts it.

Adults need even more Vitamines, yet a meal of Roast Beef, Baked Potatoes, Bread and Butter, Apple Dumpling with hard sauce and coffee fails to satisfactorily nourish the body for lack of Vitamines. You weaken, lack disease resistance, fall heir to countless minor ills—all easily banished with the wonderful Vitamines.

Now comes a highly concentrated tablet containing a proper dose of "Vitamin B" from yeast; Fat Soluble "A" "Vitamin" from Rice Hulls, combined with Glycerophosphates, Cascarine and Capsicum—A tablet easily taken, in ideal form, very economical and results most unusual, when taken in addition to regular diet.

Mr. Wilson is far from a well man today; he was far from a well man when he entered the White House over eight years ago. But during the last two years there have been times when his voice was inaudible and when he could not support himself alone. His condition today shows more improvement than his family and friends dared hope for.

There are many angles to Mr. Wilson's present-day psychology. Living in Washington, and easy of access to party friends at the capitol, he might give consultation on party policies, but he does not. Whatever a visitor may say in criticism of the republican administration, Mr. Wilson never makes a reply; he never permits anyone in his presence to speak what he regards as "disrespect for the president of the United States."

Somebody once raised the question "How do our ex-presidents live?" Col. Roosevelt had a comfortable fortune of his own, augmented by income from writings. Mr. Taft, until he became chief justice, had from time to time profitable sources of income. Mr. Wilson brought with him to the White House the small savings of a lifetime, which he preserved. During his terms in the presidency his royalties from books previously written mounted into rather handsome sums. Singularly enough, they have shown a marked slump since he left the White House. While he was president circumstances helped him save money.

The war and the suspension of social functions and entertainment were quite an item. It had been estimated that the former president's pocketbook was at least $25,000 richer because he was not called upon to wine and dine numerous dignitaries and official persons.

Upon his modest fortune he now lives simply, with an establishment of only three servants and a "used car."

ROUTING AT DUNN'S
FARM IN DUNSTABLE

A successful outing under the auspices of Court Wainwright, M.C.O.P., of North Chelmsford, was held Sunday at Dunn's farm, Dunstable. There was a large attendance, the program was very enjoyable and in fact the affair as a whole was a big success. In the course of the day a varied list of sporting events was carried out and at noon basket dinner was enjoyed. The winners of the various events were as follows:

Girls' race, won by Etta Welch; May Rousseau, second. Boys' race, won by Edward Miller; James Hinkley, second. Fifty yards backward dash for men, won by James Rayball; Henry Dunigan, second. One hundred yards walking race, won by Margaret Hogan; Esther McEnaney, second. Needle and thread race for men, won by Henry Minor; Peter McEnaney, second. Wheelbarrow race, won by James Rayball and Margaret Hogan; Henry Minor and Mary Welch, second. Peanut race won by Margaret Hogan; Margaret McEnaney, second. Combination relay race, won by James Rayball and Margaret Hogan; John Dunigan and Jennie Dunn, second. Life-saving race, won by Fred Marquette and Esther McEnaney; James Rayball and John Ward, second. Three-legged race, won by John Dunigan and Dick Welch; Henry Dunigan and Peter McEnaney, second.

The committee in charge of the event consisted as follows: Patrick S. Ward, chairman; Bartholomew Dunn, Mrs. Dunn, Arthur Rousseau, Mrs. Rousseau, Ruth Conlin, Mary Bailey, Margaret McEnaney, Mary Welch and John Bailey.

Perhaps You too
Need Vitamines

FOR STRENGTH these tablets are used by men and women as a tonic. Harmless as food—build you up quickly.

FOR THE BLOOD and complexion—enrich, purify the blood, banish pimples, carbuncles, boils and minor skin troubles quickly.

FOR STOMACH and indigestion troubles these tablets assist nature to assimilate food properly.

FOR BRAIN WORKERS who lack outdoor exercise and need a strengthening tonic to keep them fit and alert.

FOR THIN PEOPLE who wish to round out the hollow places and gain a few pounds of solid flesh and weight.

FOR CONSTIPATION, Vitamine is said to be the only cure known. As a rule, relief comes very quickly from regular use of these tablets.

FOR INVALIDS, these tablets agree with the weakened stomach, help restore vigor, appetite and strength very quickly.

Enormous Purchases of Liberty Bonds

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Further enormous purchases of Liberty bonds and Victory notes overshadowed all other dealings on the stock exchange this morning. The first hour's sales of bonds approximated $6,000,000 and fully 75 per cent of this was represented by United States government issues. 'Almost all domestic war flotations rose to the highest quotations of the year, but the feature was the Victory 4½ which advanced to 99½. This issue was taken in blocks running from small amounts to $250,000 and $400,000. One lot of $1,000,000 changed hands.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—America's trade with Europe revived somewhat during August, as compared with July but commerce between the United States and South America, as taken in the aggregate, remained almost stationary, according to figures issued today by the department of commerce. Exports to Europe last month totalled $209,000,000 as compared with a valuation of $180,000,000 in July while imports were $59,000,000 as contrasted with $57,000,000 in July.

Resigns as Chairman of Commission

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Thomas W. Page of Virginia, appointed chairman of the tariff commission by President Wilson, has resigned from the chairmanship and his resignation as chairman has been accepted by President Harding. Dr. Page, who is a democrat, is understood to have written Mr. Harding that he felt the present administration should indicate its own desire as to a chairman. He remains a member of the commission.

Two Americans Killed in Mexico

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The killing of two American mining men, H. C. Smith, Vinita, Okla., and E. B. Kilsingbury, Los Angeles, Cal., by a Mexican at Dolores, Mexico, was reported to the state department today by Harry B. Ott, vice consul at Chihuahua. His report gave no details. The Americans were employed by the Dolores Mining Co.

Demonstration at Funeral in Belfast

BELFAST, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The funeral of Murty McStocker, who was shot in the street fighting here on Saturday night, was made the occasion for a demonstration by Sinn Feiners today. The coffin, wrapped in the republican tri-color, was taken from New towards road in East Belfast, to Falls Road, street car traffic in both districts being suspended during the funeral.

Filipino Lieutenant Killed in Battle

MANILA, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—A fight between a detachment of the Philippine constabulary and a band of Moros at Parang island of Jolo, resulted in the death of a Filipino lieutenant and two members of the Moro band, according to advices here. Several were wounded.

Adventures of the Twins

TROUBLE

AND THERE HE STUCK, TAKING UP ALL THE SPARE ROOM

Cap'n Pennywinkle and Curly, his sea-horse, had had a terrible time while the Twins were away on their errand, and when they returned with the fish-net, there was the greatest commotion ever at the Cross-roads, where the fairman policeman was trying to keep order. You see, Tub Terrapin was lying flat on his sunny right in the way of traffic and everybody had to go round. Cap'n Pennywinkle was so absorbed, trying to get him out of the way, that he didn't have time to direct the other big fishes that came swimming by. The first thing he knew, the old saw-fish bumped into a big sea-weed tree, not looking where he was going at all, and the first thing everybody knew, his big sharp saw had cut the tree down and there it lay in everybody's road. As though that helped matters any, didn't Mr. Swardfish come blundering along with his long sharp nose, not looking where he was going and didn't he ram right into the big thick trunk of the seaweed tree and there he stuck, taking up all the spare room there was, nearly.

When the Twins returned, Cap'n Pennywinkle and Curly were prancing around, trying every-which-way to get Mr. Swardfish free. Mr. Swardfish had come to help and Mr. Hammerfish and Mr. Sturgeon and Mack Blacker, and I can't tell you how many more. The only thing was that all the lunatics had different ideas about cutting Mr. Swardfish loose. Mr. Shark was for eating him at once, and if it hadn't been for Cap'n Pennywinkle's magic badge, I'm afraid he would have done so.

And all on account of lazy Tub Terrapin. There, Tub lay, so unconcerned as you please.

Amusement Notes

Connecticut valley, a physician who first treated the army in the second battle of the Marne. Because of a strong personal friendship the doctor succeeded in having the captain brought to his sanitarium after his return to America where slowly but with great success he is gradually bringing him back to normal health.

Stopping at the same institution but unknown to anyone and there only to obtain knowledge of the whereabouts of a large amount of stock owned by DeFoe, are three members of the underworld, included in the trio being Miss Marion Coogan, a nurse played by Miss Marion Coogan, who is the girl DeFoe married the day before he went to war after an unfortunate quarrel temporarily severed the friendly relations between him and Fern Armstrong. Professor Candleberry, acted by Kálmán Matyas, the brainy member of the trio, follows DeFoe's wealth who cleverly follow him everywhere, everybody else also was unsuspecting of the real purpose of their activities. The last member of the trio, Mr. Higgins, a character portrayed by John Havard, first acts as a New York financier and later enters the employ of DeFoe as private secretary, cleverly disguising his identity. This member of the cast has a hard position to fill in the play but acted both parts in a highly stylish manner.

Miss Wells, the giggling young patient, constantly suffering from "love" hysterics for the young doctor, eventually falls in love with Dr. Higgins. Miss Mabel Griffith, is one of the best characters of the cast and her comedy is well received by the audience.

Dr. Higgins, the next in line, is part of Mr. Macglin, a private investigator, finds himself in several difficult predicaments throughout the play, but always rises to the occasion and his part as though he was accustomed to it in everyday life. Peters, Jack Matthews, the "English" butler, who is found to be a source of much amusement and when at the end of the play he comes to the front taking an important part in the proceedings, following the lead of the stocks and the arrests of the plotting trio, he plays his role in an efficient manner. Last night he was the recipient of much hearty applause.

The play, in three acts and two scenes, finally culminates in the revelation that DeFoe's real wife, whom he had married many years before going to war, was married to Prof. Candleberry years before. This results in the officer regaining his full mental capacity and in his marriage to the girl he loves, Fern Armstrong.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Thomas Melghan has seldom appeared in a more delightful photoplay than "Cappy Ricks," Peter B. Kyne's thrilling story of the sea, in which he is starring the first half of the week at the Merrimack Square theatre. Mr. Melghan has played in many varied roles, but in none so fascinating as the part of the seaman in this absorbing story of life on the deep.

Matt Peasley, played by Mr. Melghan, lands in San Francisco after a voyage and eventually ships as a mate on one of the freighters of the Blue Star Line. The brain and soul of the company is Cappy Ricks, former sea dog and present financier. Cappy's love for his ship is transcended only by that for his daughter, Florrie, a young lady who has a knack of getting what she wants when she wants it.

Florrie and a friend are selling tags in San Francisco for the purpose of getting funds for a seaman's home, and Peasley and his pal, one Murphy, who buy tags and are about to leave when a snick thief seizes Florrie's purse and flees. This is overcame by Peasley and the latter seizes the opportunity to become acquainted with Florrie.

Peasley and Murphy sail for the South sea on one of Cappy's ships. The captain is slain by savages and Matt takes command as first mate. He brings the craft into port where he receives word from Ricks that he is sending an older man to bring the vessel back to San Francisco.

When the new captain arrives and attempts to grasp the command of the ship from Peasley, he is thoroughly thrashed by the latter where he finds Cappy Ricks furious at the disobedience of orders. To add to Cappy's rage, Florrie decides she loves Matt and will marry him.

From this point on the action becomes increasingly absorbing. One of the exciting features is a shipwreck in which Peasley proves himself a hero. The story and the play, a production of the celebrated legend of medieval Europe, Paul Wexler, a celebrated European actor, not only wrote the scenario, but he directed the play as well. Incidentally, he plays the leading role.

The story is of the time of Emperor Rudolph of Hapsburg. The action takes place at Prague, next to the city with an edict sent forth by the emperor that all Jews must leave the city. A rabbi, famous for his magic and his sculptured image of a figure he calls the Golem and with a magic formula, vests it with life. He takes his Golem to the emperor, impresses the monarch to the magic power of the figure and following more complications within the rabbi's home, finally brings peace and relief to his fellows. The production is one of the most unusual seen in Lowell in many months.

A comedy, "The Golem," which will appeal not only to the followers of that sport, but to the general public as well, and the International News complete the bill.

LEGAL NOTICES

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Clara D. Adams, late of Lowell in said County, deceased: Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by John Harvey, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond, You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County, on the twenty-eighth day of September, A. D. 1921, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why said instrument should be admitted to probate and why said petitioner should be given public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each issue of this newspaper, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on the twenty-eighth day of September, A. D. 1921, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this ninth day of September, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one.

F. M. ESTY, Register.
